Charles Kent, of Sparks-Kent Super Market, is an old-timer in Hilltop Minstrel circles, being an active minstrel worker since 1936. His job this year of selling advertising was anything but new to him, having performed this duty many times during the past 12 years.

A member of the Hilltop Business Association and the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, Mr. Kent recalls his funniest minstrel experience, occuring several years ago, when he did a comedy hula dance.

City Slicker

A Chicagoan visiting in Oklahoma was telling of the raging blasts for which his Windy City was famous. The native listened, bored and impatient. He finally broke in,

"Don't you folks up in Chi have crowbar holes in your houses?"

"What's a crowbar hole?" asked the northern windjammer.

The native showed him several houses with a three-inch hole on each of the four sides.

"We check the weather every hour through 'em," he explained. "Just stick a crowbar through it. If it bends we know the velocity outside is normal. Of course, if it breaks in two we stay in the house."

I fully believe that most people would be more generous if only they could know in advance that they would lose nothing by it. Too many of us have lost our best friends that way.

Sold Realtors

D. E. Jacques

Hilltop realtor, D. E. Jacques, is responsible for the display of real estate advertising in the minstrel edition of The Hilltop Record. Mr. Jacques has worked hard as a part of Ira Claggett's advertising committee. A member of the Hilltop Business Association, Kiwanis Club, the Columbus Real Estate Board and the Humboldt Lodge of the Masons, Mr. Jacques has lived on the Hilltop many years. He and his wife, who were married 46 years ago, have two children living.

Ad Seller

Chet Herbert

For a number of years now Chet Herbert has taken time out from his daily duties at Herbert's Market, Broad and Burgess, to sell some ads for the annual Hilltop Minstrel edition and this year was no exception. Chet has been a long time worker in civic affairs on the Hilltop, having been a member of the Hilltop Business Association since it was founded.

A Dover, Ohio, knife-making firm made a fancy dagger like this for General Mark Clark, who carried it with him during the North African campaign. General Clark spotted a similar knife on a Dover soldier and immediately requested one.

The easiest way for a gal to fall out of love is to loan her lover some money.

There's many a tear in the heart that never reaches the eye.

Hellas: "And at the end of the letter he puts a couple of X's. What does he mean?"

Jealous: "Simple girl! It means he's doublecrossing you."

Al Jolson: There's a wonderful climate at Palm Springs.

Oscar Levant: What so wonderful about it? It's the only place in the world I know where at 8 o'clock you get sunburned, and at 4 o'clock, frost-bite.

"Say, who is this girl you are always writing to?"

"Well, to tell the truth, she is a married woman."

"A married woman! And may I ask to whom she is married?"

"My father."

Don Rice

Don Rice of Westgate Electric Co. has been hard at work for the past three weeks selling advertising for the 20th Annual Hilltop Record minstrel edition. Don, a member of the Hilltop Business Association, has been active in minstrel work since his return from service three years ago.

Freddy Helped

Dr. Fred Marsch

Dr. Fred Marsch, second vice-president of the Hilltop Business Association, has engaged in Hilltop Minstrel activities for the past three years. This year Dr. Marsch is assisting in the sale of advertising. Last year he was a member of the host committee and two years ago was a member of the all male dancing chorus. Dr. Marsch, an optometrist, has his office at 2446 W. Broad-st. He is a member of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club and is a part-time instructor at Ohio State University in the optometry school.

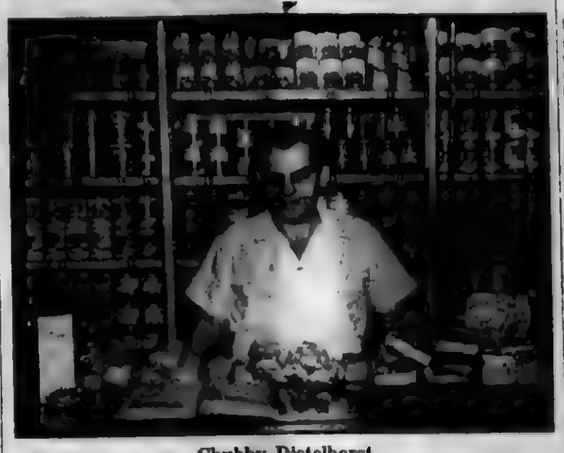
Grandpa Writes To Santa

I'm too old for bicycles,
Wagons, or skates,
But please won't you bring me
Some nice dental plates?
My looks ain't my worry,
Don't think it's conceit;
And I can sup gravy
While others eat meat
Don't think I'm complaining,
But Santa, I bristle!
All these cute looking babes,
AND I CAN'T EVEN WHISTLE!

One Way Out

A man was standing in the road holding a ram by the horns. A passerby was interested. "Will you hold onto this beast while I climb the fence and open the gate?"

"Certainly," said the passerby.



"Thanks" said the man from the other side of the fence. "That brute attacked me an hour ago, and we've been struggling ever since. I wish you the same luck in getting away that I've had."

AS TOLD BY THE CONSERVATION DIVISION

Grocer Sold Ads

Chubby Distelhorst

A Hilltop grocer who has always come through with his share of ads sold for the annual Hilltop Minstrel edition of the Record is Chubby Distelhorst, owner of the market at W. Broad-st and Eureka-av. In addition to being a good salesman Chubby is an actor in his own right. He was a star in one of the minstrel shows of a few years back when the dancing hula "girls" played an important part.

That's Different

He was writing a letter in a hotel when he accidentally upset a bottle of ink, badly disfiguring the trousers of an irascible party across the desk. He apologized profusely.

"These trousers cost me ten dollars," shouted the man, "and you are going to pay for them."

"Certainly," he answered, "if you will give me your name and address I will mail you a check as soon as I get home."

"You'll pay for them right now—this minute," the man insisted.

Although he was somewhat short of ready cash he counted out the ten. "Now," he said, "I will take my trousers."

"Very well," answered the man, "if you give me your name and address I will mail them to you."

"No," he said, "I want them right now—this minute."

The man grinned sheepishly. "Say," he said, shoving back the ten dollars, "I guess it will be all right if you will mail me that check."

"London is the foggiest place in the world."

"Oh, no, it's not. I've been in a place foggier than London."

"Where was that?"

"I don't know where it was, it was so foggy."

A Fool Was There

A woman dragged her unwilling husband to a dance, and after an evening of stumbling and stepping on her feet she barked at him, "You've simply got to take dancing lessons."

"Aw," he protested, "there are lots of other ways I can make a fool of myself."

"That's right," she agreed, "but you've tried all those!"

The early bird may get the worm
But I think I'll just lie quiet.
I don't like the things—they twist and squirm
So I'll try some other diet.

DOWN MEMORY LANE

R. H. S.: "I remember when unruly kids on the farm (I was no exception) would sew kernels of corn on a long string and then feed it to the ducks. Pretty soon all the ducks were linked together and a [illegible] cutting frolic followed which created quite a barnyard commotion, especially if a large goose was involved."

R. G. H.: "I remember when this country really had good five-cent cigars. Such as Cremo, John Ruskin, George W. Childs, Lady Churchill. You also could buy six for a quarter. Remember the cigar called 'Habit' and its advertising slogan, 'Get the Habit'? Or Nebo cigarettes?"

F. B.: "I remember when we kids used to go swimming in rivers, feeders and clay holes, far enough away to omit the necessity of bathing suits. And how, after many dips, we emerged to find ourselves covered with leeches, difficult to remove, and each kid had to help the other get shed of them."

W. P. S.: "I remember when the butcher shop windows had a row of gas flame jets at the bottom fill to defrost the windows in winter. There also were rows of gunshot rabbits hanging on hooks outside near the awnings."

H. H. V.: "I remember when kids sold newspapers on the open-air street cars. People got on and off the car from either side and the cars would often stop in the middle of a block for a lady passenger."

E. M. S.: "I remember when the meat market was a genuine place to buy meat. The cuts were as 'you wanted them' and the quality and taste always was tops. And the butcher used to throw in a few pounds of liver for the cat and some scraps for the dog. Now we live in an age of processed and packaged foods, so different."

EINSTEIN . . . Dr. Albert Einstein, renowned physicist and mathematician, is shown as he left Jewish hospital in Brooklyn for his home in Princeton, N. J., after undergoing an abdominal operation.

I hear you have a new suit

Master Salesman

A young man was selling popcorn on a steam car and offered some of his ware to an old gentleman, who replied, "What do I want with popcorn? I've no teeth." The boy quickly said, "Sir, I have gum drops."

Whenever I find myself in hot water I always figger that I needed a bath anyway.

A few days ago I over dined in a Wheeling (W. Va.) restaurant and the check stacked up to more moola than I carried. Now I know what the ads mean when they refer to

COCKFIGHTING LEGAL IN PUERTO RICO

IN PUERTO RICO the government has made cockfighting not only a legal and licensed sport, but also a profitable one for its department of parks and recreation, not to mention its schools—and, of course, the breeders, trainers and owners themselves.

In fact, the only real losers are the gamblers who bet on the wrong birds; although official purses are listed for each fight, betting on the side runs high—some private bets run up to $5,000 for some bouts and as high as $10,000 for a championship bout.

How People Benefit

While four-figure sums change hands many times at cockfights through betting, government-sanctioned and otherwise, the real winners in the long run are the Puerto Rican people themselves, who benefit to the extent that government revenue from fees and fines is used in the general fund for sports and recreation facilities, with 10 per cent going into a school fund for lunchrooms.

Now Virtually the National

This unusual speedray camera shot shows two fighting cocks in action—all feet off the ground. Bouts sometimes last 30 minutes; others end in quick hayes in 10 seconds. Artificial spurs are glued on, taped, sharpened to make birds evenly matched.

Legalized about 10 years ago, cockfighting is now under strict government regulation in Puerto Rico, with cockpits such as this operated by judges and officials appointed by the government's department of parks and recreation to maintain the regulations.

sport of the island, cockfighting was first introduced to Puerto Rico by 16th century Spanish colonists, was outlawed there by the United States government after the Spanish-American war, but legalized about 10 years ago, with cockpits now operating under strict regulations of the department of parks and recreation.

A fee of $100 is paid on the construction of each pit and the annual license fees range from $100 to $400, depending on location. All judges and officials are commission appointees and infringements of rules governing the sport carry various fines ranging from $10 to $100. An unregistered or illegal cockfight is slapped down with a $500 fine.

Pits Open Sunday Only

Arenas or galleries operate on Sundays only during the season (October to May) and have as many as 20 matches, with about 300 spectators seated in circular galleries.

Some birds last as long as 10 fights, then are retired and may be used for breeding purposes. A good breeding bird will sell for as high as $1,000. Some breeding now is being done in Puerto Rico, but the best gamecocks still are imported from Spain and range in price from $35 to $100.

The birds are trained for more than a month before a fight. Trainers are experienced in "prepping" a bird for a major event. Veterans like Roberto Gonsales Rodriques, who has been training gamecocks since 1939, get around $30 a week plus 20 per cent of winning purses and can earn as much as $6,000 a year if lucky.

Ticklers — By George

"What are you complaining about? You're not getting wet like we are!"

Everyone Wants A Part In The 20th Annual Hilltop Minstrel

Popularity of the Hilltop Minstrel among amateur entertainers easily rivals that of any Broadway stage production. This year more than 100 Hilltoppers volunteered for the show. This does not include scores of telephone inquiries, received in The Hilltop Record office.

Approximately 21 acts were auditioned. Lee Koontz, director of the show says his biggest job was singling out applicants for the 20th annual show. Accordionists, acrobats, ballerinas, magicians, tap dancers, end men, baton twirlers, singers, and many others were auditioned and selected for the show.

Many applicants were young and inexperienced and could not be used this year. Directors have felt that juvenile specialty numbers should be limited. Younsters are urged not to be discouraged but to try out next year for their stage debut.

Try out time is a headache for more people than the director. Every dance instructor who has students from the Hilltop is barraged with inquiries from parents. All mothers and dads seem to want their child entered in the show.

A good show cannot be too long, so Hilltoppers who were not accepted this year will have a good chance in the 21st Minstrel next year.

The show this year is headed for success. Nine handpicked talented acts, some professional and semi-professional are out to do their best to make West High auditorium ring with music and merriment.

Cheese for a Change

By BETTY BARCLAY

Appetites will really perk up when this attractive "dinner-in-a-dish" and a crisp green salad, dressed to the cook's taste appear on the family table. Delicious and inexpensive, this meal sticks to the ribs. Children and adults will ask for it often.

Polenta with Tomato Sauce

¾ cup corn meal
2 cups milk
1 egg
1 cup grated cheese
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cup Mazola Salad Oil
2 cloves garlic
⅓ cup chopped onions
1 6-ounce can tomato paste
3½ cups canned tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Cook corn meal in milk over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Boil 3 minutes. Remove from heat; add egg, beat well. Add ½ cup of the cheese, salt, pepper and ¼ cup of the Mazola. Place large spoonfuls in shallow baking dish. Heat remaining ¼ cup Mazola in saucepan; add garlic; cook 4 minutes. Remove garlic. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Pour around corn meal. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Chiffonade Dressing

1½ cups Salad Oil
⅓ cup vinegar
1 clove garlic
¼ teaspoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
2 teaspoons paprika
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
3 tablespoons each, chopped green pepper and pimiento

Measure all ingredients into jar. Chill; remove garlic. Shake well before serving. Makes 2 cups.

Booking Clerk: "Where to, please."

Absent-minded Professor: "Why, back here, of course."

Mark Your Calendar!

By BETTY BARCLAY

Make a date on your calendar for a waffle supper sometime soon. Sunday is a good night for this ever-popular dish, for waffles can easily be adapted to extra guests who may drop in. Serve waffles with maple-blended syrup, your best home-made jelly — or if you want a more complete meal, add baby sausages or creamed chicken. Whatever the accompaniment, you will be proud to display these extra-light waffles with the flaky texture.

Buttermilk Flakes Waffles

1 cup sifted flour
¼ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup 40% bran flakes
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
2 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift again. Add flakes and mix well. Combine egg yolks, milk, and butter; add to flour mixture, beating only until smooth. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Serve with maple-blended syrup. Makes three 4-section waffles.

"Til Death Do Us Part"

A widower who brought his second wife home said: "My dear, all is yours to do with as you please except this case in the spare room. In this case rests my first wife's best hat, and this you are not to touch."

I regret to state that this good woman, the second wife, died during the first year of her married life. After a short time our friend, the widower, brought to his home a third wife, and said to her: "My dear, all is yours to do with as you please except this case in the spare room. On the shelves in this case are the best hats of my other two wives. These you are not to touch."

This wife had ideas of her own, and she replied: "Yes, John, all shall be as you ask, but I notice there is one empty shelf in the case. Be confident, my dear, that shelf will some day hold a derby."

Common Complaint

There's a shortage of butter and also of meat;
There's a shortage of everything over the sea;
There's a shortage they say of barley and wheat,
But the shortage of money is what bothers me!

UNCLE NOAH

A SHORT-SHORT STORY
By FLORENCE BAUGH

WITH ALL the assurance of his seven years Tommy thumped a watermelon, saying confidently to Uncle Noah, "This one's ripe."

Uncle Noah thumped it, listening attentively. "It sho' is ripe. You kin pick 'em, boy."

Tommy's freckled face glowed with delight at the old man's praise.

To Tommy Uncle Noah was as much a part of their farm as the creek and the spring and the rock bluff.

To Uncle Noah, self-appointed guardian, Tommy was dear beyond all else. The first strawberries, the reddest apples, the ripest peaches Uncle Noah brought always to the house for Tommy. Frequently he would hide them, maybe in Tommy's straw hat or in his wagon, relishing the boy's glee when he found them.

"It sho' is ripe. You kin pick 'em, boy."

"They's a'callin'," Uncle Noah informed Tommy.

"Oh, then I'll have to go. We're going to town."

Uncle Noah slowly straightened up, to see the boy hurriedly brush at the dusty overalls that had been fresh half an hour ago.

"I was 'sposed to stay clean," explained Tommy, grinning. "Do you want anything from town?"

"Nothin' I needs." Uncle Noah's fond gave accompanied the boy as he ran up the hill to the house.

The talk in town that Saturday afternoon was all about the fire at Ben Hallet's place. Some suspected a tramp might have set it, accidentally or intentionally. The house had been saved but the barns were completely destroyed.

The men were trying to get a description of the tramp from those who had seen him, or thought they had seen him. Tommy told them about the tramp he and Uncle Noah had come upon a few weeks ago down by the big spring.

He and Wags were running on ahead when the dog stopped suddenly and growled. Then Tommy saw a ragged stranger drinking at the spring. He ran back to warn Uncle Noah. The old man kept shuffing ahead, Tommy and Wags sticking close to his heels. When they were within hailing distance Uncle Noah called out, "Hey, you, dere, cain't you see that no tres' sign? Git goin', boy; ain't no place fo likes of you 'round here." The man sauntered insolently toward the road but broke into a run when Uncle Noah whistled as though calling the hounds.

"Tramps!" muttered Uncle Noah. "Maybe dey don't do no harm, but shorely don't do no good!"

"Was that a tramp?" asked Tommy, excitedly. He had never seen a tramp before but many of Uncle Noah's stories of the old days were about tramps. "What did he want? Where is he going?"

"Ain't goin' nowhere, jist on the move," answered Uncle Noah. "Ain't many 'round here no mo', but I 'members when they beat a reg'lar path to your Grandmammy's door. Had their sign on that house!"

When he was telling the story to the men Tommy didn't mention that he had stayed close to Uncle [illegible] all that afternoon, or that he had looked about cautiously as they came home through the woods. Nor did he mention that before he went to sleep that night he looked apprehensively under the bed. It seemed silly to mention these things in a group of men. Even at seven a man had to act brave!

Tommy slid into the front seat between his mother and father. Along the highway and up the side roads he watched intently for any signs of the tramp. As they came to the [illegible] by the big spring Tommy peered through the deepening dusk. There was no one around the spring.

What if the tramp had been at their place while they were gone! Maybe he had killed Uncle Noah and set their house on fire! Where would he sleep if their house had burned?

As they rounded the bend there was the house still standing on the hilltop, outlined faintly against the sky. Tommy's fears seemed unfounded.

Wags was waiting for Tommy, begging him to play. It was almost dark, too late for them to run down to the creek. They ambled off toward the front of the house.

Just as they reached the lilac bush at the corner of the porch Tommy stopped suddenly, trembling. There was someone lying in the hammock on the porch! Tommy held his breath. Wags was beating his tail against the bush. The noise would surely arouse the intruder! Tommy backed warily away, keeping his eye on the hammock, ready to scream if he saw any movement.

He heard Uncle Noah coming up the driveway humming softly. It gave him courage. He broke into a run, calling in a choked little voice, "Uncle Noah, Uncle Noah!" Reaching the safety of the old man's arms he whispered fearfully, "There's a tramp on the porch!"

Uncle Noah took the boy's trembling hand. "Ain't no tramps goin' come 'roun' to harm you, boy. Let's go see."

The old man walked calmly and slowly toward the porch, the boy clinging to his hand, Wags nipping at their heels.

"Cain't see nobody," said Uncle Noah.

"There he is, in the hammock," Tommy pointed.

Uncle Noah walked boldly up the steps. There was no movement in the hammock. "See, Tommy?" Uncle Noal pulled the boy gently forward.

Tommy peeked cautiously into the sagging hammock. Then clapping his hands, he burst out excitedly, "Oh, Uncle Noah, I bet that's the biggest watermelon in the world!"

LOAN

No kindly impulse ever dies—
No gentle thought is lost,
For they are watched by angel eyes,
And earth's decay and frost
May not their use afflict nor mar—
Rejected, they are sought
By those accountants, who, afar
Recover urge and thought.
Why should they not be so redeemed
Since they are merely loan
By guardians most meticulous
In looking to their own—
Imbued with such instructions from
That One upon the throne?

1926 Lincoln Essay Winner Now With Advertising Co.

By Myron T. Seifert

It's a quarter of a century now since Mary Allison, 39 N. Terrace-av, then a 6A student at West Broad Street School and now identified with the world's largest advertising agency, The J. Walter Thompson Advertising Co. of New York, was declared winner of The Hilltop Record's memorable essay contest of the illustrious Lincoln, whose anniversary is observed Saturday, Feb. 12.

A participant and winner in similar competitions during her high school and college days, the Lincoln award and recognition of her efforts mark the initial step in her successful career.

Her particular interest and work with the New York advertising agency is concerned almost exclusively with the Lux Co.

Her account brings her in direct contact with celebrities of Hollywood who use the products. The Lux Company also maintains a movie studio office in New York, and much of her public relations work is carried on through working with this New York office.

Easy Conscience

Paddy's spiritual conscience was battling with his Irishman's appetite one Friday when Paddy saw the diner at the next table dig into a thick steak.

"Give me a whale," Paddy told the waitress.

"Whale? That's not on the menu," she said.

"All right. Then give me a sirloin. The Lord knows I asked for fish!"

What DOES It COST To Advertise . . . ?

Periodically people come into this newspaper and start a discussion about the COST of advertising . . . but, really in actual surveys, advertising, particularly newspaper advertising, used intelligently and frequently, doesn't cost money at all.

Rather it helps move merchandise faster, permits distribution economies, provides for mass production and mass sales, and ultimately LOWER PRICES, with savings for the consumers, sellers, distributors, wholesalers, and manufacturers. Innumerable articles which appear to carry a large sales and advertising expense really show a constant reduction in cost over the years.

Take for example the widely advertised light bulb. It costs only one-fourth as much now as it did for a much inferior one in 1923. Advertised gasoline, without tax, costs 40% less now than in 1925. Electric clocks are 50% cheaper in price, since they have been advertised, than they were in 1930. In 1929, the Average radio sets cost $135.00 and only a few thousands were proud owners. Now an average set sells for $34.00, with ownership in the millions.

Newspaper advertising has helped our Hilltop stores grow into their fine large organizations in hundreds and hundreds of instances. Advertising helps sell more goods to more people for LESS MONEY.

Advertising DOESN'T Cost . . . Advertising Really PAYS!

Pays large dividends when you place your advertising intelligently in your own home community newspaper, your Hilltop Record.

Get a Horse

One of these mornings when the old bus won't start you may get a kick out of these lines passed on to me by Bill Coon:

Oh, horse, you are a wondrous thing. No horns to honk, no bells to ring, no license-buying every year with plates to stick on front and rear. No sparks to miss, no gears to strip; you start yourself, no clutch to slip. No gas bills mounting, every day to steal the joys of life away.

Your inner tubes are all okay, and, thank the Lord, they stay that way. Your spark plugs never miss and fuss, your motor never makes you cuss. Your frame is good for many a mile, your body never changes style. Your wants are few and easily met—you've something on the auto yet.

Beginning with four employees, the company now employs 200 persons and expects to add more after the new addition is completed.

Forty household items sold under the name Lustro-Ware are distributed in the United States, Canada and in European countries.

The company recently registered 1500 shares of common stock which is to be sold at $100 per share to finance the new building. G. W. Kenny is president of the corporation.

New Dodge On Display Friday

The new Dodge will be on display this Friday at West Side Motors, Inc., 1359 W. Broad-st, according to Hilltoppers Edgar Planck and Charley Althen.

Called the "daring new Dodge", the car embodies many new features by being "higher inside, lower outside, wider inside, narrower outside, longer inside and shorter outside."

Front seats are a full six inches wider and rear seats are eight inches wider. A new instrument panel has been designed that is a complete restyling of former models. A larger windshield and wiper area has been included. More luggage space has been provided in the trunk.

Outstanding feature is the "gyro-matic" transmission which makes it possible to drive all day without shifting. The motor is merely started, the driver shifts to the usual high position and presses on the accelerator. When sufficient forward speed has been attained he raises his toe and the "gyromatic" shifts itself into the normal running gear.

Service Station Changes Owners

Murphy's Service Station, 3096 W. Broad-st, formerly owned by Morgan Murphy, will be under the management of Jerry Volz.

Trio Makes Debut At West Assembly

By Myron Seifert

Three pretty singers who made their debut at a West High assembly Feb. 21 are Lavonne Beard, soprano, Elaine Fry, alto and Judy Rickenbacher, first soprano. This new trio succeeds one formerly composed of Ruth Ansley, Martha Brown and Lois Stansel, all of whom graduated in January.

The girls were selected from a field of 20 candidates by Mrs. Edith White, vocal director at West High School.

Already booked for many future performances the girls are busy planning programs and rehearsing numbers.

They are soon to be seen in a number of school assemblies, at the West High Band Variety Show in April, at Y-Teen meetings and at several Hilltop church programs.

Former Hilltopper Sponsors Recent Fla. Orchid Show

Robert Scully, former Hilltopper and son of Inspector Thomas Scully of the Columbus Police Department, has become one of Miami's leading orchid growers.

As president of the South Florida Orchid Society, Mr. Scully recently was sponsor of the annual orchid show held in Miami.

More than 10,000 visitors, mostly from other states, attended the show and witnessed the display of tens of thousands of blooms.

The Miami show is the only one of its kind held anywhere in the United States. In most cities orchids are displayed at general flower shows.

Mr. Scully intends to start plans soon for the 1950 show, which he believes will be even more successful than this year's show. Scully, co-owner of the Jones Scully firm, believes Miami is the logical city to become the orchid capital of the world.

The building was completed by Krause and Pagura, 1089 Cable-av, contractors. Interior decorating and painting was under the supervision of Dewey A. Stout, 94 N. Wayne-av.

Mrs. Tarpy Tracks Down Burglars Of Mother's Store

In a crime story that reads like a Sherlock Holmes mystery, Mrs. Helen Tarpy, 2751 Carroll-av, tracked down two burglars, who robbed her mother's store, the North Hague Market, 344 N. Hague-av, Feb. 16, about 4 a. m.

The robbery was discovered by Mrs. Lydia Everingham, owner, when she opened the store the next morning and found $100 worth of groceries missing.

Mrs. Tarpy, who was awakened at the time of the robbery by the sound of an auto's motor at the side of the house, looked out the window and watched the car as it apparently circled the block.

After the robbery, Mrs. Tarpy was certain that this was the auto involved in the crime and immediately set out to track it down. In a tour which covered Columbus' West Side, Mrs. Tarpy finally found an auto on Harper-rd, fitting the description of the one she saw the night before.

She called the sheriff, who discovered beans on the auto's running board which matched those spilled at the store. When the sheriff questioned Clarence Neff, at whose residence the auto was parked, he confessed that he had been the driver, while William Hudson of N. Souder-av, and a man named Marshland, still at large, had committed the robbery.

Neff and Hudson were placed under $10,000 bond Saturday, Feb. 19, at the Mayor's Court in Valleyview Village. Mayor Archibald Rodgers presided.

Improvements Are Planned For Skidmore

Skidmore school children will soon be relieved of overcrowded classrooms, it was announced recently by Elbert J. Becker, president of the board of education of Franklin Township Local School District, who has advertised for bids on the proposed improvement project.

Four new classrooms and indoor rest rooms, the first Skidmore pupils have had, will be added to the present building.

Skidmore School, currently with an enrollment of approximately 210 students, has only eight classrooms to take care of its needs. The original four room schoolhouse, constructed in 1921, had no sewerage or water facilities. Students are still forced to use outside rest rooms and many get their drinking water from an outside well.

In 1938 four more rooms and an auditorium were added, which alleviated overcrowded conditions somewhat.

"The proposed improvements have been planned since 1941, when the first bond issue passed," Mrs. Sara Ely, clerk of the board of education, reported, "but plans were discontinued until after the war."

Mrs. Ely states the board hopes work will be started this spring, when the weather improves.

Use of a one-room portable on the school grounds may be discontinued after the new two-story addition is built, she added.

Mr. Bender, president of the Franklin Township Local School District, announced that bids will be taken soon on the proposed new 18-room elementary school to be built on Frank-rd in Briggsdale.

"Bids on the Skidmore School project will be taken until 12 noon, March 22," he said.

No fee will be charged for the course.

How Would You Like To Pay Coal Bill For West High?

Sometimes you think you have a big burden during the winter in supplying fuel for the furnace and an extra hard time keeping the big jawed animal alive but the task is a minor one in comparison with such a heating plant as that of West High School.

A trip through the boiler and engine rooms of the building reveals that the heart of the structure is one that requires much attention and accurate consideration. An average winter requires 900 tons of coal. The coal bin holds 550 tons.

Tunnels follow underneath the hallways throughout the building. By a system of large fans air is forced through the tunnels. There in the under part of the building are gauges for every room so that temperatures can be determined without going to the room. Miles of pipe run in every direction.

Todd Pharmacy Grand Opening Is Set For Saturday

Gene Todd, owner of Todd's Pharmacy, who is celebrating his 26th year of drug business on the Hilltop, remembers first days, the old days of the drug business, when compounding medicine was his chief duty.

"Now," he says, "most of our prescriptions are already packaged, and we merely give them out, according to the doctor's direction."

Business has quadrupled in 26 years. According to the Hilltop druggist, "nearly four times as many prescriptions come in each year as compared to the volume of business 26 years ago. "One of the reasons," he explained, "is that doctors formerly carried their own medicine with them. Now most medicine is obtained in drug stores, according to doctor's prescriptions."

"Another big difference," Todd noted, "is that customers nowadays don't want clerks to wait on them, but prefer self-service. Nearly all merchandise is displayed so customers can see what they are getting."

The new Todd's Pharmacy, 2578 Sullivant-av, is the third drug store Mr. Todd has owned. He started in business 26 years ago at 2467 W. Broad-st and moved about two years ago to 2572 Sullivant-av, where he remained until his recent move.

The new store on Sullivant-av has the first porcelainized steel soda fountain in Columbus. Other restaurant equipment in the store is stainless steel.

A new magazine rack and department signs are only a few of the new features of the store.

The public is invited to the grand opening of the store this Saturday.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

Now is a good time to remind you that you should keep that promise that you made last summer to spray those fruit trees when all the fruit was dropping off onto the ground. To insure a good disease free crop one of the most important sprays is applied to the dormant tree. This spray can be applied until the buds have begun to swell, even until the leafbuds are showing a tinge of green or the flower buds a tinge of color.

You may use an oil spray or a lime surphur spray for the dormant spray. If you use an oil spray it is easiest to buy a prepared solution to which you only have to add water. Follow the directions given on the container. The lime sulphur sprays can be had either as liquid lime sulphur or as dry lime sulphur. In using the liquid solution, dilute one part liquid lime sulphur with eight parts water. To use the dry lime sulphur, use four and a half ounces of lime sulphur to one gallon of water. That would be about three pounds to 10 gallons of water. Take caution in using lime sulphur around painted buildings when the wind is blowing. Lime sulphur will discolor paint. Do not spray when the temperature is below 40 degrees.

These spray solutions can be used on apples to control scale insects, red mite, blister mite, and aphid eggs. It can be used on peaches and plums for scale and leaf curl and on cherries for scalb. When applying solution cover all twigs thoroughly and the limbs and trunk clear to the ground.

Sun Life Company Business Exceeds Four Billion Mark

With over 40% of its business in the United States, and investments in the United States approximating 50% of its assets, Canada's leading life company, the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, reports that at the close of 1948, its total business in force climbed to well over the four billion dollar mark, and that benefits paid during the year exceeded $105 millions.

At the 78th annual meeting of the company, Arthur B. Wood, president, described life insurance as essentially an institution of the average citizen built up by the small savings of millions of people; an organization universally accepted because it serves a public need. Life insurance is bought in an open and highly competitive market. On the North American continent, over eighty million people have voluntarily obtained life insurance, have voluntarily planned it according to their needs, and have voluntarily selected the institution they desire to carry out their plans. The character and magnitude of the business is a reflection of public approval and a public endorsement of the sound principles on which the business is founded.

Mr. Wood, continuing, said that the new insurances written by the Sun Life for the year amounted to $934,863,000. Total life insurance in force now stands at the record figure of $4,089,000,000, an increase of $251 millions. Total income for the year exceeded $233 millions. Current annual payments under Sun Life annuity contracts exceeded $10 millions, and deferred annual payments were more than $64 millions.

Benefits distributed to policyholders and beneficiaries during the year amounted to well over $105 millions, making total payments since 1871, the year the company issued its first policy, over $2,126,000,000.

Jean Worrel is local representative of Sun Life. Several hundred Hilltop people are Sun Life policy holders.

Psalm Chosen As Foundation For World Day of Prayer Program

This year the 121st Psalm has been chosen as the foundation for the World Day of Prayer program. The theme for the day, "The Lord is Thy Keeper," is found in the fifth verse.

Each year the program is written by women of a different country—India, Korea, Canada, the United States, Germany, the Netherlands. This year it was written by three consecrated Chinese women. Early in July, the program was sent to the more than 70 countries so that it could be translated into the various languages and be ready on Friday, Mar. 4, for universal observance. There is perhaps no other program anywhere in the world that will be followed by so many people.

Taking part in the worship service of the Hilltop observance at the Oakley Avenue Baptist Church will be Mrs. Philip Johnson, chairman, Hilltop committee; Mrs. Hazel Brunson, pianist; Mrs. Barnett Johnson, soloist; Ruth Beckwith, who will lead the singing, and Mrs. W. E. Werner, Mrs. J. E. Class, Mrs. Eugene Welford, Mrs. J. B. French, Mrs. E. J. Howard, Mrs Clyde Fisher, Mrs. R. M. Barbee, Mrs. Sam Daugherty, Mrs. James Martin, Mrs. Susan Hobson, Charlene Martin, Mrs. Cecil Suber and Mrs. Carl Clade.

The projects will be presented in the form of a mock radio broadcast, "World Day of Prayer on the Air," with Rev. Aaron Roth as announcer and, Mrs. P. C. Edwards, Mrs. L. L. Ward, Mrs. A. S. Brown, Mrs. Aaron Roth, Mrs. John Snavely, Mrs Gerald Tallman and Martha Brown participating.

ICE CREAM—AT THE TOP

Ice cream, the delicious dessert made with nourishing cream and milk, is at the top of the list as America's favorite. That gives it a perfect right to be jaunty when it's perched atop cakes, pies and other a la mode specialties. The best feature of ice cream is that it knows no season. This time of year, make a special note to serve it on warm gingerbread, steamed fruit puddings and fruit pies.

Here's a new a la mode you'll want to try—mincemeat triangles topped with ice cream. For a perfect dinner dessert or a mid-evening snack when you are entertaining, serve these spicy triangles topped with delicious vanilla ice cream. The attractive triangle shapes and this interesting flavor combination will bring you many compliments! Try this recipe:

Mincemeat Triangles with Ice Cream

⅓ cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg, beaten
1 cup sifted, all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ cup milk
¾ cup dry mincemeat, crumbled
¼ cup chopped walnuts

Cream butter, add sugar, continue to cream until smooth and light. Add beaten egg and blend. Sift flour, soda, salt, spices; add to mixture alternately with milk, stirring to blend. Fold in crumbled mincemeat and nuts. Turn into buttered, 9x9x2" pan, and bake in a moderately hot oven, 375°F., for 15 minutes. Cool on rack. Cut into 3-inch squares, then cut each square into 2 triangles. Serve topped with ice cream. Makes 18 triangles.

Eager Anticipation

Yes, the lad in the illustration above really seems pleased with the desserts placed before him. And well he should be, especially when they are delicious and nourishing rennet desserts.

There are many ways to dress up these simple milk desserts to make them more appealing for the adults, or for Junior. A great variety of toppings add both eye and palate appeal. The accompaniment of cake or cookies can also be varied, as by making the child's ginger cookie in the always intriguing form of a gingerbread man.

Orange Rennet Dessert with Gingerbread Man

1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
2 cups milk (not canned)
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon grated orange rind
½ teaspoon orange extract
Few drops orange food coloring, if desired

Set out 4 or 5 individual dessert dishes. Dissolve rennet tablet by crushing in cold water. Mix milk, sugar, orange rind, flavoring and food coloring. Warm slowly, stirring constantly. Test a drop on inside of wrist frequently. When COMFORTABLY WARM, (110° F.) not hot, remove at once from heat. Add dissolved rennet tablet and stir quickly for a few seconds only. Pour at once, while still liquid, into dessert dishes. Do not move until set—about 10 minutes. Then chill. Serve with ginger cookies or gingerbread men.

Boy Improving After Accident

Richard W. Smith, two-year-old scn of Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Smith, 1025 Sullivant-av, was reported in a "good" condition Tuesday by a Children's Hospital attendant.

Richard was struck by a trolley bus Feb. 17 driven in the 900 block on Sullivant-av, by Walter Stup, 575 E. Beaumont-rd. He suffered a possible skull fracture.

"SMATTERINGS" IN EDUCATION CRITICIZED BY ROBERT DRAPER

Robert M. Draper, attorney, 94 N. Roys-av, past president of the board of education and a member for many years, reported Tuesday that "Columbus public schools need improvements in six major curricular fields."

Mr. Draper recommended in his talk, "What Our Schools Ought to Teach," that a curriculum survey be taken of public schools. A survey committee was established by the board at its last regular meeting.

Draper indicated that public schools teach too many "smatterings" and said that schools do not now produce a "finished product," but allow colleges and universities to finish the job.

"The most important thing from an educational standpoint," Draper continued, "is learning to read and write—to sell oneself." Draper argued that public schools were lacking in logic, writing, argumentation, debate, public speaking and training in research. He proposed first a 12-year course in English and courses in all of the above subjects.

Students also need training in sociology, psychology, moral ethics and training in family and marriage relations, he added, and especially he decried the lack of students' fundamental understanding of government. "We've got to convince our students, he insisted, "that they are the owners of the government and inculcate in them the responsibility for taking part in it."

The committee set up for the survey will include Carl Tresemer, Mrs. Mildred Bickle and Fred C. Dunn, Jr. The committee has not yet announced what action it will take or how its survey of the school system will be conducted.

New Distortion-Free RCA Victor Phonograph Unveiled At Previews

The widely discussed, distortion-free phonograph record and record player recently announced by RCA Victor were given their first showing here this week at special preview demonstration held by Ohio Appliances, Inc., the company's distributor in this area for local music and record reviewers and RCA Victor record dealers. They will be introduced to the public in this area about April 1.

The new record and record player comprise an entirely new system for the reproduction of recorded music in the home. They represent, the company stated, the climax of more than 10 years of intensive development and research aimed at giving the American music lover the finest reproduction quality at low cost, in a system completely free from problems encountered in conventional reproducing equipment.

Consisting of the first phonograph record and player ever especially engineered to complement each other, it was pointed out, the new system provides:

1. Distortion-free music of unprecedented brilliance and clarity of tone.

2. A light-weight, wafer-thin, non-breakable record, only 6 7/8 inches in diameter, which eliminates the record storage problem in the home and, for the first time in the history of the record industry, provides a single disc size for all musical classifications from popular to classical.

3. A small, black plastic record player which features a silent-action changer described as the world's fastest, with a drop mechanism of ingenious design, housed in a 1½ inch center spindle, which eliminates the record damage problems heretofore encountered in record changers.

They will be on sale locally by Westgate Electric, Better Home Center and C. C. Robinson Co.

Missionary School Plans Chinese Tea

A Chinese tea for children and their parents Saturday, Feb. 26, will climax a month of Saturday afternoon meetings of the Missionary school at Westgate Methodist Church.

A special worship service will feature the program. On exhibit at the tea will be models made by the children of Chinese toys and also a display of Chinese objects.

Children of the Missionary school will send a contribution to the Hamilton Mission School at Putien, China.

Bert Stille Sweet 'N'Swing Emcee, Moves To Hilltop With Family

By Esther Weakley

Bert Stille is a newcomer to the Hilltop but he is an old friend to radio fans. Since everyone cannot listen to the radio during the day, there might be some Hilltop Record readers who have not heard his voice over WHKC. Those who have heard him will be glad to know something about the man behind the voice.

Mr. and Mrs. Stille and their five-year-old son live on Sullivant-av. Born in Morgan County, Mr. Stille lived in Marion before coming to Columbus. He wrote copy at WOSU for several years. While getting his M. A. at Ohio State, he was assistant teacher in the speech department there. One of the subjects he taught was radio drama. While in Marion he was associated with the Marion radio station and was also at WBNS one year. For the past five years he has been a member of the WHKC staff. Mr. Stille's 6:30 p. m. newscast has a huge audience; during his two years as "Handy Andy" many Columbus and Central Ohio homes were called by this pleasant voice. His hobby is oil painting.

Bert is enthusiastic about the Sweet 'n' Swing program. He and Budd Sweeney have conducted this program since September and its popularity is growing fast. "Sweet 'n' Swing" is heard each afternoon, except Saturday and Sunday, from 2:30 to 4:30. Records requested by listeners are played. Many listeners of "Sweet 'n' Swing" are shut-ins, whose addresses are often given on the program. Some shut-ins have received as many as 150 cards and letters from listeners. Comic books and toys are sent, when the shut-in is a child. These two gentlemen are especially kind to veterans and children confined to hospitals. According to statistics obtained from WHKC, "Sweet 'n' Swing" receives an average of 650 letters each week. Once during a contest, 2200 pieces of mail poured in in one day.

One proof of the widespread popularity of "Sweet 'n' Swing" is the fact that a record played almost daily on the program was so much in demand that the Victor Company re-issued the record, John Ducey of the Ohio Appliance Company advised. A Wayne King record, entitled "Melody of Love," it is still requested often.

A letter recently appeared in the Columbus Citizen, written by a shut-in who had been helped by the program. The letter read, in part: "I am but one of hundreds of invalids to whom the listeners to 'Sweet 'n' Swing' have been kind, at the suggestion of Mr. Stille and Mr. Sweeney . . . They are friendly and sincere, never blase or condescending." So, if Junior is having a birthday, or Dad and Mother an anniversary, or if you just like "Life Glts Teejus" or a symphony, write to "Sweet 'n' Swing". These two gentlemen will be glad to know you are listening.

In 1940 Ohio had 6,907,612 inhabitants. It was fourth among the states, a position it had held since 1870. As of July 1, 1947, Ohio's population was 7,675,000 by Census Bureau estimates—an increase of 767,000, or 11.1 per cent since 1940 — considerably above the 8.9 per cent national average. The number of families has been estimated at 2,220,000.

Baby's Life Saved By Police Sergeant

A three-month-old West Side baby's life was saved Tuesday when Police Sgt. Cecil Stevenson applied artificial respiration and started the baby's breathing.

The little girl, Joy Reep, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Reep, 2270 Safford-av, was ill from whooping cough and had stopped breathing.

Before arrival of the emergency squad, Sgt. Stevenson administered artificial respiration for seven minutes, saving the child's life.

The emergency squad administered oxygen for half an hour.

Numerous Hilltoppers Are Extending Their Education At Evening School

Hilltoppers are extending their educational opportunities this semester by attending Columbus Evening High School at Central High School three nights weekly between the hours of six and ten.

With a wide selection of courses, comparable to that of any high school in the city, Hilltoppers burn plenty of "midnight oil" in quest of a high school education.

Many attending Evening High are high school and college graduates who wish further training in a specialized subject.

For the most part, students attending school here hold business positions.

Ages of Hilltoppers enrolled this term range from 16 to 65.

Here's a Story of

"Big Business"

Any story of Canada's largest life assurance company—the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada—is a story of "big business" because more than one and a half million people the world over are safeguarded by the protection and security of Sun Life policies.

The ever-growing goodwill which is enjoyed by the Sun Life of Canada is due to the diversity and liberality of the Company's life assurance policies, to the character of its representatives, and to the promptness and efficiency of its service to policyholders, throughout its entire 78 years' history.

Last year alone, payments amounting to more than $100,000,000 were made to Sun Life policyholders and beneficiaries.

THE SUN LIFE STORY of 1948 is made up of many thousands of individual records, each a simple human document, yet of vital importance to those concerned:

The Story of Mrs. M.B.H.

. . . is a tragic one. She lost her husband in an automobile accident and was left alone with three young children to care for. But to her husband, responsibility reached beyond death, and his Sun Life Family Income policy provides for the family until the youngsters are grown up, and then gives to the widow a regular income for life.

C.J.S. Was a Good Salesman

. . . who all his life looked ahead. Thirty years ago he paid his first premium on a Sun Life Retirement policy. Last October he made his final business trip and now, at 65, he enjoys the leisure that his foresight made possible.

T.L.M. Bought a Business

. . . and is now his own master. He planned this when, on graduating from college, he took out a Sun Life Endowment for assurance protection as well as systematic and easy saving. The Endowment matured recently, providing the means which enabled him to take advantage of a great opportunity.

No Need of Charity

In the small industrial plant owned by D.B.L., 100 employees never have to pass the hat when a bench pal dies. Like hundreds of thousands of workers in other industrial and business organizations large and small, they are protected by Sun Life Group Assurance, an effective instrument for good employee-employer relations.

Yes, there are thousands of such cases in the Sun Life story of 1948 — a story of service to the public, repeated year in, year out.

From the 1948 Annual Report

Benefits paid to policyholders and beneficiaries during 1948: $[illegible]

Total Benefits paid since the first Sun Life policy was issued in 1871: $2,126,[illegible]

New Assurances issued during the year: $374,652,547

West Loses to South and Takes Win From Bellefontaine In Week-End Cage Battles

By Dave Miller

West High's Cowboys broke even in two games they played over this past week-end by edging to tough Bellefontaine five, 38 to 37, Saturday evening, following a 53-44 loss to South's Bulldogs Friday.

In the Friday night encounter it was a matter of defensive strength as the Bulldogs had their well-balanced zone defense prepared for the usual under-the-bucket shooting Cowboys. This tight defense caused the West courters to shoot from far out.

Cowboy guards, Dick Culbertson and Bill Thrush, collected 23 of the Cowboys 44 tallies.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs took full advantage of charity by stepping to the free throw lane no less than 30 times, and hit on 19 of those free tosses while West stepped to the line 10 times and tallied eight times. West had 22 personals called on them, and South had only eight.

Although he finished second to big Center Paul Ebert, South's Bill Camp took up the slack left by teammate Ebert's inability to hit the bucket in the second half. Camp pitched in 11 big counters, five of them from the free throw lane during South's comeback in the second half.

It was slam-bang all throughout the first half with West unable to hold a lead throughout the period. After Dave Jones threw in a rebound for South early in the first stanza Fred Adams sank a free toss, but South went on to score eight straight points before Bill Thrush broke the "ice" for West with a free toss. Dick Culbertson sank two straight goals for West, but Jones and Ebert matched that and the quarter ended in South's favor, 15-6.

In the second period, the closest the Cowboys were able to get was 23-14, just after Phil Young's long one-hander. From there, South collected seven straight points and led, 30-14, at half-time.

For the first three minutes in the third quarter it looked like a comeback. The Cowboys outscored South, 10-1, in the opening play and were trailing only 31-24. However, the Cowboys, hurt by the loss of their stellar guard, Dick Culbertson, who went out on personals, kept the sizzling pace, and trailed only 37-30 at the third period's end. Only a six-point effort by Camp kept South from complete disaster. But after that valiant stand in which they sank seven buckets in 18 shots, the Cowboys cooled off, and with that the Bulldog defense was sufficient to hold and even extend the lead.

Ebert of South was high with 17. Bill Camp had 15 and Bill Thrush of the locals was third with 13.

West-Bellefontaine Game

On Saturday night a cagy Bellefontaine five was cooled off and held in check by the Cowboys on the local court by a 38-37 score. A free throw with less than 10 seconds remaining in the game cinched the victory.

It was a bitterly fought battle all the way with neither team holding more than a three-point advantage after midway of the second quarter. In the opening quarter Jay Stayrook of the visiting Chieftains and LeRoy Hood of the locals matched goals, while Jim Ratleff of the visitors sank a goal in comparison to Phil Young's free throw.

The visitors were ahead 6-5 just previous to a Bellefontaine rally. Harvey sank a free throw and Ratleff and Stayrook sank goals in quick succession to give the visitors a comfortable 10-5 first quarter lead.

However, Hood and Phil Young each sank side push shots early in the second period to narrow Bellefontaine's lead to one point. Stayrook of the visitors and Hood of West matched goals, but Dick Culbertson, reliable West guard, sank a bunny and a beautiful set to put the Cowboys ahead, 15-12. Jay Stayrook and Jim Dearwester came back with successive baskets for the visitors to give them a 16-15 halftime edge.

The third period continued at a nip and tuck pace as basket-for-basket was matched with Hood's free throw with three seconds in the period to go tying up the score at 27-all.

In the last quarter, Bill Thrush sank a longie and Jay Stayrook came back with three tallies for Bellefontaine to put them ahead, 30-29. John Harvey and Young matched free throws, but Jim Ratleff, speedy Chieftain forward who bagged seven points for Bellefontaine in the third quarter, put his squad ahead, 33-30 with a left-handed bunny at the 3:15 mark.

Hood and Ratleff matched free tosses, but Fred Adams, who replaced Jim Rudolph in the line-up, sank a hook to narrow the visitors' lead to 34-33. Ratleff sank a free throw, but reliable Bill Thrush sank a long side shot to tie the score at 35. A later score by big John Harvey tied the score at 37-all. Then Bill Thrush, in a vain effort to score, was fouled, and made the charity toss to win the game.

Bellefontaine's alert-shooting forward, Jim Ratleff, was high man with 15 points, but LeRoy Hood of the Cowboys was close behind with 14.

In a preliminary to the Bellefontaine contest, the West reserves won over the West Junior varsity, 51-16. Jack Bowen, substitute West reserve guard, was high man with eight. In the South prelim, the league-leading West reserves took a rather easy 39-29 win from South's puppies. Big Paul Ellingsworth was again high man with 12, followed by George Crissinger and Dave Caton with nine and eight points, respectively.

The West team finishes up the season, with the exception of the tournaments, this Friday night at West with a tough East basketball crew. The reserve game in this fray will decide the reserve league championship.

Girls' Basketball Tournament To Begin March 11

The girls' basketball tournament is under way again. The three teams, Seniors, Juniors and Sophomores, were chosen Friday, Feb. 18, by three girls from Ohio State University. The tournament will be held Friday, Mar. 11, at 7 p. m., in the gym.

The Senior forwards are Janet Patton, captain, Dot Starkey, Doris Johnson, Phyllis Plank, Shirley Lyle and Mary Lou Dawson, co-captain. The guards are Vergene Braithwaite, Joyce Leiter, Marty Jones, Marilyn Gaugel, Marilyn Jackson and Dawn Dennison. The manager is Mary Ann Miller.

The junior forwards are Jo Clark, Mert Smith, Carol Luckshaw, Betty Roederer, capt., Tommy Kappel and Ruth Ogle. The guards are Sis Ringer, Joanne Olpp, Jean Byrum, co-captain, Marilyn Valentine, Doddy Sanderson, Phyllis Johnson. The manager is Anita Lawhutte.

The Sophomore forwards are Sandy Ross, Pokey Jennings, Bonnie Barber, Bobbie Graves, Shirley Shroyer and Joanne Grisso. The guards are Joan Dew, Lou Leech, Billie Proctor, Pearlie Halsell, Jane Jones, Daneta Adams. The manager is Wilma Vawters.

Diving Champion Gives Tumbling Exhibition Here

Bruce Harlan, Olympic diving champion from Ohio State, put on a tumbling exhibition before an appreciative student audience at West High School Friday, Feb. 18, in the boys' gym.

Harlan, who is undefeated on the trampline so far this season, did a variety of tricks, starting with the comparatively simple and working up to the more complex.

He brought the gym down with applause after completing a forward and one and one-half somersault with two full twists, which is considered the toughest stunt in all tumbling.

Harlan told the boys present in the gym that anybody, regardless of race, creed, religion, or age could be an Olympic champion if he had the stuff it took to win. He also told of some of his experiences while overseas on the Olympic trip.

Harlan, who is 23 years old, is doubling up in sports this winter as he is competing in both tumbling and swimming for Ohio State.

Before this year he had confined his activity to winning diving championships for Mike Peppe's swimming teams. Harlan has an excellent chance to win championships in both sports this year, as he is a heavy favorite to win the diving crown and his performances on the trampline mark him a champion.

Plastics Win No. 2

They say a barking dog never bites but that wasn't the case last Wednesday night as the lowly Columbus Plastics team of the Suburban League came to life and bumped the league leading Hilltop Van team, 822-759. It was one of Plastics best games this year. The two teams battled on even terms from the 4th frame to the 10th. In the 10th, however, four of the five Plastics members were able to mark while only middle man Jeff Frasure could mark for the Van team. The Plastic team came close to winning the third game but anchor man H. Nichols missed the 10 pin and the Van team won 803-794.

Dick Ardle

The last game (and the only other one this year), Columbus Plastics won was against Seiller's Department Store, which was in first place at the time.

In the past I have tried to use this column to bring to you the scores of all the leagues each week, or as many as the space would permit. I have tried to show favor to none and fairness to all. On behalf of Seiller's Brand Boosters team, at present resting in third place in the city tournament, I would like to ask a favor. We wish to win our franchise in order to become a recognized team of the city. In order to do this we will have to have a sponsor and this is the favor I'm asking.

It seems that most of the older people don't realize we have what it takes to be a winning team. The record speaks for itself. Beside, our 2780 scratch tournament scores, we have had several 2800 scratch scores on Saturday morning.

Paul Leighninger of Seiller's Department Store gave us our first break in 1946 when he organized the first Seiller's Teen Agers League. Since then we have developed into a pretty fair league and plan on keeping it going for the younger boys and girls to come, but now some of us are getting past the age limit and rather than split up we want to organize ourselves into a winning combination.

Our one ambition is to some day be a team in the All Star League and if we get the break we need now, we can some day fulfill this ambition.

Any reader interested in sponsoring this team is requested to contact the writer.

In case some of you are interested in our ages and averages in the Seiller's League, Gene Harold and Gene Urban are 15 and average 171 apiece, Eddie Harold averages 169 and is 18, Paul Fetzko, a newcomer this year to the Hilltop Alleys, is 20 and averages 178, and the writer will be 20 tomorrow and averages 177.

The new cafe, designed by Alcox and Stritzel, architects, 539 E. Town St., is completely modern from its striking brick wall exterior to the full-toned interior color scheme.

The structural design follows contemporary modern architecture. Comfortably cushioned booths of rose and chartreuse combine with the deep-toned color scheme to offer a pleasing, restful atmosphere.

The delightful atmosphere of the Biltmore is surpassed only by the excellence of the food, famous on the Hilltop for many years.

The building was completed by Krause and Pagura, 1059 Cable-av, contractors. Interior decorating and painting was under the supervision of Dewey A. Stout, 90 N. Wayne Ave.

West Jr. Quintet Takes Tough 47-44 Victory From Mound Cagers Friday

By Dave Miller

West Junior High's basketball crew took a 47 to 44 victory over a stubborn Mound five last Friday afternoon on the Mound court for the locals' second straight loop win.

It was big Jerry Trabue who guaranteed the victory when he pumped in five points in the latter part of the game.

Bill Haire, pint-size West Junior guard, started off the day's scoring with a fast break shot, but Ed Robinson, Al Greathouse and Bob Bass all sank goals after this to put Mound ahead by four. Bob Thornton of the locals and Bob Calhoun of the ultimate losers matched goals, but Doug Clark of West and Haire got three straight to cut Mound's lead to 8-7. Bass sank a free throw and Tom Howard a goal to give Mound an 11-8 first stanza lead.

In the second period, Clark and Trabue sank a couple of goals for West to quickly knot the score. However, Jim Foster and Robinson of Mound matched this with two straight and from there on until halftime this kept up with Mcund ahead, 21-17, at intermission.

The local Juniors had their biggest quarter of the year in the third period by outscoring Mound, 18-12, but the locals trailed, 38-33, at the end of the period.

However, in the final period, Bob Thornton and Robinson of Mound matched goals but little Bob Bass of the losers sank three straight goals to make the score in Mound's favor, 41-34. The Juniors weren't to be denied, however, as Bill Haire sank a drive and Trabue three straight points to narrow the host five's lead to two tallies.

Then the fireworks began and West Junior looked its best of the year. Haire quickly put West Junior ahead at 42-40 with a long two hander from way out. Little Bob Bass of the downtowners again scored from the corner and was fouled. He made the free throw and Mound was ahead, 44-42 with less than two minutes to go.

This set the stage for pivot man Jerry Trabue's game-winning points. He sank a hook and was fouled and made the charity toss to put West Junior ahead, 46-44. Al Greathouse missed a shot for Mcund and Walter Meredith got the rebound, and he and Bill Haire started to stall. However, Meredith passed into Trabue, who again sank a hook to put West ahead, 47-44, and the game ended.

Trabue was high-point man with 19 points, followed by Bass of Mcund with 18. Bill Haire of the locals had his biggest night so far this year with 13 points.

The Juniors will visit Starling this Friday afternoon to complete their 1948-49 season.

IF HORSES BET ON PEOPLE...

Just for the fun of it . . . supposing they did. Suppose the Big Race of the day was coming up.

Length of race: 20 years.
Prize money: Enough for cozy retirement in fields of clover.
Financial security for winner and family.
For the losers -- nothing but worry and hard times.
Would the smart equine money be on you?

To be an odds-on-favorite -- to insure that you know what is going on and keep abreast of the times as to values of the day . . . take this simple step:

Make sure that you are a regular reader of The Hilltop Record. That means you should be getting a copy of the paper in the mail each Thursday morning.

What does this have to do with security and happiness, you ask!

Just this: The little things that are so important in making a budget come out right are more likely to not be overlooked if you read the Record. Th savings you will make by watching the weekly advertisements in your paper will add up to greater security and more pleasures.

This, to say nothing of knowing what is going on in your community . . . the only way you will know . . . because no other paper carries all the Hilltop news.

The cost is so small . . . less than 3c per week . . . you just can't afford to be without it. Call RA. 1125 now!

BIBLE COMMENT

FOR FEB. 27

'Of Such Is The Kingdom Of Heaven'

It was of little children that Jesus said the above (Matthew 19:14). He also said, "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." (Matthew 5:3.)

It is the child-like whose characters can be formed by God. Those whose very poverty of spirit makes possible their enrichment by being filled with the Spirit of God—are the subjects of Christ's kingdom.

Such declarations reveal and emphasize what Jesus meant when He said, "My kingdom is not of this world." He did not mean that the kingdom was remote, somewhere else, or in a far-off future. On the contrary He said that it was here and now. It is "within you," or "in your midst," in whichever way we may translate His words.

The point was that, being here and now, and in this world, the kingdom, which He proclaimed was not of this world because its nature and principles were different from those of the kingdoms of this world, and the ideas, rules, and principles that govern earthly kingdoms.

Not poverty in spirit, but physical strength, brute force, aggressiveness, conquest, and dominance, have been the historic and characteristic ends of worldly kingdoms. If peoples or governments have displayed anything better, it has only been through ideals akin to those proclaimed by Jesus.

The principles of the kingdom that Jesus proclaimed were love and service; not getting, but giving. "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

To the materially minded it seems visionary and impractical. But picture what the world would be, if, instead of 20 centuries of acquisitiveness and aggression, we had had 20 centuries of the practice of the Golden Rule, founded in the love of God and in brotherly love.

YOUTHS FORM NEW CLUB

The Community Christian Church, Powell and Olive, has organized a youth organization that will be called "The Christian Youth." Jack Colebeck was elected president, Ralph Perrine, vice-president, Gene Burch, secretary, and Jim Lorenz, treasurer. This group will meet every Sunday evening at 6:30. All young people are invited.

TO GIVE CONCERT

The Madisonaires, Madison County Men's Chorus, will give a sacred concert Sunday, Feb. 27, at 8 p. m.

Children's Lenten Services To Begin Ash Wednesday

Special Lenten services for children of the Hilltop Evangelical Lutheran Church and those of the community will begin on Ash Wednesday, Mar. 2, at 3:30 p. m. in the church school auditorium.

At these services the religious paintings of Jesus by Sallman will be used. Slides of these pictures will be shown on the screen and copies of the pictures will be given to the children who will make them into booklets to take home. The hymns, and the entire service will be projected on the screen. A robed Junior Choir under the direction of Mrs. John Ricker and Clarence Bird, will provide special music for these services. The pastor of the church, Rev. Russell Olson, is in charge of the services.

The following pictures will be used: Mar. 2, "Christ at Dawn"; Mar. 9, "The Boy Christ"; Mar. 16, "Jesus, the Children's Friend"; Mar. 23, "We Would See Jesus"; Mar. 30, "The Good Shepherd"; Apr. 6, "Gethsemane"; Apr. 13, "Christ at the Door."

Stone's Magic Tricks Keep Students Awake In West's Chemistry Lab

Sleight of hand performances, both in the entertainment world and in the chemistry laboratory at West High School, are easily carried out when E. T. Stone, chemistry instructor, waves his magic wand.

To Mr. Stone, magic is the key to wholesome enjoyment and thinking. He never fails to interest boys and girls of all ages.

Most of his life, magic has loomed large to Mr. Stone. His interest stems from a yen in his early boyhood days to emulate a magician he had seen at a Chautauqua.

A native of Derwent, O., in Guernsey County, Mr. Stone completed his high school education at Buffalo, O., and his collegiate career at Muskingum College, New Concord, O.

Ideas for his magic come principally from first-hand information rather than books or magazines. The general public can find little published about magic secrets held by magicians, which makes it difficult for a beginner to gain access to information.

After attending the annual Magic-Fest in Columbus years ago, sponsored by the Ohio Brotherhood of Magicians, Stone had his first real impetus to put on shows, a job which he has been doing ever since.

Following his appointment to the teaching staff at West High School in 1942, he immediately became identified with the Columbus Magic Club.

His work is in constant demand. He has appeared at school festivals. Easter and Christmas parties, father-son banquets and on many other programs.

Away from West High School and his numerous show dates, Mr. Stone resides with his wife at 159 W. Webster-rd.

Letter Describes Dr. Whitehead's Trip To Florida

Dr. Howard Whitehead, who recently returned from a trip to Florida sent the following letter while in Florida to the Hilltop Record office describing his experiences in the south.

Dr. Whitehead and Roger Rickenbacher both returned by plane. The plane in which they were travelling was forced down twice, once in Cincinnati and again in Dayton. Both the men were returned to Columbus by limousine from the Dayton airport. Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Nessley remained in Florida after Dr. Whitehead and Mr. Rickenbacher returned. The letter follows:

"Our party left Columbus Feb. 1 about 9 a. m. We had a lovely trip to Miami and arrived about 3 p. m., Feb. 4. While in Florida, we have visited many places of interest. The Rickenbacher Causeway to the islands is quite wonderful, especially the park. Royal palm trees and the bathing beach are particularly beautiful. We wonder where all the people come from.

"Mr. Rickenbacher and I went to Miami Beach yesterday and took a plunge in the ocean. The water and air were perfect. Another striking thing was the numerous hotels along the beach, nearly all of them being white.

"Miami Beach is a city of sunshine and leisure to many, many people. Particularly nice are the splendid streets and boulevards.

"Sunday we all attended services at the White Temple, a Methodist Church, where we heard a good sermon and good music. We also met Mrs. Hecker, a member of this church and formerly a member of Glenwood Methodist Church. She is the mother of two daughters, who became missionaries.

"This is a pleasant place to be, but I still like Columbus and the good state of Ohio."

TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Girl Scout Troop No. 8, sponsored by the Westgate Methodist Church, WSCS, will have its second birthday in May. A recent activity of the girls was collecting clothing for the nation-wide "Friendship Clothing Drive." At present they are busy taking orders for the Girl Scout cookie sale.

Prize Livestock Lost In $30,000 Alton Farm Fire

A fire raged through an old cattle barn, levelling the building and destroying two prize bulls and 14 other head of valuable cattle causing $30,00 damage to the Central Ohio Breeding Association farm on the Alton-Darby Creek-rd., Feb. 18.

Defective wiring caused the blaze which started in the barn's hayrnow. A tractor, manure spreader and hay drier also were destroyed.

J. E. Lemmerman, farm manager and herdsman for the association was burned as he led livestock from the barn.

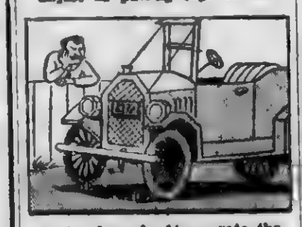
Judy Kellogg, daughter of Richard Kellogg, farm manager, who was out of town, first noticed the fire and awakened her grandfather, William Kellogg.

One of the bulls destroyed, "Raemelton King of Twin Pines," a Guernsey, has sired an estimated 2000 to 3000 calves. The other prize bull destroyed was a brown Swiss.

Robert McCormick, office manager of the breeder's association said the bulls were used in the groups artificial insemination program, which serves 54 counties in Ohio.

HEADED BIRTHDAY DINNER

Rhoma Van De Mark, 75 N. Wayne-av, was chairman of a campus-wide birthday party held Feb. 16 in all campus women's residence halls in observance of the 75th anniversary of Ohio State University. Each residence received a birthday cake.



I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Robert H. Sedgwick: "I remember those Sunday afternoons a third of a century ago when the sound of clashing lumber, sawing and hammering resounded across the fields—brothers and their kinfolk and neighbors helping to build a new house for someone. It was a common noise and provided homes for all. That old custom is gone with the wind now."

From R. O. (Dick) Helwig: "I remember when our fathers all wore pocket watches which had to be wound with a small square key. Later, in my time, came the stem winder. And now we have the watch that winds itself!"

From "Pops" Schenlin: "I remember the hue and cry that was raised when automobiles were first licensed. Indignant auto owners insisted that it was as unjust as putting tags on the backs of people. At any rate, the plates were 7 by 12 inches and the numerals were black on a grey background. There was no year on the plates. Who remembers what year that was?"

From Ernest Kartje: "I remember when we clamped wax candles all over the Christmas tree, then decorated it with strings of popcorn and various ornaments. When the tree was lit you always had to be on guard for fear it would catch on fire. Which, of course, often happened."

PROMINENT WOMEN HONORED . . . Ohio citizens and industries are in a comfortable position in the matter of taxation compared with residents of other states. Real estate taxes are relatively low, averaging about 2 per cent on assessed valuations which are generally 50 per cent or less of actual value at present prices. Despite rising governmental costs, taxes have not been increased in Ohio. Th state levies no income taxes on persons or ecrporations. The 3 per cent retail sales tax and the taxes on gasoline provide a large part of the revenue for schools and highways. Automobile license fees and gascline taxes bring in about 100 million dollars per year.

Mrs. Bute Returns To Columbus After Visiting In Italy 14 Months

Picture yourself resting peacefully in a sunny villa near Rome, Italy. That's exactly what Mrs. Hazel Bute, formerly of 180 N. Powell-av, has been doing for the past 14 months.

More than a year ago Mrs. Bute and her son's wife joined Lt. Charles B. Bute in Nettuna Village, Italy, where he has been stationed since the war.

Taking lodging in a large Italian villa, the two Mrs. Butes kept busy cooking, sight-seeing and keeping house.

Cooking is no easy matter in Italy today, so most of the time they ate in the officers' mess hall. They found the chief diet of Italians to be fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, spaghetti and poultry products. Eggs weren't scarce but meat was. Meat is always eaten freshly killed, due to small refrigeration facilities in Italy. Another oddity they noted was that Italians eat very little canned foods.

The Butes had five rooms in their Villa apartment. Floors, walls and interior were inlaid in tile and marble.

Days in Italy are nearly always warm, but nights are cool. On a few evenings, the two Hilltoppers donned their fur coats for comfortable warmth.

Bute's wife remained with him in Italy, when his mother flew to the States, due to illness of her sister in Detroit.

Both Lt. and Mrs. Bute will leave for a month's vacation in northern Europe, when he receives his furlough. They plan to visit Ritthem, Holland, the town adopted by Hilltoppers, and will send first-hand information to the Record office after their visit.

After his return to duty, Lt. Bute will be transferred to the Memorial Division and will be stationed in northern Italy. He expects to be stationed in Italy for a year.

Signs of the Times

A preacher and his wife were wrecked on a desert island. "After considerable exploration, they saw smoke rising from the other side of the hill. The preacher sneaked up to spy out the land and saw a group of white men around a fire, drinking from a bottle, cussing and telling dirty stories. He went back and told his wife: "Thank God, Mary! We're among Christians."

Air-condition is a scientific word used by scientists who couldn't open Pullman windows, so they air-conditioned the trains.

Stone's Magic Tricks Keep Students Awake In West's Chemistry Lab

Sleight of hand performances, both in the entertainment world and in the chemistry laboratory at West High School, are easily carried out when E. T. Stone, chemistry instructor, waves his magic wand.

To Mr. Stone, magic is the key to wholesome enjoyment and thinking. He never fails to interest boys and girls of all ages.

Most of his life, magic has loomed large to Mr. Stone. His interest stems from a yen in his early boyhood days to emulate a magician he had seen at a Chautauqua.

A native of Derwent, O., in Guernsey County, Mr. Stone completed his high school education at Buffalo, O., and his collegiate career at Muskingum College, New Concord, O.

Ideas for his magic come principally from first-hand information rather than books or magazines. The general public can find little published about magic secrets held by magicians, which makes it difficult for a beginner to gain access to information.

After attending the annual Magic-Fest in Columbus years ago, sponsored by the Ohio Brotherhood of Magicians, Stone had his first real impetus to put on shows, a job which he has been doing ever since.

Following his appointment to the teaching staff at West High School in 1942, he immediately became identified with the Columbus Magic Club.

His work is in constant demand. He has appeared at school festivals. Easter and Christmas parties, father-son banquets and on many other programs.

Away from West High School and his numerous show dates, Mr. Stone resides with his wife at 159 W. Webster-rd.

Letter Describes Dr. Whitehead's Trip To Florida

Dr. Howard Whitehead, who recently returned from a trip to Florida sent the following letter while in Florida to the Hilltop Record office describing his experiences in the south.

Dr. Whitehead and Roger Rickenbacher both returned by plane. The plane in which they were travelling was forced down twice, once in Cincinnati and again in Dayton. Both the men were returned to Columbus by limousine from the Dayton airport. Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Nessley remained in Florida after Dr. Whitehead and Mr. Rickenbacher returned. The letter follows:

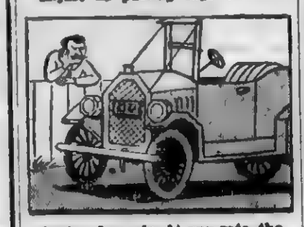
"Our party left Columbus Feb. 1 about 9 a. m. We had a lovely trip to Miami and arrived about 3 p. m., Feb. 4. While in Florida, we have visited many places of interest. The Rickenbacher Causeway to the islands is quite wonderful, especially the park. Royal palm trees and the bathing beach are particularly beautiful. We wonder where all the people come from.

"Mr. Rickenbacher and I went to Miami Beach yesterday and took a plunge in the ocean. The water and air were perfect. Another striking thing was the numerous hotels along the beach, nearly all of them being white.

"Miami Beach is a city of sunshine and leisure to many, many people. Particularly nice are the splendid streets and boulevards.

"Sunday we all attended services at the White Temple, a Methodist Church, where we heard a good sermon and good music. We also met Mrs. Hecker, a member of this church and formerly a member of Glenwood Methodist Church. She is the mother of two daughters, who became missionaries.

"This is a pleasant place to be, but I still like Columbus and the good state of Ohio."



I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Robert H. Sedgwick: "I remember those Sunday afternoons a third of a century ago when the sound of clashing lumber, sawing and hammering resounded across the fields—brothers and their kinfolk and neighbors helping to build a new house for someone. It was a common noise and provided homes for all. That old custom is gone with the wind now."

From R. O. (Dick) Helwig: "I remember when our fathers all wore pocket watches which had to be wound with a small square key. Later, in my time, came the stem winder. And now we have the watch that winds itself!"

From "Pops" Schoulin: "I remember the hue and cry that was raised when automobiles were first licensed. Indignant auto owners insisted that it was as unjust as putting tags on the backs of people. At any rate, the plates were 7 by 12 inches and the numerals were black on a grey background. There was no year on the plates. Who remembers what year that was?"

From Ernest Kartje: "I remember when we clamped wax candles all over the Christmas tree, then decorated it with strings of popcorn and various ornaments. When the tree was lit you always had to be on guard for fear it would catch on fire. Which, of course, often happened."

(Contributions to this column are invited from other old-timers. All communications should be signed with the writer's full name. Address them to The Old-Timer, Box 340, Frankfort, Ky.)

TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY

Girl Scout Troop No. 8, sponsored by the Westgate Methodist Church, WSCS, will have its second birthday in May. A recent activity of the girls was collecting clothing for the nation-wide "Friendship Clothing Drive." At present they are busy taking orders for the Girl Scout cookie sale.

Average American is a person who works himself to death so he can live.

THE OLD INDIAN MILL at Upper Sandusky, and the land adjacent to it, may become a State Park if a bill before the Ohio Legislature is passed. Here is the mill in its winter setting. The Federal Government built this mill for the Wyandot Indians as a reward for their loyalty during the War of 1812.

Ohio citizens and industries are in a comfortable position in the matter of taxation compared with residents of other states. Real estate taxes are relatively low, averaging about 2 per cent on assessed valuations which are generally 50 per cent or less of actual value at present prices. Despite rising governmental costs, taxes have not been increased in Ohio. Th state levies no income taxes on persons or corporations. The 3 per cent fetail sales tax and the taxes on gasoline provide a large part of the revenue for schools and highways. Automobile license fees and gascline taxes bring in about 100 million dollars per year.

Prize Livestock Lost In $30,000 Alton Farm Fire

A fire raged through an old cattle barn, levelling the building and destroying two prize bulls and 14 other head of valuable cattle causing $30,00 damage to the Central Ohio Breeding Association farm on the Alton-Darby Creek-rd., Feb. 18.

Defective wiring caused the blaze which started in the barn's haymow. A tractor, manure spreader and hay drier also were destroyed.

J. E. Lemmerman, farm manager and herdsman for the association was burned as he led livestock from the barn.

Judy Kellogg, daughter of Richard Kellogg, farm manager, who was out of town, first noticed the fire and awakened her grandfather, William Kellogg.

One of the bulls destroyed, "Raemelton King of Twin Pines," a Guernsey, has sired an estimated 2000 to 3000 calves. The other prize bull destroyed was a brown Swiss.

Robert McCormick, office manager of the breeder's association said the bulls were used in the groups artificial insemination program, which serves 54 counties in Ohio.

HEADED BIRTHDAY DINNER

Rhoma Van De Mark, 75 N. Wayne-av, was chairman of a campus-wide birthday party held Feb. 16 in all campus women's residence halls in observance of the 75th anniversary of Ohio State University. Each residence received a birthday cake.

Mrs. Bute Returns To Columbus After Visiting In Italy 14 Months

Picture yourself resting peacefully in a sunny villa near Rome, Italy. That's exactly what Mrs. Hazel Bute, formerly of 180 N. Powell-av, has been doing for the past 14 months.

More than a year ago Mrs. Bute and her son's wife joined Lt. Charles B. Bute in Nettuna Village, Italy, where he has been stationed since the war.

Taking lodging in a large Italian villa, the two Mrs. Butes kept busy cooking, sight-seeing and keeping house.

Cooking is no easy matter in Italy today, so most of the time they ate in the officers' mess hall. They found the chief diet of Italians to be fresh fruit, fresh vegetables, spaghetti and poultry products. Eggs weren't scarce but meat was. Meat is always eaten freshly killed, due to small refrigeration facilities in Italy. Another oddity they noted was that Italians eat very little canned foods.

The Butes had five rooms in their Villa apartment. Floors, walls and interior were inlaid in tile and marble.

Days in Italy are nearly always warm, but nights are cool. On a few evenings, the two Hilltoppers donned their fur coats for comfortable warmth.

Bute's wife remained with him in Italy, when his mother flew to the States, due to illness of her sister in Detroit.

Both Lt. and Mrs. Bute will leave for a month's vacation in northern Europe, when he receives his furlough. They plan to visit Ritthem, Holland, the town adopted by Hilltoppers, and will send first-hand information to the Record office after their visit.

After his return to duty, Lt. Bute will be transferred to the Memorial Division and will be stationed in northern Italy. He expects to be stationed in Italy for a year.

Signs of the Times

A preacher and his wife were wrecked on a desert island. After considerable exploration, they saw smoke rising from the other side of the hill. The preacher sneaked up to spy out the land and saw a group of white men around a fire, drinking from a bottle, cussing and telling dirty stories. He went back and told his wife: "Thank God, Mary! We're among Christians."

Air-condition is a scientific word used by scientists who couldn't open Pullman windows, so they air-conditioned the trains.

Modern Poetry

By Esther Weakley.

DUSK IN THE MOUNTAINS

Silence save sleepy twittering of birds,
The quiet murmur of a mountain stream,
Soft gentle lowing of returning cows;
Above a hill a first star's tiny gleam.

Children's laughter and a mother calling;
The lonesome barking of a hunting hound,
Passing of a car along the highway,
The dog's swift baying as a coon is found.

Pale blue skies turn slowly into purple;
Dusk draws the velvet curtains of the night . . .
Here is peace and quiet sanctuary—
The only sound—a night bird's swift winged flight.

Sheila Stinson,
in "The Singing Quill."

Books you will like—books old and new, poetry and prose, fiction and non-fiction, good and better—and why. I think you will.

"Cheaper By The Dozen," by Frank B. Gilbreth, Jr., and Ernestine Gilbreth Carey (Thomas Y. Crowell Co., New York 16). This Book-of-the-Month selection is one book that lives up to the over-worked description, "a cure for the blues." Hope nobody has the blues but if you have, read this and forget them. It concerns the father of a family of six boys and six girls and is funnier (in my opinion) than "Life With Father." You know that a book which contains the opening line of the publisher's blurb just HAS to be funny. Get it—only $3.00.

"A Treasury of Laughter," edited by Louis Untermeyer (Simon & Schuster, New York). Collection of humorous stories, poems, jokes, boners, epigrams and tall tales. Most of them are funny. Even little Willie is in evidence. One concerning him:

Little Willie hung his sister;
She was dead before we missed her.

Willie's always up to tricks.
Ain't he cute? He's only six.

Answer—Man was made before woman to give him time to think of an answer to her first question.

A better phrase for air raid is "Helter Skelter to a Shelter."

Agents Report Sale of Fishing Licenses Heavy

The springlike winter weather which continues to torment spring fishermen started an early run on fishing licenses throughout the state according to reports reaching Division of Conservation headquarters in Columbus this week.

More than 800,000 fishing licenses for the 1949 season have already reached the state's 2300 agents which include hardware stores, sporting goods stores, bait dealers, grocery stores and other merchants. Licenses are available also at township and county Clerk of Courts offices and all Division of Conservation branch offices throughout the state.

Anglers will need a new license to fish beginning March 1. The fishing license year now begins on March 1 and runs through the last day of February the following year.

The cost of this year's license remains the same as last year, $1.10 and all persons 16 years of age and over are required to secure a license for fishing except landowners and tenants together with members of their immediate families who fish on lands upon which they reside.

The name "Hennick's", a famous university district landmark for the past 38 years, ceased to exist Wednesday, Feb. 9.

Ohio ranks sixth among the states in the value of farm production. There are approximately 22 million acres farmed in Ohio (in 220,000 farms), of which more than 200,000 have electricity—the largest amount of rural electrification in the nation. There were about 300,000 Ohio residents engaged in farm work in 1947, with the total product of Ohio agriculture worth more than one billion two hundred million dollars.

Ohio is now fifth among the states in population, ranking behind New York, Pennsylvania, California and Illinois in that order. Ohio's distribution of population, however, is better than that of any other industrialized state. If the largest city is removed from each state (New York City from New York, Philadelphia from Pennsylvania, Los Angeles from California, Chicago from Illinois and Cleveland from Ohio) Ohio ranks first in population.

The Spectator By C.C. Hartley

Another Minstrel Is Now History

The twentieth Hilltop Minstrel is merely conversation now, and again the Hilltop Business Association has been successful in entertaining a very large audience with one of the finest home talent productions presented each year in the city

It was too bad that a number of people claim they wanted to see the show but for some reason understood that tickets were not available. Until late Friday there were seats still available. The Wednesday night house had many seats empty.

The association has experimented with several methods of reserving the seats and certainly the plan followed this year of providing a period in which they could be made by mail was about the least painful method that could be provided.

From my personal standpoint it was a pleasure to witness a Hilltop Minstrel from a good seat down in the center section —one of but two times I have ever done so in 20 years. It was fun to listen to the jokes and applaud with the crowd, not knowing what was coming next.

Clyde Moore To Emcee Legion Dinner

Clyde Moore, columnist for the Ohio State Journal, will be the master of ceremonies at the annual "Hilltop Man of the Year dinner" to be held this evening at Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion, W. Broad-st and Burgess-av

The Hilltop Man of the Year program was originated in 1937 by Camp Chase Post as part of its community service program. It is now co-sponsored by the Hilltop Business Association and Hilltop Kiwanis Club

Its purpose is to encourage service to the community by giving recognition to the one person whose activity has been outstanding along these lines during the preceding year. Dewey Stout is commander of the Legion Post; Phil Stout, local attorney, leads the Hilltop Business Association, and Jack Sensenbrenner (last year's winner of the Man of the Year award) is president of the Kiwanis.

Members of the award committee include William (Bill) Krause, Lowell T. Sullivan and Clarke Finneran.

The dinner will be prepared and served by the members of Camp Chase Auxiliary, under the direction of the president, Mrs. Mary Fiscus, and Mrs. Lillian McVay, chairman of the committee.

Cowboys Win District Meet

By Bob Cromwell

Adding the district swimming crown to West High's rapidly growing sports list of championships, the West aqua-stars added 10 points in the last event to capture the meet with a grand total of 45 points on Feb. 21 at OSU Natatorium pool.

Dick "Whale" Sherman started the gala evening off to a bang-up start by winning the 50-yard free style in an amazing time of 24.5 seconds. His time is only .3 seconds from the state record.

In the 200-yard free style Lowell Cummins placed fifth to play a very important part in the scoring.

In the breast stroke, Gene Rigsby and Steve Howison finished fourth and fifth, respectively

Bill McCrady did a real swell job in the 100-yard back stroke placing fourth with a time of 1:15.8 seconds.

The biggest thrill of the evening was the 150-yard Ird. Med. in which Ronnie Bolin and Walt Binkley combined to give West 10 points by placing first and second, respectively. Bolin, who swam the distance in 1:45.4 seconds, was waiting on the pool's edge for Binkley, who beat out North's Hill by a half stroke. Ronnie Bolin has a very good chance of winning the state championship in his race.

Next in order was the diving, in which little Joe Balthaser, a first year man, placed fifth. He was edged out of fourth place by only one point, by a North man.

The 150-yard Med. Relay team, composed of McCrady, Rigsby and Cummins, placed third with a time of 1:33.2 seconds.

The last and most important event was the 200 yard free style relay. West was behind four points going into this relay. Ronnie Bolin gave the boys a lead of a yard and Wes Hart kept it there.

Next was Capt. Louie Wolfe, who had already placed second in the 100-yard freestyle and was determined to pull his team through.

Last was Dick Sherman, who left the others standing still and coasted to the finish. The time was 1:43.1 seconds

The evening was topped off by the presentation of the district trophy to Capt. Louie Wolfe by Mike Peppe, well known OSU swimming coach. At this moment the whole West High team gathered up Coach Ted Batondo and "Yours Truly" and pitched them into the water, clothes and all

Seiller's Announce Buying Connection

Will Enable Firm To Pass Savings On To Their Customers

Jack Merriman

Paul Leighninger

Jack Merriman and Paul Leighninger, officers of Seiller's, Inc., 2404-12 W. Broad-st, were in New York last week where they completed negotiations to join one of the country's largest buying syndicates which will result in savings being passed on to Seiller customers through the enormous buying power of this organization.

By pooling a combined buying power of $500,000,000, this group works to eliminate various "hidden costs" frequently involved in the manufacture and distribution of many classes of consumer goods, and at the same time improve the quality offered in such merchandise

Already in operation, the plan utilizes the enormous buying power of the group to obtain for their customers high quality merchandise from leading manufacturers on more favorable terms than prevail for similar goods where such planning does not exist.

Leading stores in their respective cities are cooperating through a central bureau set up in New York City by Kirby, Block & Co., Inc., a large buying organization, with which Seiller's has just become affiliated.

This method of buying will permit Seiller's to receive such merchandise direct from the manufacturer rather than go through a distributor or jobber, thus eliminating certain costs which will allow the firm to price the merchandise at a lower figure to the consumer.

Many of these special items are already in Seiller's stocks and can be recognized by the designation "CMB" which stands for Creative Merchandising Bureau, the name of the central organization in New York City.

Each item is also assigned a special brand name, generally associated with the family name "Kirbury", such as "Lord Kirbury", "Lady Kirbury", "Kirbury Teen", "Kirbury Boy". In some instances, specialized brand names are given to specialized items such as "Sleepcraft—A Kirbury Product", for blankets and pillows "Shammont—A Kirbury Product" is also used, for more popular priced merchandise. Each name is exclusive with Seiller's in this city.

This service and their 125 buying in New York affords Seiller's daily contact and representation in the New York market

Seiller's, famous for 40 years for their nationally advertised brands, will add numerous other such items through this service

The association has announced that the spring dance will be held on Apr. 27. John Nippert is chairman of the affair.

Parking problems of the community were referred to the safety committee of the association at the board meeting Tuesday.

The association has acknowledged appreciation to the Nescafe firm for supplying the coffee for the minstrel party last Friday night.

The system of recognizing students on the honor roll, making A and B grades in their scheduled subjects, has been followed for many years at West.

Questions have arisen regarding the present standards and whether these should be altered.

Little Theater Casts For New Play

Marion McMahan has been selected by the casting committee of the Hilltop Little Theater for the part of Irene in the organization's next production, "Her Husband's Wife," to be presented at John Burroughs School auditorium the evening of May 8

The story is that Irene is convinced that she will soon die and deliberately selects the woman she wants her husband to marry after her death

Other characters in the three act comedy are D. Knight Finley, as John, Irene's uncle; Joe Hague his nephew, Richard; Bob Spohn, the present husband of Irene, Minue Wilkins, the "selected" wife and Barbara Donavan, the efficient maid. The play will be directed by Virginia Denavan.

Her Husband's Wife, written by A. E. Thomas, was first produced professionally in the Broad Street Theater, Philadelphia, followed by long runs at the Garrick Theater and later in the Criterion Theater in New York

Its appeal to a discriminating public, due to the charming character of the hypochondriac Irene, with her unknown ailments and mystic pills, has made it a great favorite for amateur productions

Quick Thinking By Grocer Results In Catching Forger

An alleged forger is being held at police headquarters this week after an unsuccessful attempt to pass a forged check at the Fox Food Shop, 2422 W. Broad-st, Saturday evening.

Clarence Fisher's apprehension by police was due to a quick-thinking clerk, who called the Triangle Launderers and Cleaners, Inc to check the authenticity of a check made out by them, amounting to $49.05.

Carl Rofsky, manager of the dry cleaning company promptly told the grocer that the check was forged and suggested that he call the police. After a few heart-stopping minutes it was indirectly relayed to Rofsky, on the other end of the wire, that the forger was nearby, making it impossible for the clerk to call Courageously the clerk stalled Fisher until police arrived about 10 minutes later.

Two other men are being held with Fisher on forgery charges. They are Walter Fields and John Pitts. Police Sgt. Jay Teele reported that these men may be connected with a burglary, which occurred early Friday morning at the Triangle Launderers and Cleaners Company. A company check book and some clothing were stolen.

"Fisher denies knowledge of the burglary," Sgt. Teele said, "and maintains that an unidentified man gave him the check book."

Three other forged checks were passed on the West Side Saturday: one at Alber's Super Market, S. Powell-av and W. Broad-st; and another at Gray's Drug Store. The location of the third has not yet been reported.

Students, representing practically every registration home room at West High School, last week, made application for a charter, supporting the cause of Allied Youth, a national high school organization that has a program of alcohol education and alcohol-free recreation for its membership.

Thousands of teen-agers, including Hilltoppers, look to Allied Youth for honest, unemotional facts about drinking, and for help in meeting the social pressure constantly urging them to drink.

The organization has the okay of Principal Irvin F. Young at West High School, and the endorsement of men, prominent in the work, including Daniel A. Poling, J. Edgar Hoover, John R. Scott, John W. Studebaker, J. C. Penney, Erwin H. Hughes, Ray Lyman Wilbur, and S. D. Kresge.

Letchworth-av; Vic Lehmkuhl, vice-president, 3044 Fremont-st; Dorothy Myers, secretary, 497 Hilltonia-av; and Marilyn Gauggel, treasurer, 323 N. Warren-av.

1st Robin of Spring Too Cold To Sing

A shivering robin, who no doubt wished he had stayed down South, flew into Mrs. Mary Long's back yard, 24 S. Oakley-av, Tuesday.

Receiving a blustery greeting from old man winter, the first robin of spring gulped hungrily at food, which Mrs. Long leaves for two red birds each morning.

With temperatures hovering at 13 degrees Monday night and early Tuesday, our spring friend the robin, no doubt has a "bone to pick" with Jack Frost.

Three Girls Collect $7000 In Stamps For West High

Three West Junior High girls who rate high as sales tax stamp collectors are Phyllis Phillips, 253 N. Ogden-av, Barbara Koch, 364 S. Eureka-av, and Shirley Anderson, 396 S. Eureka-av. These three teen-age girls collected approximately $7000 in used sales tax receipts, netting the school a revenue of approximately $200.

Phyllis Phillips, 13, daughter of city detective, John E. Phillips, owes a lot of success to her father, who assists her in collecting and counting stamps. Mr. Phillips picks up stamps on his "pawn shop" beat downtown and solicits them from his police friends He also helped his son, John, to collect stamps when he was at West High. John is currently enrolled at Capital University.

Phyllis, an honor student at West, is also an outstanding twirler and performs with the West High band.

Shirley Anderson, a 9A student, has collected more than $3300 in stamps. Shirley is 14 and attended school in Indianapolis before coming to West. One of her hobbies, besides collecting stamps, is horseback riding. She has her own horse, Andy, whom she has trained herself. Her father operates Anderson Motors, Inc.

Barbara Koch, 13, has $2000 in stamps to her credit. Her father, who is head of the Lay-A-Way Department at Lazarus, is one of her ready assistants. Mr. Koch also helps other West students in the neighborhood to collect stamps.

"Someday Bill Will Thank You . . ."

So said the Sun Life Agent when he delivered my son Bill's Junior Adjustable policy — but he didn't have to tell me that. I know what a help it would have been to me if, when I was twenty-one, I had been given a life assurance policy that could be continued as Whole Life, Life Paid-up at 65, or Endowment at the same age, for as much as five times the original amount without increasing the premium. Especially when that premium was based on rates for a child. I didn't have this great advantage, but I'm making sure my son has it. How about you?

Cowboys End Season With Loss

By Dave Miller

West's basketballers closed their 1948-49 cage season Friday evening by taking it on the chin again from East High's Tigers, 49 to 41, on the Cowboy court.

Led by the sharp-shooting of aces Luther Towers and Johnny Johnson, the Tigers never trailed but once throughout the contest, and this one time was very early in the game. However, early in the third stanza, the Cowboys pulled to wiff in one point of the visitors but East's sharpshooters put the game in the bag from there on.

The game ended the Cowboys' season at a won-10, lost-10 mark and their City Loop campaign at a 5-7 record. East and Central were the only teams in the City League to beat the locals twice, while Aquinas was the only team West could beat in the same fashion. The Cowboys won 4 and 2 in the first round, and in the second round, without the services of Paul Theisen and Chuck Weeks through graduation for all but one game, the locals won only one and lost five.

In the East-West fray, Towers' free throw put East into a quick lead in the opening quarter, but LeRoy Hood hit on a side-push and West was ahead, 2-1. However, East came back with 10 straight points, in the person of baskets by Towers, Ted Hughes, George Powers, John Johnson and Ken Mizzelle. Hood and Phil Young finally broke the ice by hitting for three points but Mizzell, Johnson and Hughes all hit baskets to give East a 17-5 lead. Young's free throw made the score 17-6 at the first period's end.

In the second period, after Towers hit a hook, Cowboys Young and Bill Thrush hit on seven straight points to narrow East's lead to 19-13. Johnson and Powers hit three straight free tosses for East but Jim Rudolph's side shot and Phil Young's tip made it 22-17, still in the Tigers' favor.

Johnson of East sank two consecutive goals but Jim Rudolph and Bill Thrush of the locals chimed in in the same fashion to cut East's lead still to 26-19. Ken Mizzelle's long set just before halftime gave the ultimate winners a 28-21 halftime lead.

West came out like a house afire in the third period, scoring three straight buckets before the visitors could check themselves. Rudolph, Young and Fred Adams all hit buckets in this uprising which narrowed the score to 28-27. However, East banged away in the same fashion to more or less down the Cowboys' morale. Towers, Hughes and Johnson all hit on three straight to put East in the lead for keeps. From there, Rudolph sank a side shot, his favorite shot, and Johnson of the Tigers sank four straight points to make the score at the third period's duration, 38-29.

In the final period, it was merely a period in which East held a fairly convincing lead throughout. Their biggest margin was the 46-37 score, midway of the period, following Johnny Johnson's free throw. The closest the Cowboys could get was just after Jim Rudolph's free throw, narrowing East's lead to 40-35.

Big John Johnson of the Tigers was high point man with 15 tallies, followed closely by teammate Luther Towers and West's Jim Rudolph, both getting 13. Bill Thrush of the Cowboys had 12.

High scorer this year of the Cowboys was guard Dick Culbertson, who totaled 72 goals and 21 free throws for 165 tallies. Paul Theisen, a mid-year, who played eight fewer games than Culbertson, was second with 157.

The Central District Class A tournament is the next stop for our Cowboys and the locals will play this Friday evening, starting at 6 o'clock, in the Fairgrounds Coliseum, opposing Delaware Willis, the pennant winner in the Central Buckeye League this year.

The individual point total of West players this season in all games follows:

Player	G.	B.	Ft.	Tp.
Culbertson	20	72	21	165
*Theisen	11	59	39	157
Thrush	20	46	32	124

Did Gypsy Dance At West Carnival

Norma Hartgers

Pretty Norma Hartgers, 17, West High School junior, was one of the featured entertainers at the recent West High Spanish Club "Carnival". Miss Hartgers did a gypsy dance entitled "La Gitana". She is a pupil of Gwen Kagey, dancing instructor.

Dancing, a musical floor show and refreshments were highlights of the carnival party Mar. 1, headed by Mrs. Margaret Harold.

Mistress of ceremonies was Clara James. Posters and pictures served as decorations for the party and Jimmy Hill and his orchestra played for the dance, which followed later.

Those taking part in the program were Margaret Morgan, a French song; Norma Hartgers, gypsy dance; Jennine Dickendesher, accordion solo; Sue Glass, Martha Haliday, Nancy Hardy and Ruth Ogle, song and dance specialty numbers.

BIBLE COMMENT

FOR MARCH 6

Parables of Jesus Were Unique in Quality and Truth

THE use of stories to point, or illustrate, truth is about as old as man's effort for expression. It has been widely prevalent in both ancient and modern times; and it has been in secular, as well as in sacred, literature.

The use of the parable was not unique with Jesus. There were many parables in the Old Testament. The parable was a natural incident of oriental imagery and figures of speech. What was unique in the parables of Jesus was their supreme quality as stories.

The parable is usually thought of as an imaginary tale. That's how the dictionary defines it. Why it would be less a parable, if the incidents that it relates had happened in real life, is difficult to understand. The Parable of the Prodigal Son would have been as much of a parable if it had happened just as Jesus told it in the case of an actual father and son.

But on the other hand its use and the truth that it had to declare did not depend on being literal. It might have been any father and any son. Jesus told it to make plain in the picture of that loving father the love of God the Father, and His readiness to receive and forgive His wayward children.

I suppose that outside of the Bible the most famous parables are the Fables of Aesop. Aesop wrote much of animals, but he really had in mind people, to whom he was offering wisdom.

It is noticeable that the parables of Jesus were of people. They were not of animals or imaginary beings. They were true to life. They were what might have happened, and what does happen.

Moreover, what the parables of Jesus relate might happen in any time or place. They are as true to life today as they were to the life of the day when Jesus uttered them.

It is this element of timelessness that has made the parables of Jesus such living expressions of truth. How different it would have been if Jesus had put in labored philosophical discourses the truth that He put in simple, effective stories.

West Junior Defeats Starling 42-32 To Close 50-50 Cage Season

By Dave Miller

West Junior's basketball five their third straight game, 42 to ended their 1948-49 City Junior 32 by a verdict over their neigh- High Basketball play by taking bors, Starling Junior High.

The locals never trailed once throughout the entire contest and, in fact held a 13-0 lead at the first period. However, their opponents were no pushovers by a long shot as the 11 shots they took in the first quarter to try and break the ice were all tough luck shots. The closest the Central Avenue School goers got was at a 32-29 clip midway in the final quarter. But the locals quickly called timeout and then started to find their range again.

The win ended up the locals' record at five-won, five-lost. Coach Red Lehman of West Junior expressed that a coach always tries to better the year-before record, and he did so, and last year's squad had only a 4-5 standing.

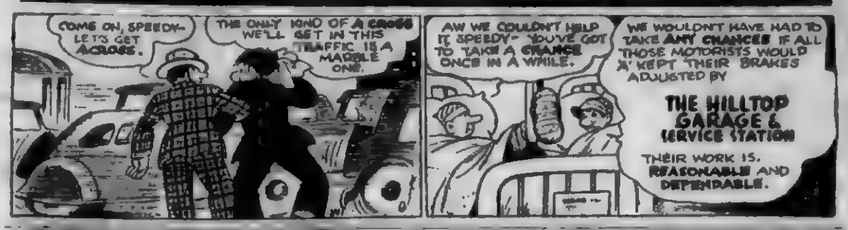
In the first period, Jerry Trabue sank three nice push shots, Dick Hutchison two longies, Bob Thornton, a tip-in and Doug Clark a free toss to give the locals a 13-0 first quarter. In the second quarter, Dick Hutchison sank another long shot, but Bill Henthorn of Starling and Dave Bollinger followed through with three straight goals to give West Junior a lead of 15-6.

Bob Thornton quickly tapped two straight in for West. But Ken Callendine and Jack Buck hit for three points. Thornton and Henthorn matched two-pointers just before the half ended to give West a 24 to 12 halftime lead.

In the third stanza, two goals by Wayne Lee and Henthorn of Starling cut the lead to 24 to 18, but Trabue and Bill Haire pitched in for West Junior for four quickies to match it. Henthorn and Trabue matched buckets, but Clark of the visitors chimed in the right time with two free tosses. After a five-point spree by Henthorn and Bollinger, West led, 32-23 at the third period's end.

In the fourth quarter, Henthorn quickly sank a side shot, and Lee hit on two straight long shots to cut the West Junior lead 32-29, and Starling was determined to make it a ball game yet. However, Bill Haire, Bob Thornton and Jerry Trabue then started to rack, and before Starling knew it they were left in the dust, 42-29. Henthorn's two free throws and Callendine's one made it the final score.

It was the first West Junior game this year that they have not used a single sub. Starling used two. It was the final game for 9A's on the West team, Jim Murray, Ed Gleibs, John Whalen, Walt Meredith, Ellis Easterly and Jim McGuire. The entire first team will be back next year, for the entire season, with the exception of Jerry Trabue, stellar center, who will graduate at mid-year.



Trabue was a unanimous vote on the All-Junior High team picked by the Columbus Citizen the past week and will probably be the same on the Columbus Dispatch team which will appear this week-end.

Top-scorer in the Starling game was Bill Henthorn of Starling, who copped 16 tallies. However, Trabue and Thornton of the locals followed close behind, both with 15 points. In the second period, when Trabue was held scoreless, Thronton picked up the slack by making nine points. In the third period, when Thornton was scoreless, Trabue tallied seven points.

Trabue was high scorer this season for West with 114 points.

West Reserves Have Tough Time Against East

By Dave Miller

West High's reserve squad had a tough time of things this year. Coach Fred Heischman of the reserves was presented with flowers in a West High assembly for winning the City League reserve crown, when at the moment his team was in a tie for first place with East's reserve with the two teams waiting for their meeting that Friday evening.

After the assembly, the pressure was really on the West seconds and they put all they had into the game with the East's seconds, holding them to only one point in the last half, but still lost by the slim margin of only 21-19. The loss gave our locals a 9-3 record in the City League and second place to East who had 10-2. The East reserves were the only team that beat, the locals both times this year. In the first meeting, East won, 34-25. The other loss suffered by the Broncos was a 29-27 heart-breaker to Central in the first round. However, they got revenge in the second round by whipping their neighbors, 35-29.

In the East-West prelim, the visitors had rung up a 9-0 lead before Jerry Johnson finally sank a free throw for the locals, and the first period ended, 9-1. In the second quarter, two goals by Chester Jones and one by Bernard Granger sent East way ahead, 15-1. George Crissinger sank West's first bucket, a tip-in, and Paul Ellingsworth, stellar forward on the local quintet, sank a duo of free tosses to cut it to 18-5. Lester Mackey sank a goal and Harry Kauffman made three straight for East in comparison to West's Paul Thompson's free throw, and the half ended, 20-6. Little did East know at this point that they would not get another bucket the remainder of the game.

In the third period, Paul Ellingsworth, George Crissinger and Jerry Johnson all chimed in for eight points for the locals to cut East's lead to 20-14 at the third period's end.

Chet Jones of East sank a free throw to break the ice for the little Tigers and increase their lead to 21-14 at the beginning of the period. Earl Potts sank a drive-in bunny and Ellingsworth cut the East lead to 21-18 with a long push shot. George Crissinger's free toss set the score at 21-19, one minute before the game's end.

Ellingsworth of the locals and Harry Kauffman of East were tied with top honors, both getting six.

In all the games this year, the reserves have won 10 games and lost 5. In non-league, they beat Bexley and lost to Newark and Grandview.

Hilltop Record To Be Published Tuesdays And Thursdays Starting April 7

The Hilltop Record will become a semi-weekly newspaper on or about Apr. 7 it was announced this week by G. Carlton Hartley, publisher.

This step is being taken in order to provide better news service for readers of the paper and a better advertising medium for local merchants.

The Record will be published each Tuesday and Thursday evening and will be delivered on those evenings to Hilltop residents by carriers. All other subscribers living outside the Hilltop limits will continue to receive their paper by mail twice a week.

All present subscribers will continue to receive the Record until the expiration of their present subscription without any additional payment for the extra paper each week.

Under the new plan the Record subscription rate will be 60c per month, payable to the carrier when he collects monthly, or 8c per week payable to the carrier. Paid in advance subscriptions will be available at $3.00 per year, thus providing a saving to those persons who care to pay by this method. One year renewals to the Record will be received at the office at the present weekly paper rate until Apr. 1, after which time new rates will go into effect.

Forrest Eckert, Record circulation manager, is now organizing carrier routes and advises that several good routes are still open. Any boys interested should contact him at the Record office.

In order to set the new plan in motion a large section of the Hilltop will receive their papers by carrier delivery, starting next Wednesday evening. Homes in the area bounded by the state hospital, Glenwood Park, Floral-av, Ong-st, Clarendon to Sullivant, to Eureka, north to Fremont, to Hague, south to Wicklow, west to Roys and north to Broad and that area north of Broad from Chase to Wheatland-av are scheduled to start on this system next Wednesday.

Any regular subscriber who has not received a paper by noon Thursday should contact the Record circulation department.

Persons living in the above described area are urged to look for their Record next Wednesday evening on their porches. Delivery is scheduled to be completed some time from 4 to 5:30 p. m.

Further details about the changeover will be announced in later issues of the Record.

Local Girl Scouts and Camp Fire Girls Celebrate Anniversaries in March

Wing Scouts and Leaders Receive Wings

Twenty-four Wing Scouts and two leaders received silver wings Feb. 27 in an impressive ceremony at Westgate Methodist Church.

The ceremony climaxes six months of aviation pre-flight training for the 24 girls. This award represented many hours of work completed in the girls' Senior Scout aviation program.

The Wing Scout ceremony opened with a pledge to the flag followed by the singing of the Scout hymn. The girls, in costume, stood in a column of four rows, and each row lit candles in memory or honor of an outstanding woman in aviation. After dedicating their candles to such women as Harriet Quimby, Amelia Earhart, Ann Lindberg and Jacqueline Cochran, the scouts formed a double horseshoe, with the girls in the center dedicating their candles to the future of aviation.

Presentation of wings was made by Marge Miller and Helen Linn, members of the Ohio Chapter of the 99's (a women's aviation club).

Joan Smith of the Girl Scout office awarded the two leaders, Mrs. E. Bradfute and Mrs. M. Meisner, with five year pins.

Leaders then awarded five year pins to girls in each troop, who had five years of scouting experience.

Members of Troop 105 to receive five-year awards were: Annabelle Allard, 486 Ogden-av, Marjorie Lancia, 160 N. Hague-av; Sonia Meisner, 592 Salisbury-rd; Sheila Jane Pugh, 620 Wiltshire-rd; Janet Sayer, 588 Wiltshire-rd; Gloria Russell, 3265 Parkside-rd; Diane Smith, 591 Binns-blvd; Phyllis Truitt, 585 S. Burgess-av.

Five-year members of Troop 107 to receive awards were: Barbara Bradfute, 332 Binns-blvd; Sandra Timmons, 397 S. Richardson-av; Donna Williams, 239 S. Terrace-av.

Girls who received their wings in the recent ceremony at Westgate Methodist Church completed their first year requirements, which include:

1. Knowing the principles of personal safety while travelling by air.
2. Knowing the major parts and functions of the plane.
3. Knowing the history behind the name of individual flight troops.
4. Knowing first aid requirements found in the Girl Scout Handbook.
5. Presenting a properly filled out health record.

Teas and Parties Will Highlight Anniversary Weeks

By Doris McGill

This month thousands of Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts in the nation and hundreds on the Hilltop will actively join in the anniversary celebrations of their respective organizations.

Girl Scout Week

Girl Scout Week beginning Mar. 6 and ending Mar. 12 will mark the 37th birthday of the Girl Scouts of America.

The keynote for 1949 is "Girl Scouts United by Ideals." These ideals are of community, national and international significance, and include World, National and Community friendship service, and devotion to the Girl Scout law and creed.

During Girl Scout Week all Columbus scouts will assemble at the Lazarus Assembly Center for the annual Juliette Low World Friendship Party, given in memory of Miss Low, the founder of the Girl Scout organization in America.

Three parties will be held. The Brownies will meet Tuesday, Mar. 8, at 4 p. m. and Girl Scouts and Senior Scouts will meet Mar. 10 at 4 p. m. and Mar. 12 at 3 p. m.

Girl Scouting on the Hilltop has increased by leaps and bounds, since its modest beginning many years ago. Today Hilltop Scouts number 400, all of whom are intensely interested in promoting the cause and program of scouting.

Hilltop Girl Scouts, as a unit of the Columbus and Franklin County Girl Scouts, are members of the Council of Social Agencies. As social workers, the girls assist with the annual Community Fund Drive and in the distribution of Christmas seals to combat tuberculosis.

Brownies and Girl Scouts, both send boxes to hospitalized children and give annual parties at the Juvenile Center and the Community House.

All Columbus Scouts participate in the Junior and Senior Planning Boards, the Juliette Friendship Party, the annual Folk Dance Festival and camping trips.

Camp Fire Girl Week

The 39th annual Birthday celebration of the Camp Fire Girls of America will be celebrated by Hilltop Camp Fire Girls the week of Mar. 13 to Mar. 19.

The 1949 theme of the national Camp Fire Birthday project is "Make Mine Democracy," which is in keeping with the Camp Fire law.

The Hilltop Camp Fire program reaches girls of all ages: The Bluebirds, 7 to 10 years; Camp Fire Girls, 10 to high school age; Horizon Club, senior high to college age.

Each year the F. & R. Lazarus Co. gives a birthday tea in celebration of Camp Fire Week. A space is provided at the tea for an exhibit of Camp Fire projects and a short program is held after the tea. Invitations are sent to each leader and her group. This year the tea will be held on Mar. 22, for the Bluebirds and on Mar. 24, for the Camp Fire Girls.

As another observance of their birthday celebration, Camp Fire Girls will attend their respective churches in uniform on Sunday, Mar. 13. This event will be in observance of the first Camp Fire Law, which is to "Worship God."

One of the main events on the Camp Fire calendar of activities is the Grand Council Fire held annually in the spring. This year the Grand Council Fire will be held in the Coliseum, and girls will be awarded ranks and honors earned during the past year.

Three ranks to be awarded at this year's Council Fire are the Trailseeker's rank, the Woodgatherer's rank, and the Firemaker's rank.

News of individual Bluebird and Camp Fire Girl groups may be found elsewhere in the tabloid.

Post Plans To Start Building This Year

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Much of this valuable time was lost, however, when the post found it was impossible to secure materials and for quite some time the government would not even grant a permit for such a building. Since that time these restrictions have been lifted and now the post is anxious to proceed with the building.

Ray McVay, chairman of the committee, and Edgar G. Planck stated this week that the post feels that the required extensions will be signed within a very short time and that the post will actually get the building started and possibly completed yet this year.

Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Dear Friend:

As one of the subscribers to Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion Memorial Hall Fund, for the Veterans Memorial Hall on the Hilltop, we feel that you should be acquainted with the following facts:

For a long time after the end of World War No. 2 we were delayed in the construction of said building on account of the scarcity of material and also for the additional reason that priorities were granted by the government for the construction of other buildings considered more urgent.

In 1944 we acquired and paid for out of our own legion funds the site for the building, which is located on W. Broad-st.

We now have plans for the construction of the building with the available funds which were contributed by you and other citizens. These funds are held in trust by the Ohio National Bank of Columbus, and can be used only for the purpose of erecting or acquiring a Veterans Memorial Hall. We consider this a sacred trust.

In view of the fact that we have been delayed in the construction of the building, for the reasons set out above, beyond the time contemplated, and in order to keep faith with you, we are requesting that you sign the attached Extension of Time agreement and return the post and bank copies to us in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience.

Your compliance with this request will make it possible for us to proceed with our plans for construction of the building. We are asking you for an extension of approximately two years from this date in order that we may proceed with care.

It is our intention to construct the best building possible with the money now available together with any additional sums we may acquire.

We wish to thank you for the faith you have placed in us and the fine community spirit you have shown by your subscription and hope you can see your way clear to grant us the extension of time we have requested.

Sincerely,

THE COMMITTEE

The majority of the children in Kenai are natives or half-breeds, not very good students, and progression is difficult under present conditions.

Here is an excerpt from one of the Lees' letters: "Now, I'll try to tell you about the library and how wonderful the library committee thinks you are. If I could only tell you their exact message—anyway, they want you to know that the entire town appreciates the efforts you are making—that the books you get for us will be the very beginning of our library—we have absolutely nothing right now."

Kenai is growing and because it is so isolated it needs a library. So many of the children have never been but a few miles from home and have no conception of the outside world—have never seen a train, a movie, elevator, etc. With the aid of books some of the underprivileged natives with unfortunate home conditions could improve their standard of living.

Alaskans read almost constantly because there is practically no other source of amusement. The store in Kenai sells pocket editions, but no classics or good reading matter.

Camp Fire and Girl Scout Leaders Build Good Citizenship

Camp Fire Leaders On Hilltop

Officials of the Camp Fire Girls deserve considerable credit for their work in promoting the better health and moral welfare of Hilltop teen-age girls. All have previous Camp Fire experience and have been easily adapted to their roles as leaders.

The West District Camp Fire Leaders' Asscciation, composed of all guardians and assistant guardians, is the backbone of Camp Fire Girl community life.

Three board members of the Columbus and Franklin County Camp Fire Leaders' Association are also active in this group.

Mrs. Julia Myers, president of the Columbus and Franklin County organization, has been active in Camp Fire work on the Hilltop since 1940. In May, 1948, Mrs. Myers gave up her position as leader of the Wakiwe group to serve for two years as district chairman.

Mrs. Myers has two daughters, both active in Camp Fire work. Norma Jean, now with Westgate Electric Co., a Camp Fire Girl since 1940, now heads a Hilltop Camp Fire group. Dorothy Ellen, a senior at West High School, joined the Camp Fire Girls in 1942 and is now an assistant leader. Both daughters have received their five year honors.

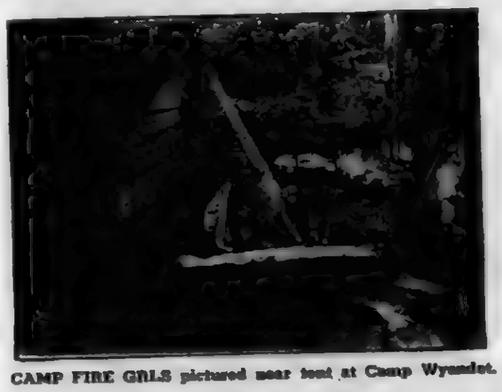
Mrs. Frances Emerick, a member of the Camp Fire board, has been associated with Camp Fire work for the past 10 years.

In May, 1940, Mrs. Emerick was presented a national award for the most outstanding work in this district. She has served as president of the Columbus and Franklin County Leaders' Association and as vice-president of the board of directors.

The present chairman of the interorganizatcn committee, she is well-known to Hilltoppers as a member of the staff of the Hilltop Library.

D. K. Finley, safety director of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, is civic chairman of the Columbus and Franklin County Camp Fire Leaders' Association.

Officers of the West District Leaders' Association for this year are Mrs. Elise Wright, chairman of the group, who has been a member of the organization since June, 1947; Mrs. Laura Siegfried, secretary; Mrs. Doris Birkhead, treasurer, who has been associated with West district for three years, and Mrs. Mary Thomas, telephone chairman.



LEADERS of the Camp Fire Girls on the Hilltop are shown seated, left to right: Shirley Calhcun, Mrs. Mason Seymcur, Mrs. Doris Birkhead, Mrs. Elise Wright, Mrs. Julia Myers, Mrs. Margaret Henry and Mrs. Gerald Swisher. Leaders meet regularly to discuss organization policy and to plan yearly programs for West District's Camp Fire Girls.

Girl Scout Leaders On Hilltop

Girl Scout leaders and their assistants have filled an important need in the Hilltop community by offering healthful and social recreational opportunities for Hilltop's teen-agers.

Mrs. Wilma Bradfute, district chairman of the Girl Scouts, is particularly active in local Girl Scout activities. As district chairman her duty is to iron out difficulties as they arise and to supervise the general program of activities.

Mrs. Lois Swack, field director, is another West Sider who is actively interested in the Girl Scout program. Miss Swack is a member of the downtown staff of the Girl Scout office.

District VIII (including the Hilltop) of the Columbus and Franklin County Council of Girl Scouts is separated into six individual units, John Burroughs, St. Mary Magdalene, West High School, St. Aloysius, Grove City and Sullivant Gardens.

Officers of these neighborhood groups meet bi-monthly to discuss individual neighborhood problems and to outline council policies for the district as a whole. A total of 106 officers from the four Hilltop neighborhood associations are promoting Girl Scout activity on the Hilltop. Officers of the four groups are:

John Burroughs: Mrs. H. C. Booth, chairman; Mrs. Carl Spohn, vice-chairman; Mrs. Lowell Hardacre, secretary-treasurer.

St. Mary Magdalene: Mrs. E. M. Grady, chairman.

West High School: Mrs. W. E. Glass, chairman; Mrs. Clarence Miller, secretary-treasurer.

St. Aloysius: Mrs. Sylvester Reinhard, chairman.

A group of children were going to the movies and to save time they gave the money to one boy to buy the tickets. He walked up to the cashier's booth and she said, "How many of you?"

He promptly replied, "All of us."

Camping To Be Chief Camp Fire Activity This Summer

By Doris McGill

Camp Wyandot, located on the historic old Wyandot Trail near Lake Atagahi, provides healthful outdoor camping activities to nearly 500 Camp Fire Girls each summer.

Purchased in 1927 by the Camp Property Committee, the area comprises 253 acres of scenic woodland territory. Camp Fire Girls regularly visit Wyandot for monthly, weekly, or week-end outings.

Abounding in wild-life, the grounds afford Camp Fire Girls extensive opportunities to study flowers, trees, ferns, mosses and other botanical subjects.

Hiking, camp outings, picnicking, nature study, handcraft, boating and swimming are only a few of many activities followed by girls at the camp.

Built to lodge 160 girls, including guests and staff members, the camp is always booked to capacity. Girls are lodged in 13 cabins. Three tents a staff lodge, a nature cabin, a handcraft lodge, a hospital and Hislop Lodge complete the accommodation facilities.

Hislop Lodge

Hislop Lodge, pictured above, was built in 1934 primarily by fathers of the girls, who volunteered for the job. Logs used in construction were taken from the wooded area surrounding the camp and the lodge's three large fireplaces were built from sandstone blasted from the Wyandot grounds.

The sleeping cabins, constructed later, were also built by volunteer fathers. Funds for materials came from donations. The hospital, known as Hoskin Lodge, was built as a memorial to a former Camp Fire Girl. Hambleton Lodge, the nature cabin, was constructed as a tribute to the father of one of the Camp Fire board members.

Lake Atagahi, now used for swimming, was formed by damming a small stream, which emptied into Clear Creek. This spot, due to heavy rains and other conditions, has become undesirable. The girls are looking forward to the construction of the new swimming pool, which is expected to be completed in 1950. Initial plans show the pool will be 35 feet wide and 75 feet long.

Hilltop Camp Fire groups have worked hard to make the proposed swimming pool a reality. A concert was sponsored to raise funds and girls have used proceeds from the sale of candy, Christmas cards and doughnuts to further the project.

Plans are now under way for nine weeks of camping this summer. Betty Fouke, director, and her committee are looking forward to the 1949 supervised summer program. Bulletins with all particulars will be mailed soon, Camp Fire Girls were advised.

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Much of this valuable time was lost, however, when the post found it was impossible to secure materials and for quite some time the government would not even grant a permit for such a building. Since that time these restrictions have been lifted and now the post is anxious to proceed with the building.

Ray McVay, chairman of the committee, and Edgar G. Planck stated this week that the post feels that the required extensions will be signed within a very short time and that the post will actually see the building started and probably completed yet this year.

Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Dear Friend:

As one of the subscribers to Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion Memorial Hall Fund, for the Veterans Memorial Hall on the Hilltop, we feel that you should be acquainted with the following facts:

For a long time after the end of World War No. 2 we were delayed in the construction of said building on account of the scarcity of material and also for the additional reason that priorities were granted by the government for the construction of other buildings considered more urgent.

In 1944 we acquired and paid for out of our own legion funds the site for the building, which is located on W. Broad-st.

We now have plans for the construction of the building with the available funds which were contributed by you and other citizens. These funds are held in trust by the Ohio National Bank of Columbus, and can be used only for the purpose of erecting or acquiring a Veterans Memorial Hall. We consider this a sacred trust.

In view of the fact that we have been delayed in the construction of the building, for the reasons set out above, beyond the time contemplated, and in order to keep faith with you, we are requesting that you sign the attached Extension of Time agreement and return the post and bank copies to us in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience.

Your compliance with this request will make it possible for us to proceed with our plans for construction of the building. We are asking you for an extension of approximately two years from this date in order that we may proceed with care.

It is our intention to construct the best building possible with the money now available together with any additional sums we may acquire.

We wish to thank you for the faith you have placed in us and the fine community spirit you have shown by your subscription and hope you can see your way clear to grant us the extension of time we have requested.

Sincerely,
Sincerely,

The majority of the children in Kenai are natives or half-breeds, not very good students, and progression is difficult under present conditions.

Here is an excerpt from one of the Lees' letters: "Now, I'll try to tell you about the library and how wonderful the library committee thinks you are. If I could only tell you their exact message—anyway, they want you to know that the entire town appreciates the efforts you are making—that the books you get for us will be the very beginning of our library—we have absolutely nothing right now."

Kenai is growing and because it is so isolated it needs a library. So many of the children have never been but a few miles from home and have no conception of the outside world—have never seen a train, a movie, elevator, etc. With the aid of books some of the underprivileged natives with unfortunate home conditions could improve their standard of living.

Alaskans read almost constantly because there is practically no other source of amusement. The store in Kenai sells pocket editions, but no classics or good reading matter.

Girl Scouts Plan Summer Activities At Camp Clime and Camp Ken Jockety

Outdoor activities have always held a major place in the Girl Scout program. Girls of all ages have participated in the annual trips to the Girl Scout day camp at Camp Clime, and to the established camp, at Camp Ken Jockety.

Day Camp is one way of making an outdoor program available to a large number of girls in an inexpensive way. Girls may enjoy seven days in camp for the small amount of $2.00, which includes milk for the noon meal, transportation to the camp, and materials for crafts.

The District VIII or West Side camping period will be from July 11 to July 19 and will be under the supervision of trained personnel. Special training sessions for leaders will be Mar. 29, Apr. 2, 12, 19, 26, and May 3.

The Hilltop Business Association, the Kiwanis Club and the John Burroughs PTA have helped in the past two years to defray transportation expenses for the camping trips.

About 280 young campers will attend Camp Ken Jockety, west of Hubbard-rd. near West Jefferson, this summer. Five groups of 70 girls each will stay for a two-week period.

The camp site was bought by the Girl Scout board in 1929 and consists of 50 acres of rolling, wooded land.

The campers live in tents, four girls to a tent. A dining lodge, a reservation lodge and a swimming pool are all features of Ken Jockety.

Another important addition to the camp is the Pioneer Village, in which older and more experienced scouters live. It is equipped with jungle hammocks and an Adirondack shack.

Registration for camping will begin Apr. 1. The campers' fee is $33.00 for a two week period. The Girl Scout laws and promise govern the camp.

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From H. H. V.: "I remember when "split-the-top" was a popular game. Each kid had a top with a sharp spear point with which he would try to split the other kid's top. Once a kid's top was split, he'd lose interest in spinning tops for a while and turn to hunting carbon rods beneath arc lights, catching crabs in the ditches, picking up an old rusty tea kettle and arriving home with almost everything imaginable in the kettle and stuffed into his already bulging pockets."

From Henry H. Vocke: "I remember when blacksmiths used to make rings for us kids out of horseshoe nails. Also when we would buy a ball of twine for five cents and make our own baseballs, using tire tape for the cover."

R. H. S.: "I remember how Mother used to cook all meals over a hot kitchen range and think nothing of the inconvenience compared to now. And how the evening meal was eaten in the dining room with that round art-globe oil lamp on a high stand as the only light. Those were the days when Dad would retire to the sitting room and didn't want to be disturbed."

From R. H. S.: "I remember how boys used to snatch a drink from the center dome-head of the horse-watering troughs along the streets. And how some thirsty girl would come along to pound the boy's head and sometimes [illegible] Those dome-heads were all cast iron."

L. P. H.: "I remember when streetcars in the big cities were drawn by two horses. The driver stood without shelter of any kind and during the winter he used hay and straw underfoot to keep his feet warm. The fare was five cents. Now, in Chicago, it's 13 cents."

J. O. M.: "I remember when you could go to Horlin's restaurant and get a 21-meal ticket for $3.50 and on Saturday night you'd get a nice fat cigar as a treat."

420 Girl Scouts Organized In Four Local Units

The four neighborhood associations of the Hilltop Girl Scouts have a total membership of 420 girls. John Burroughs, with 180 members, is the oldest on the Hilltop, having been formed in 1945. Neighborhood leaders realized the need for such an organization four years ago and worked with the Columbus and Franklin County Council to sponsor the organization.

The purpose of the movement was to bring cooperation between the leaders, troop committees and the troops; to promote scouting on the Hilltop, to offer suggestions, and to give an opportunity for leaders to exchange ideas.

The John Burroughs Association has grown from a membership of 12 leaders to its present 60 members, which includes leaders, co-leaders and committee members.

One of the many projects of this group is a get-together every six weeks for all Girl Scouts in the neighborhood. These meetings feature folk dancing, singing, social programs and announcements of Girl Scout activities.

St. Mary Magdalene

Under the sponsorship of the Ladies' Altar Society, Girl Scouting was inaugurated at St. Mary Magdalene in the fall of 1947. At that time three Brownie and three intermediate troops were organized.

In January, 1948, 150 girls were invested into scouting with Rev. Fr. Kenneth Wise officiating. This service was the first of its kind ever held in a Catholic church in Columbus.

Intermediate scouts of this association have participated in hostessing, needlecraft, designing, cooking and leathercraft, since their organization. The Brownies have kept busy with programs, featuring folk dancing, games, songs, handcraft, and sight-seeing trips.

The girls have also participated in hikes and week-end outings, and during the Christmas season sent relief boxes to displaced persons in Europe.

St. Aloysius

Organized on Oct. 19, 1948, the St. Aloysius association now has a membership of 75 girls and 16 leaders. Two Girl Scout groups and two Brownie groups compose the organization. Most of St. Aloysius' Girl Scouts participate in church activities. The girls attend a regular communion service and participate in other church programs.

Selling calendars, candy and collecting paper for annual paper drives are only a few of the girls' activities. During their regular meetings they have made aprons, sequin pins, felt needle holders and embroidered tea towels.

The scouts also have appeared as guests of the "Listen Ladies" program. A future project is a trip to the gas company, where they will receive instructions in cooking.

West High School

The West High School Neighborhood Association is the newest on the Hilltop, having been formed in September, 1948. Most of the members are former Girl Scouts, who have come from other groups.

In October the Scouts from the West High School district journeyed to Camp Ken-Jockety for a get-together and supper. At Christmas time the girls held a carol sing at the United Brethren Church.

At the present time the group is composed of 85 Scouts and 14 leaders, which includes co-leaders and troop committee members.

Hilltop Record To Be Published Tuesdays And Thursdays Starting April 7

The Hilltop Record will become a semi-weekly newspaper on or about Apr. 7 it was announced this week by C. Carlton Hartley, publisher.

This step is being taken in order to provide better news service for readers of the paper and a better advertising medium for local merchants.

The Record will be published each Tuesday and Thursday evening and will be delivered on those evenings to Hilltop residents by carriers. All other subscribers living outside the Hilltop limits will continue to receive their paper by mail twice a week.

All present subscribers will continue to receive the Record until the expiration of their present subscription without any additional payment for the extra paper each week.

Under the new plan the Record subscription rate will be 35c per month, payable to the carrier when he collects monthly, or 9c per week payable to the carrier. Paid in advance subscriptions will be available at $3.00 per year, thus providing a saving to those persons who care to pay by this method. One year renewals to the Record will be received at the office at the present weekly paper rate until Apr. 1, after which time new rates will go into effect.

Forrest Eckart, Record circulation manager, is now organizing carrier routes and advises that several good routes are still open. Any boys interested should contact him at the Record office.

In order to set the new plan in motion a large section of the Hilltop will receive their papers by carrier delivery, starting next Wednesday evening. Homes in the area bounded by the state hospital, Glenwood Park, Floral-av, Ong-st, Clarendon to Sullivant, to Eureka, north to Fremont, to Hague, south to Wicklow, west to Roys and north to Broad and that area north of Broad from Chase to Wheatland-av are scheduled to start on this system next Wednesday.

Any regular subscriber who has not received a paper by noon Thursday should contact the Record circulation department.

Persons living in the above described area are urged to look for their Record next Wednesday evening on their porches. Delivery is scheduled to be completed some time from 4 to 9:30 p. m.

Further details about the changeover will be announced in later issues of the Record.

Air-Minded Girl Scouts Getting Aviation Pre-Flight Training

Wing Scouting is a comparatively new field on the Hilltop. Composed of senior girls, the Wing Scout program consists of aviation pre-flight training. Girls are instructed in essentials of air travel and learn basic information necessary for careers in aviation.

In September, 1948, through the interest and cooperation of Gomer Jones, of Jones Flying Service, two Girl Scout troops originated the Wing Scout program on the Hilltop. In 1942 Wing Scouting became a recognized part of the national Girl Scout program.

In November the scouts and their leaders met with Marge Miller, president of the Ohio Chapter of the 99's (an organization of women flyers), who is working out an aviation program with her committee for the girls. Meeting of the Kiwi squadron (composed of two or more flights) are held every six weeks. Movies, instructions and guided tours feature these meetings.

In January the girls as guests of 99 Club visited Port Columbus and were shown the control tower, weather bureau and hangars. Guides were Marge and Lee Miller.

The two Wing Scout troops on the Hilltop are No. 105, the Blackhawk troop, and No. 107, the Shooting Star troop.

Post Plans To Start Building This Year

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Post Plans To Start Building This Year

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Much of this valuable time was lost, however, when the post found it was impossible to secure materials and for quite some time the government would not even grant a permit for such a building. Since that time these restrictions have been lifted and now the post is anxious to proceed with the building.

Ray McVay, chairman of the committee, and Edgar G. Planck stated this week that the post feels that the required extensions will be signed within a very short time and that the post will actually get the building started and probably completed yet this year.

Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Dear Friend:

As one of the subscribers to Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion Memorial Hall Fund, for the Veterans Memorial Hall on the Hilltop, we feel that you should be acquainted with the following facts:

For a long time after the end of World War No. 2 we were delayed in the construction of said building on account of the scarcity of material and also for the additional reason that priorities were granted by the government for the construction of other buildings considered more urgent.

In 1944 we acquired and paid for out of our own legion funds the site for the building, which is located on W. Broad-st.

We now have plans for the construction of the building with the available funds which were contributed by you and other citizens. These funds are held in trust by the Ohio National Bank of Columbus, and can be used only for the purpose of erecting or acquiring a Veterans Memorial Hall. We consider this a sacred trust.

In view of the fact that we have been delayed in the construction of the building, for the reasons set out above, beyond the time contemplated, and in order to keep faith with you, we are requesting that you sign the attached Extension of Time agreement and return the post and bank copies to us in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience.

Your compliance with this request will make it possible for us to proceed with our plans for construction of the building. We are asking you for an extension of approximately two years from this date in order that we may proceed with care.

It is our intention to construct the best building possible with the money now available together with any additional sums we may acquire.

We wish to thank you for the faith you have placed in us and the fine community spirit you have shown by your subscription and hope you can see your way clear to grant us the extension of time we have requested.

Sincerely,

Sincerely,
THE COMMITTEE

The majority of the children in Kenai are natives or half-breeds, not very good students, and progression is difficult under present conditions.

Here is an excerpt from one of the Lees' letters: "Now, I'll try to tell you about the library and how wonderful the library committee thinks you are. If I could only tell you their exact message—anyway, they want you to know that the entire town appreciates the efforts you are making—that the books you get for us will be the very beginning of our library—we have absolutely nothing right now."

Kenai is growing and because it is so isolated it needs a library. So many of the children have never been but a few miles from home and have no conception of the outside world—have never seen a train, a movie, elevator, etc. With the aid of books some of the underprivileged natives with unfortunate home conditions could improve their standard of living.

Alaskans read almost constantly because there is practically no other source of amusement. The store in Kenai sells pocket editions, but no classics or good reading matter.

Hilltop's Camp Fire Girls . . .

Seven individual groups compose Hilltop's organization of the Camp Fire Girls. Each group has its own Indian name, sponsor, leader, regularly elects officers and plans weekly programs.

Hilltop Campfire groups and their leaders are the Ta O Ka group, Mrs. Elise Wright, guardian; E-Ha-Wee, Mrs. Albert Conroy, guardian; Ne-Ki-O, Mrs. Frances Seymour, guardian; Pim Mi Non, Mrs. Lawrence Seibert, guardian; Manuka group, Mrs. Adrian Page, guardian since January, 1943; O-Ki Wi-Ta, Mrs. K. L. Birkhead, guardian, and Tamikata, Mrs. Anita Dewhurst.

Individual information about Hilltop Camp Fire groups follows:

Horizon Club

A comparatively new organization on the Hilltop is the Horizon Club, composed of senior Camp Fire Girls, whose Indian name is Wi-Ca-Jinnies.

The Horizon Club, organized in September, 1948, is the only one of its kind on the Hilltop. Members are senior high students between the ages of 15-21.

A completely different program from that found in the typical Camp Fire group, is followed by Horizon Club members. Meetings are primarily social gatherings and girls discuss fashions, parties, dinners, teas, and camping out programs.

Marilyn Jones, 745 Wilson-rd, and Mary Mayer, of Ohio State University, are the leaders of this group.

Officers are: Jane Jones, president; Joan Grisso, vice-president; Ann Haire, secretary; Janet Williams, treasurer; Daneta Adams, publicity; Sandara Ross, telephone chairman; Lois Jennings, board representative.

Other members are: June Bussard, Bonnie Barber, Pat Barnet, Sharon Clarken, Joan Drew, Frances Eckelberry, Diane Fulton, Barbara Graves, Lou Leech, Lorna Lloyd, Peggy Morris, and Barbara Nippert.

Ta O Ka

Camp Fire Girls of the Ta-O-Ka group were organized in June, 1947, with Mrs. Richard T. Wright as guardian and Mrs. George Thomas, as assistant guardian. The group holds weekly meetings and is sponsored by the father of one of the members.

Ta-O-Ka girls are busy working on the national birthday project. One of the requirements is to make a window display carrying out the theme for this year, 'Make Mine Democracy."

Girls recently were guests of the "Listen Ladies" broadcast. Each received a prize and Mrs. Bornshire, past guardian of the group, was named as "shut-in" for the week.

Members of this group are: Charlene Cordell, Katherine Thomas, Shirley Lou Miller, Nancy Schelton, Lucia Ann Work, Carol Sabo and Frances Wright.

Pim Mi Non

"Summer" is the English translation of Pim Mi Non, the group of Camp Fire Girls which meets weekly at Glenwood Methodist Church.

The group was started in September, 1945, and had a starting membership of 30 girls. At the present time the group is sponsored by Edna Meldrim of the Glenwood Church and is led by Mrs. Lawrence Seibert.

All of the girls are active in Camp Fire life. Two week-ends a year in the spring and fall the girls camp out. They participate in hikes, and "cook-outs," (each girls must cook her own meal) and engage in handcraft and art work. The Pim Mi Non group has visited Port Columbus, the State House, the Ohio State Museum and has appeared on radio programs.

O Ki Wi Ta

One of the most active Campfire groups on the Hilltop is the O-Ki-Wi-Ta group. Composed of 10 girls who meet weekly, the group recently completed work on four national birthday projects for which it has received honors.

Other activities include: participation in all Campfire doughnut sales; attendance at all West District and Grand Council Fires held since 1945; selling tickets for the Hilltop Male Chorus concert; selling candy in city-wide Campfire sale; and selling Christmas cards.

Birthday project for 1949 is to complete work on the Wood Gatherer's Rank, which girls of O-Ki-Wi-Ta are working on now.

Ne Ki O

Working on the Campfire Girls' birthday project is the current activity of the Ne Ki O group at present composed of eight members. The original group was organized in June 1947.

The Ne Ki O group meets weekly at the home of its leader, Mrs. Mason Seymour, 844 W. Rich-st., and activities of the group include: packing Christmas seals, selling candy at Christmas time and other community projects.

Members of the group are: Carol Schall, Donna Pinnell, Jo Ann Sharp, Barbara Seymour, Mary Story, Dolores Adams, Beverly Swetland, and Barbara Phillips.

That's It!

Son: "Pa, what is the difference between a cat and a comma?"

Pa: "I don't know; what is it?"

Son: "A cat has claws at the end of its paws, and a comma is a pause at the end of a clause."

Manuka

Campfire girls of Manuka group are old-timers. Each has been with the organization for at least five years, and a few started withthe Bluebirds at the age of seven.

Sponsor of the group is Mrs. Elmer Adair, and girls are led by their guardian, Mrs. Adrian Page.

The Manuka girls are active in community service, having helped with Red Cross and Community Fund drives. They have assisted in community parties, sponsored by the Hilltop Community Council and have given service in a number of other community events. Of the seven members of the group, five are Torch Bearers.

Manuka members are: Daneta Adams, Marcia Brady, Francis Eckelberry, Betty Jaycox, Barbara Nippert, Ellen Page, and Dolores Shrum.

E Ha Wee

"Laughing Maid" is the English translation of the group of Campfire Girls named E-Ha-Wee. Leader of the group, Mrs. Albert Conroy, who formerly was the assistant guardian, took over her duties in September, 1947. The group is sponsored by Mrs. Naomi Kindler.

Latest activities of the E-Ha-Wee group include a Valentine party on Feb. 14 and a skating party held Feb. 22 at Rollerland.

Ohio has eight cities of more than 100,000 population — more than any other state. They are well distributed over the state; though four (Cleveland, Akron, Canton and Youngstown) are in northeast Ohio, they are distinct from each other, and the other four are widely separated: Toledo in the northwest, Dayton in the west, Cincinnati in the southwest, and Columbus in the center. Ohio has 51 cities of between 10,000 and 100,000 population, 57 between 5,000 and 10,000, and 70 between 2,500 and 5,000. They are scattered over all parts of the state.

IF WE COULD GO TO SUNDAY SCHOOL

FROM this corner it looks like sadness personified . . . a couple of broken hearted pooches, strained to the point of melancholy as little Willie and Kathleen leave them behind and go on their way to Sunday school. With a mind and understanding next to that of a human being these kind hearted little dogs seem to know well that their third and fourth legs render them unwelcome at Sunday school. Here they impatiently await the return of their little masters. The parents of little Willie and Kathleen didn't even go with them. Like many parents of today they sent them alone to Sunday school not even worrying about their safety or return.

IT is becoming more apparent every day that the phrase "Juvenile Delinquency," is being over worked, misused and misapplied. This Delinquent business has a very definite beginning. More often it begins with the parents. They are the ones who fail miserably in the performance of duty. Your children need your presence, your companionship . . . they need you to TAKE them to Sunday school and church—NOT SEND THEM. The very least you can do is to care as much for your youngsters as their little dogs do. The pooches would gladly go if they Could. Why not decide now to swell the attendance of your church Sunday by taking your entire family.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. To the church the ministerial fare meddling religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "Yes in the Church and the Church in you"—form a combination for good.

Post Plans To Start Building This Year

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Much of this valuable time was lost, however, when the post found it was impossible to secure materials and for quite some time the government would not even grant a permit for such a building. Since that time these restrictions have been lifted and now the post is anxious to proceed with the building.

Ray McVay, chairman of the committee, and Edgar G. Planck stated this week that the post feels that the required extensions will be signed within a very short time and that the post will actually get the building started and probably completed yet this year.

Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Dear Friend:

As one of the subscribers to Camp Chase Post No. 98, American Legion Memorial Hall Fund, for the Veterans Memorial Hall on the Hilltop, we feel that you should be acquainted with the following facts:

For a long time after the end of World War No. 2 we were delayed in the construction of said building on account of the scarcity of material and also for the additional reason that priorities were granted by the government for the construction of other buildings considered more urgent.

In 1944 we acquired and paid for out of our own legion funds the site for the building, which is located on W. Broad-st.

We now have plans for the construction of the building with the available funds which were contributed by you and other citizens. These funds are held in trust by the Ohio National Bank of Columbus, and can be used only for the purpose of erecting or acquiring a Veterans Memorial Hall. We consider this a sacred trust.

In view of the fact that we have been delayed in the construction of the building, for the reasons set out above, beyond the time contemplated, and in order to keep faith with you, we are requesting that you sign the attached Extension of Time agreement and return the post and bank copies to us in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience.

Your compliance with this request will make it possible for us to proceed with our plans for construction of the building. We are asking you for an extension of approximately two years from this date in order that we may proceed with care.

It is our intention to construct the best building possible with the money now available together with any additional sums we may acquire.

We wish to thank you for the faith you have placed in us and the fine community spirit you have shown by your subscription and hope you can see your way clear to grant us the extension of time we have requested.

At their last meeting Mrs. Ralph Bachman, 124 S. Powell-av, the assistant leader, met the Jollyworkers at school and took them to Mrs. Swisher's home, where they made Valentine cookies.

The members of the Jollyworker Bluebirds are: Judith Adkins, Reta Bowers, Judy Hawthorne, Sue Howison, Kay Muchmore, Donna Smith, Carol Reeves, Janet Stein, Nancy Swisher, Sondra Watts, Carcle Hess, Karen Edberg, Barbara Bachman, Nancy Boyd, Rosemary Headd, Betty Newburger, and Jean Stewart.

Joining the Camp Fire Girls at the age of 10, Miss Myers has come up through the ranks, receiving her torchbearer's award three years ago. Already possessing the three-year and five-year awards, she will receive a 10-year award in May at the Grand Council Fire at the Coliseum.

Both mother and daughter are active in Camp Fire life. Mrs. Myers is president of the Columbus and Franklin County Camp Fire Leaders' Association, and is the former guardian of the Wawiwe Camp Fire Girls' group. Hilltop Record To Be Published Tuesdays And Thursdays Starting April 7

The Hilltop Record will become a semi-weekly newspaper on or about Apr. 7 it was announced this week by C. Carlton Hartley, publisher.

This step is being taken in order to provide better news service for readers of the paper and a better advertising medium for local merchants.

The Record will be published each Tuesday and Thursday evening and will be delivered on those evenings to Hilltop residents by carriers. All other subscribers living outside the Hilltop limits will continue to receive their paper by mail twice a week.

All present subscribers will continue to receive the Record until the expiration of their present subscription without any additional payment for the extra paper each week.

Under the new plan the Record subscription rate will be 50c per month, payable to the carrier when he collects monthly, or 6c per week payable to the carrier. Paid in advance subscriptions will be available at $3.00 per year, thus providing a saving to those persons who care to pay by this method. One year renewals to the Record will be received at the office at the present weekly paper rate until Apr. 1, after which time new rates will go into effect.

Forrest Eckert, Record circulation manager, is now organizing carrier routes and advises that several good routes are still open. Any boys interested should contact him at the Record office.

In order to set the new plan in motion a large section of the Hilltop will receive their papers by carrier delivery, starting next Wednesday evening. Homes in the area bounded by the state hospital, Glenwood Park, Floral-av, Ong-st, Clarendon to Sullivant, to Eureka, north to Fremont, to Hague, south to Wicklow, west to Roys and north to Broad and that area north of Broad from Chase to Wheatland-av are scheduled to start on this system next Wednesday.

Any regular subscriber who has not received a paper by noon Thursday should contact the Record circulation department.

Persons living in the above described area are urged to look for their Record next Wednesday evening on their porches. Delivery is scheduled to be completed some time from 4 to 8:30 p. m.

Further details about the changeover will be announced in later issues of the Record.

Kenai is growing and because it is so isolated it needs a library. So many of the children have never been but a few miles from home and have no conception of the outside world—have never seen a train, a movie, elevator, etc. With the aid of books some of the underprivileged natives with unfortunate home conditions could improve their standard of living.

Alaskans read almost constantly because there is practically no other source of amusement. The store in Kenai sells pocket editions, but no classics or good reading matter.

Now Calm Scioto Used To Wreak Havoc On West Side As Spring Came

By Myron T. Seifert

Editor's Note: Spring on the West Side used to be marked by the advent of almost yearly floods. Before the city took steps to protect residents living near the Scioto River, loss of human lives and homes was not uncommon.

Following is a chronological record of floods experienced in Columbus and the extent of their severity.

The first recorded flood of the Scioto occurred when the original town of Franklinton was only a few months old. Lucas Sullivant, in August, 1797, had laid out the settlement just south of the forks of the Scioto and Whetstone (Olentangy) Rivers, where Spring and Mill-sts intersect today. The next spring the site was flooded so the village was moved to higher ground a short distance south.

The first disastrous flood occurred in February, 1832, and in July, 1834, a sudden rise carried away the temporary National Road bridge at Broad-st. The flood of 1847 was far worse than all previous ones. Business houses along the river front stood five feet deep in water.

Other floods came in 1852, 1859, 1860 and 1862, but the flood of 1847 held the record until September, 1866, when the river rose 12 feet in as many hours and kept on rising, driving people from their homes with scant warning and doing much property damage.

In March, 1868, the river rose 15 feet. Inundations of the West Side came again in 1869, 1870, 1875, 1881 and 1883, the latter flood establishing a record that exceeded the high marks of 1847 and 1866.

This high-water mark stood until 1898, when the people, for years relieved of worry, did not regard the rising waters with alarm until they suddenly broke through the levee and flooded the lower portions of the West Side with from three to 10 feet of water. So promptly was rescue work organized and so efficiently was the work carried on that thousands of persons were removed from their homes in boats without the loss of life. But property loss was high.

After this experience the West Side started work on levees. Banks of earth served this purpose with varying degrees of success, until 1913, when the most disastrous flood in the history of the state brought death and destruction to the city.

Thirty-two hundred houses were flooded, many of them above the second floor; 20,000 persons were rendered temporarily homeless and 369 houses were entirely swept away. Ninety-four persons lost their lives.

Bridges at Broad, State and Town-sts were swept away, leaving the old Rich-st bridge, which had been condemned 15 years before, the only city bridge across the river.

As soon as possible after this calamity, the city took steps to protect itself against a recurrence. Experts were employed to work out a plan for flood protection and a bond issue of $3,500,000 was appropriated to restore bridges, deepen and widen the channel and build levees to keep future high waters within bounds.

Bill Was Excited

Hicks was a tall angular lad from the backwoods, who had never before seen a train. As he stood with his city cousin in the long station shed and watched the puffing engine and the long line of cars rear in, his face turned ashen.

"What's the matter, Bill?" asked the cousin.

"My gosh!" gasped Hicks. "If that durn thing had of come in sideways it would of wiped us all out."

Hilltop Record To Be Published Tuesdays And Thursdays Starting April 7

The Hilltop Record will become a semi-weekly newspaper on or about Apr. 7 it was announced this week by C. Carlton Hartley, publisher.

This step is being taken in order to provide better news service for readers of the paper and a better advertising medium for local merchants.

The Record will be published each Tuesday and Thursday evening and will be delivered on those evenings to Hilltop residents by carriers. All other subscribers living outside the Hilltop limits will continue to receive their paper by mail twice a week.

All present subscribers will continue to receive the Record until the expiration of their present subscription without any additional payment for the extra paper each week.

Under the new plan the Record subscription rate will be 30c per month, payable to the carrier when he collects monthly, or 8c per week payable to the carrier. Paid in advance subscriptions will be available at $3.00 per year, thus providing a saving to those persons who care to pay by this method. One year renewals to the Record will be received at the office at the present weekly paper rate until Apr. 1, after which time new rates will go into effect.

Forrest Eckart, Record circulation manager, is now organizing carrier routes and advises that several good routes are still open. Any boys interested should contact him at the Record office.

In order to set the new plan in motion a large section of the Hilltop will receive their papers by carrier delivery, starting next Wednesday evening. Homes in the area bounded by the state hospital, Glenwood Park, Floral-av, Ong-st, Clarendon to Sullivant, to Eureka, north to Fremont, to Hague, south to Wicklow, west to Hoyt and north to Broad and that area north of Broad from Chase to Wheatland-av are scheduled to start on this system next Wednesday.

Any regular subscriber who has not received a paper by noon Thursday should contact the Record circulation department.

Persons living in the above described area are urged to look for their Record next Wednesday evening on their porches. Delivery is scheduled to be completed some time from 4 to 8:30 p. m.

Further details about the changeover will be announced in later issues of the Record.

Sign Those Legion Home Extension Blanks

If you made a contribution to the Hilltop Memorial Home fund sponsored by Camp Chase Post of the American Legion back during and following the war you will receive a letter from the post today asking that they be given an extension of time on this project.

Anyone who has had any experience with any type of building during recent years is well acquainted with delays and high prices that have been so prevalent today. This has been a real obstacle in the successful completion of the Legion project.

Now they can see their way clear to provide a Legion Hall which in turn will be used by many groups on the Hilltop as a meeting place. They are asking their original subscribers to back them up by signing a piece of paper that merely gives the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to complete the aforesaid building.

When your letter arrives you will be aiding the project by signing it immediately and sending it along. Then after the boys start shoveling dirt for a foundation why not give them a lift with an additional subscription?

Good Old Days

Jim Miles was running through some old papers recently and came across bills for a house he had built on S. Burgess-av, back in 1915.

At that time he built a substantial six-room house with bath and sleeping porch and basement, and the total cost was $2950.

Where are the good old days?

Flowers of the Week

A nice selection of Bosebud flowers to Lee Weigand, the 1948 Hilltop Man of the Year. Announcement of his selection by Camp Chase Post of the American Legion will no doubt be a popular one and is merited. And a pat on the back to the Legion for this type of community program. It is commendable.

"Over Twenty Calls For My Sink," Says Mrs. Donaldson

Mrs. Marion Donaldson, 617 S. Wayne-av, didn't have to wait long for a response to the want ad she placed in The Hilltop Record Classified section last week.

She advertised a double bowl sink for sale. Result: The telephone started ringing early Thursday morning, and the sink was sold before noon. More than 20 persons called the Donaldson home inquiring about the sink.

Do you have a surplus item in your house—something that is no longer of any practical use to you? Quite possibly some other Hilltopper has a definite need for that article; and, of course, the extra cash would come in handy, wouldn't it? So, step to the phone right now and call in your Record ad. Our number is RA. 1125.

B. M. Hear Of City Planning

Planning pays dividends in better cities and better citizens, according to Grover Clements of the Franklin County Planning Commission, who spoke at the Tuesday evening meeting of the Hilltop Business Association at Westgate Methodist Church.

He pointed to the haphazard growth of fringe areas of cities and stated that it is hoped some of this type of growth can be avoided in the future.

"Blighted areas are crime areas," he said. "That area of Columbus that houses one third of the population has 45% of the crime, 35% of the juvenile delinquency takes, 45% of the city's service cost, and provides only 6% of the tax revenue."

Spring dance of the association will be held Apr. 27 at the Seneca Hotel according to John Nippert, chairman of the social committee.

Membership in the association was voted to Anderson Heating Co., Central States Laboratories, Todd's Pharmacy and Wolfe Electric Co.

Begin Initial Plans for New Local Library

Plans are still in the "pencil stage" for the construction of the new Hilltop branch of the Columbus Public Library, Will Collins, librarian, said Tuesday.

A lot was purchased approximately two years ago to house the new library, but to date final blue prints have not been drawn.

The site of the proposed library will be the first lot west of the Masonic Temple on W. Broad-st, near the Binns-blvd intersection.

Harry T. Roderick, architect, has drawn pencil sketches, which are being modified by the committee. Original plans show the library will be a street level construction. Mr. Collins advised that there will be no high steps to climb, and the library will resemble a "book store."

Committee for the library includes: Will Collins, Walter Braun, Mrs. W. E. Ferguson, Dr. H. R. Burbacher, and chairman, J. A. Meckstroth.

The Hilltop library will be the first new city branch library in Columbus, Mr. Collins advised.

Post Plans To Start Building This Year

All persons who have made subscriptions to the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of American Legion are scheduled to receive letters today from the post building committee asking that they sign an extension of time, allowing the post until Jan. 1, 1951, in which to start construction of this project.

It has been pointed out by members of the permanent home committee that this action is being taken in view of the fact that the original agreement was that such construction would be started within two years after cessation of hostilities. Much of this valuable time was lost, however, when the post found it was impossible to secure materials and for quite some time the government would not even grant a permit for such a building. Since that time these restrictions have been lifted and now the post is anxious to proceed with the building.

Ray McVay, chairman of the committee, and Edgar G. Planck stated this week that the post feels that the required extensions will be signed within a very short time and that the post will actually get the building started and probably completed yet this year.

Present plans call for a one-story building to house a large community meeting hall on the lot owned by Camp Chase Post on the north side of Broad-st, near N. Westmoor-av.

It is estimated that the building will cost approximately $30,000.

Complete text of the letter being sent subscribers to the fund follows:

Dear Friend:

As one of the subscribers to Camp Chase Post No. 96, American Legion Memorial Hall Fund, for the Veterans Memorial Hall on the Hilltop, we feel that you should be acquainted with the following facts:

For a long time after the end of World War No. 2 we were delayed in the construction of said building on account of the scarcity of material and also for the additional reason that priorities were granted by the government for the construction of other buildings considered more urgent.

In 1944 we acquired and paid for out of our own legion funds the site for the building, which is located on W. Broad-st.

We now have plans for the construction of the building with the available funds which were contributed by you and other citizens. These funds are held in trust by the Ohio National Bank of Columbus, and can be used only for the purpose of erecting or acquiring a Veterans Memorial Hall. We consider this a sacred trust.

In view of the fact that we have been delayed in the construction of the building, for the reasons set out above, beyond the time contemplated, and in order to keep faith with you, we are requesting that you sign the attached Extension of Time agreement and return the post and bank copies to us in the enclosed envelope at your earliest convenience.

Your compliance with this request will make it possible for us to proceed with our plans for construction of the building. We are asking you for an extension of approximately two years from this date in order that we may proceed with care.

It is our intention to construct the best building possible with the money now available together with any additional sums we may acquire.

We wish to thank you for the faith you have placed in us and the fine community spirit you have shown by your subscription and hope you can see your way clear to grant us the extension of time we have requested.

Sincerely,
THE COMMITTEE

Hilltoppers Sponsor Library For Alaskan Homesteaders

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Williams, 2581 Steele-av, are directing an appeal to the people of Columbus, and particularly the Hilltop, for books of all kinds, which they can ship to Kenai, Alaska. Kenai lies about half-way between Homer and Anchorage. Seward is 100 miles away on the opposite side of the peninsula.

The idea was originated by a squadron member and buddy of Williams' late son, Gayle, who, with his wife and small daughter, are homesteading in Kenai. Mr. and Mr. I. H. Lee have been corresponding regularly with the Williams' and have described the dire need in the community for a library, which they intend to house in their school building.

One of the greatest needs is for reference books for school children, as there is absolutely none available in this small community. Also, due to the many hours of darkness in Alaska, adults need reading material. If a book happens to land in the community, it is passed from hand to hand until it is completely worn out.

Many Hilltop people, who have already learned of the project, have volunteered their assistance, both in trying to acquire books and assisting in their shipment.

Cash donations also will be appreciated to assist in this project, because, according to the Lees, any amount of money donated in 1949 will be equalled by the Alaskan Legislature in 1950.

The majority of the children in Kenai are natives or half-breeds. Not very good students, and progression is difficult under present conditions.

Here is an excerpt from one of the Lees' letters: "Now, I'll try to tell you about the library and how wonderful the library committee thinks you are. If I could only tell you their exact message—anyway, they want you to know that the entire town appreciates the efforts you are making—that the books you get for us will be the very beginning of our library—we have absolutely nothing right now."

Kenai is growing and because it is so isolated it needs a library. So many of the children have never been but a few miles from home and have no conception of the outside world—have never seen a train, a movie, elevator, etc. With the aid of books some of the underprivileged natives with unfortunate home conditions could improve their standard of living.

Alaskans read almost constantly because there is practically no other source of amusement. The store in Kenai sells pocket editions, but no classics or good reading matter.

The Williams' feel that every home in Columbus has many books which they would be willing to part with and to share with the struggling homesteaders who are blazing new trails in Alaska. While the majority of the population is composed of natives, there are hundreds of veterans of the second World War, homesteading there.

The Hilltop Record is cooperating with this movement and has agreed to serve as a central location where books will be received, or the books may be brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Williams. Books will be picked up by calling Mrs. Williams.

Hollywood May Be Next Step For Talented Young Light Opera Star

By Doris McGill

A young Hilltop girl, remembered for her numerous singing appearances at the Burgess Avenue EUB Church and with the Glenwood Church choir, is becoming well-known in light opera circles in Los Angeles, Calif., her mother reported recently.

Jeanne Dhume, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross L. Dhume, formerly of 1056 Franklin-av, is enjoying almost spectacular success, since her modest beginning as a little girl, singing church hymns.

Associated with the Gateway Players (now known as the Columbus Light Opera Company), she played the leading roles in "Naughty Marietta," "The Desert Song," "The Merry Widow" and a host of others.

Her latest stage venture is a new field for the talented singing actress. For the first time she is playing musical comedy and, according to Jeanne, "It's more fun than a circus."

The musical melodrama, "Will the Mail Train Run Tonight?", booked for an eight weeks run at Westwood Village Playhouse in Los Angeles, "is packing them in solid every night," Jeanne wrote in a letter to her mother. She plays the role of Fifi, a petite French maid, in this production.

Her musical comedy venture may be only a stepping stone to Jeanne's ultimate ambition, Mrs. Dhume related. Jeanne, like most talented girls, has cast her eyes toward Hollywood. She has been approached by Charles Barton, movie producer.

Another Columbus member of the light opera company is Parke McGregor, known to his Columbus friends as Parke Cushnie. He is cast as the villain in the production at the Westwood Theater.

Jeanne got her start in singing as a pupil of Bartha Masters, director of the Hilltop Women's Chorus, of which her mother is still a member. She has studied with Frank Haitt of Delaware and Mary Riddile Walton, director of the Glenwood Church choir.

A graduate of West High School in 1942, she was awarded a musical scholarship to Ohio Northern University, which she attended for one year. She later studied music at Ohio State University, until she was called to California for a singing role.

Mrs. Dhume is looking forward to her daughter's next visit to Columbus, when her current show closes.

West Entertainers Give Show At Hilltop Church

West High School's new entertainment trio of Barbara Gordon, student, E. T. Stone, chemistry teacher, and Dick Weber, an OSU student in Mr. Stone's department, put on a show for children at the First Congregational Church on East Broad-st last week.

Barbara opened her performance with a demonstration of rope-spinning using various length of ropes. Her closing trick is the most difficult, commonly known as "The Texas Skip."

Dick did a complicated rope-skipping and a tap dance act, and Mr. Stone completed the show with various magical tricks.

Marilyn is the first girl from the Hilltop to be accepted in the WAC training program. The above girls are stationed with Company D of the First Battalion.

Benefit Bridge Party Scheduled March 17

The Columbus Woman's Club will hold its annual bridge benefit Thursday, March 17 at the Athletic Club. The meeting will begin at 1:30 p. m.

A style show presented by Cole's will be a featured part of the program. Part of the proceeds of the benefit will be used for a dinner to be held at the Monett House for the blind.

A hillbilly member of the A. A. F. got into a poker game with some British soldiers.

They drew.

"I'll bet one pound," said the Briton.

"I dunno how yuh count yer money," he declared, "but I'll just raise you to one ton."

"This tonic is no good."

"What's the matter?"

"All the directions it gives are for adults, and I never had them."

Mail Clothes To Needy Europeans

GIRL SCOUT Jodell Bargar, president of Troop 103 of West High School, is shown with Vernor Stout, Hilltop postal clerk, mailing two boxes of clothes to European children. Sending kits to Europe is a part of the Girl Scout national program. Each troop in the United States volunteered to send two boxes.

Mailing clothing kits to needy European children is only one of the many activities of Girl Scout Troop 103 in the past year. Girls gathered toys for feeble-minded children at Christmastime; opened Westgate Park last summer with a flag raising ceremony; were hostesses at the Girl Scout booth at the Ohio State junior fair; and hostessed the freedom movie at City Hall.

One of their biggest achievements was winning five first prizes for best articles entered in state fair competition. The five prizes put Troop 103 ahead of every other troop in Ohio.

On Mar. 11, at the home of their leader, Mrs. C. F. Deitchle, 2516 Eakin-rd, the 11 members of Troop 103 will receive first class ranks and one member, Joan Davis, will receive her second class rank. Also nine girls from the troop will receive their five year awards. Members of troop 103 are Jodell Bargar, Joan Davis, Nancy Moss, Mary Haudenschild, Ficanor Cozad, Ann Cockfield, Shirley Deitchle, Janet Reed, Barbara Williams, Wilma Kenworthy and Karen Griffiths.

Mrs. M. Griffiths is assistant leader and Mrs. Cozad and Mrs. W. Reed serve as committee members.

Pat McCusky Is Finalist In OSU Queen Contest

Pat McCusky, 162 S. Powell-av, is among entrants in the "Mother is a Freshman" contest to select the typical first-year student.

Winner of the title will be named Queen of the May "Kardival" to be held May 14. She also will receive $100 from the producers of "Mother is a Freshman" and will be presented on the stage of Loew's Ohio Friday, at the opening of the Loretta Young-Van Johnson technicolor campus romance.

In addition, her photo will be entered in competition with 19 freshmen winners from other colleges and universities.

Winner of the national contest will receive a week's free trip to Hollywood. Preliminary judging was held at 7 p. m. Wednesday in the Ohio Union auditorium.

They call her Venus, because she isn't all there.

The True Meaning Of "One Inch of Rain"

One inch of rain over one square acre of land. The water would weigh 113¼ short tons and be equal to 27,143 gallons of water, or 863 barrels containing 45 gallons.

We're not "all wet" when we claim to have the finest food available in most pleasant surroundings.

Irish to Don Green For St. Patrick Dance

"Faith and Begorra, it'll be a gr-r-eat day for the Irish" said Irish Mike Donelan, chairman of the St. Patrick's Day Dance to be held Thursday, Mar. 17.

The dance is being sponsored by the Camp Chase Post of the American Legion. Dancing will be held from 9 p. m. to 12 midnight with Al Baumbush and his orchestra furnishing the music. Round and square dancing will be featured.

Dance will be informal, and guests are requested to join in "the wearing of the green." The public is invited to attend.

"You used to go along the street talking to yourself, and now you don't do it any more. How did you get over it?"

"I cured myself. I knew I did it and I got mad at myself for doing it. Finally, I got so mad at myself that I decided I wouldn't talk to myself any more, and I didn't and I was cured."

Walkers Find Sunny Mexico Ideal Winter Vacationland

By Doris McGill

QUEEN IRMA AND FRIEND . . . Mary Wilson is crowned "Queen of Comedy for 1948" by Bob Hope for her portrayal of "My Friend Irma" over CBS Monday night. The title was conferred in New York by the National Laugh Week foundation which last year bestowed similar honors on Bob Hope.

"Down in Mexico . . . They ain't got no snow."

No one knows this better than Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Walker, who returned last week to a lion-like March spring after a dream vacation in the land of tortillas and hot tamales.

"Whatever unfavorable comment you've heard about Mexico, it just isn't so," say the sun-tanned Walkers, who have lolled on sunny Mexican beaches for the past three months.

Leaving by auto, a convertible, the Walkers plus their 22-month-old son, and a Dauberman Pinscher, "Satan", traveled to Mexico City via Brownsville, Tex., and Valles, Mexico, on a super modern highway. The only novelty along the way were Mexican ferry boats used to ford streams.

Mexico City

Once in Mexico City, the Walkers found all they had imagined and more. Here they stayed for a month in a luxurious Holywood style apartment ($87.50 per month), complete with a maid who cooked, washed, ironed, cared for Junior and Satan, for $15 a month.

"The best part of the trip was the climate," the Walkers agreed. Days hovered at 75 to 80 degrees, but nights were chilly. Contrary to their former belief, night life in Mexico was anything but "siesta time". Night clubs were in full swing about 11:30 p. m. and Mexican night-owls didn't go home until dawn.

American money was big stuff to Mexicans. The usual entry fee of $2.60, which Mr. Walker tried to pay in pesos, was unacceptable to Mexican customs officials, who wanted U. S. bills for the cost.

Southern Hospitality

"Southern hospitality goes way south of the border," said Mr. Walker, who reported that police, peons and officials couldn't do enough to make American tourists comfortable.

The only real trouble the Walkers encountered was the language. Neither knew Spanish, but they soon learned. Mr. Walker's favorite language trick was telling would-be young car-watchers that "El perro es muy malo," warning that Satan would molest any trespassers.

After Mexico City their next long stay was Acapulco, on the coast, about 285 miles from the capital. Here they enjoyed long hours on the beaches. Mr. Walker took up deep sea fishing and landed two five-foot sailfish. He didn't have them mounted when he learned the approximate cost for mounting and delivery was $400.

Mexican Fiesta

Fiesta time in Mexico is nearly every week. Each small town and city celebrates in its own picturesque way. The peons don traditional colorful peasant gowns and traffic stops until festivities are over.

Some of the unique things the Walkers remembered about their trip were: Mexican women toting huge baskets of laundry and pastries on their heads . . . turquoise stones selling for two pesos (30 cents in American money) . . . no rain . . . the colorful Sunday bull fights . . . the Coca Cola advertisements that loomed in deserted areas . . . and the singsongy names of Mexican villages.

Major discomforts were few, but Mr. Walker remembers poor drinking water and meat as the most serious. All water had to be boiled before using. None could be used from the tap. Meat was low-priced (about 38c a pound) but not properly aged for good eating.

In the super mercados, groceries imported from the States were especially high. Canned goods were double and sometimes triple the prices here. Satan's dog food was seven pesos a box (about $1) but sells for only 38 cents in the States.

OSU Party

One of the unexpected pleasures of their trip was an invitation to a party given by Ohio State University students attending Mexico City College during the winter quarter. Students from Ohio State at the party were Ma- [illegible] Kusic and Bill Logan.

The Walkers live at 240 Dem-orest-av.

"When Oscar gets into a taxi they leave the 'Vacant' sign up."

Thweet Young Thing. "I want thome adhethive plathter." Druggist: "What thickness?" Thweet Young Thing: "Thix thick."

Hoge Loses Chance For Class A Title

By Dave Miller

Undefeated Salvation Army's basketballers clinched the Class A playoff title in the West Church Intermediate League Tuesday night at Glenwood, defeating second place Hoge Memorial, 26 to 20.

In other tilts Tuesday evening, West Park, Class B leader took St. Aloysius, 34 to 17; Riverside Methodist slipped past Westgate, 30 to 23 and in the last game, Glenwood eked out North Congregational, 33 to 32.

In the Hoge-Salvation Army scrap, the former had pulled up to an 18-18 deadlock at the third period's end, and it looked like a battle to the end.

However the ultimate winners, paced by Gene Morgan and Bill Fisher jumped to a 21-18 lead before Hoge finally scored again, a push from the side by Dick Wolfe. Bill Fisher of Salvation Army took scoring honors with 11 points, followed by teammate Gene Morgan with eight and Ed Sensenbrenner of Hoge, who got six. The ultimate winners held 8-3 and 13-8 leads at the first and second period's end, but Hoge fought back in the third period to knot the score.

In the opener of the night, Bob Parliment and Jim Miller paced West Park to a 34-17 victory over St. Aloysius, and set them a step nearer the Class B crown. The winners led all the way in their decisive victory over the won-one, lost-nine quintet. They led 7-3, 14-8 and 21-13, at each period's end.

Bob Elliott, leading scorer of the league, paced Riverside to a 30 to 23 win over Westgate Methodist. The lead changed hands frequently in the first period, but from there on the ultimate winners held the lead and copped their four wins in eight outings. Elliott, who has 118 points to top individual, tossed through nine buckets for 18 points. Eugene Thompson and Bill Massie paced Westgate, each collecting six tallies.

In the final game of the evening, a close match until the latter part of the fray, Glenwood trounced North Congregational to the tune of 33 to 25. Bill Johnston of the Northsiders tossed through a bucket to give his mates a 25-24 lead midway of the final period, but Jim Burke, Irven Denune and Ray Bostic paced the way and Glenwood ended in victory. Denune was high man with nine tallies followed by teammates Jim Burke and Ray Bostic and Bill Johnston of the losers, all getting seven.

The schedule for next week is uncertain as the elimination will start shortly.

Letter From Ritthem Resident Shows Dutch People Still Need Assistance

Editor's Note: Mrs. J. G. Bowser, secretary of the committee for aid to Holland, reported that boxes of clothing are being sent to Holland regularly. She is urging members of the group to begin writing letters immediately to Dutch families to learn their needs.

In answer to some Hilltoppers' questions concerning the actual needs of the village of Ritthem, Holland, the following letter shows definitely that Dutch families do need assistance and are very grateful for what their Hilltop friends have done.

The letter is from A. Breel, president of the Ritthem School Club. The letter follows:

"From the Burgomaster we received the news about the big action you are going to begin for Ritthem. As we are unknown to each other, it will be agreeable for you to read something about the inundation of our village. Also the school club has much to solve in consequence of the inundation. On Oct. 3 the R. A. F. bombed the dike by which an opening arrised from 1 mile.

"Very soon the water was everywhere. Sometimes we had 2 meter water in the houses. This was losing 2 years. The population had to fly away. Many people went to N. and St. Joosland (a village about 5 miles away from our village). There was no water. At the 4th November 1944 the war was over. In January 1945 we should teach the children.

"The Ritthem-School Club got a little room after the church at N. and St. Joosland. There we taught the children from Ritthem (and also from other villages). Now there was a difficulty. There were no benches. At last we had some old tables and some old chairs. Also there were no school materials. Our own materials were destroyed by the water. Some other schools has given us some books. Often the teacher has to make the lessons himself.

"In March 1946 the water had gone away. Then we saw what was over from our school. All the benches were gone away with the water. Also there has come much clay in the school. The Germans had brought munition in the school. A Danish team has help us to clain. Now it is not still easy to make the school.

"After working hard for some weeks, the school could be opened again, but all the things were very simple. The children helped to look for the old benches, that were everywhere. The school club had to buy new school material. Now there are again new benches and books, but several things we can not get. Of course the school club has not enough money to buy all the things that are necessary. But yet we all are very thankful for now the children have lessons again.

"We thank you very much for the action you are going to begin in Columbus. We hope a good friendship may proceed between Columbus and Ritthem."

I REMEMBER...

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From R. O. (Dick) Heiwig: "I remember when the most popular character in the comic strips was 'Happy Hooligan'. His tin can hat and his typical tramp clothes were outstandingly funny features that grownups and children liked. His conversation and antics didn't give the juveniles any bad ideas, either. In those days funnies were really funny."

From Alice Henn: "I remember when we children used Bull Durham tobacco bags to play with, filling them full of beans so we could toss them around as beanbags. I also remember attaching a string to a wooden butterdish and using the the dish as a sled for my dolls, dragging it behind me in the snow. Kids today don't improvise playthings like we did when I was a youngster. What's happened to the ingenuity children used to have in the days before progressive education?"

From Theodore H. Fuqua: "I remember an old lamp lighter in our town who carried a torch to light the street lamps as he rode along on his bicycle. He was such an expert that he seldom had to stop his bike while performing his lamp-lighting job."

From Henry H. Yeske: "I remember when electric street lights were first installed in our town. The air was full of beetles and bugs every night."

From Grandpa Michael Shaw: "I remember when street car fares were a nickle, shows were 10 cents and a newspaper was two cents. In Chicago street car fares have nearly tripled since those days."

(Contributions to this column are invited from old-time readers. Address them to Box 249, Frankfort, Ky.)

Letters To The Editor

Editor's Note: Colin C. Pinkerton wonders if Hilltop residents remember what he does about the old days. Here are his questions:

Dear Editor:

Do you remember—

When men worked all winter without a coat and children went barefoot.

When fruit trees blossomed in February.

When you didn't need a hunting license or fishing license.

When you could shoot all the game you could find.

When those living in the northeast part of Arlington had their own electric power plants.

KNOW YOUR WEATHER

It isn't the weight of ice or snow that's dangerous to airplanes—it's the interference with the flow of air over the plane's wing. The minimum flying speed and stall speed of a wing may be more than doubled by even a thin, semi-transparent layer of fine snow or hoar frost on the top of a wing.

"Why don't you marry her?"
"She has a slight impediment in her speech."
"How sad. What is it?"
"She can't say yes."

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR MARCH 13

No Need of Man Which Jesus Does Not Minister Today

"THE Son of Man," said Jesus, referring to Himself, "came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many" (Matthew 20: 28).

What does it mean to minister? The dictionary says that it means to supply as something needed. The great outstanding fact concerning humanity is human need. Young and old, rich and poor, sick and well, of every time, race, and color, the one common denominator of the human family is need.

There are needs that the greatest wealth cannot supply, and needs that the most robust health leave those thus fortunate still in want. Man needs food, warmth and rest. He needs health and peace of mind. Besides innumerable other needs of which he is aware, he needs a great deal of which he is not conscious. It is a part of man's progress to become aware of new and expanding needs.

Jesus came to supply man's need, or to teach men the way to God's supply. He fed men's bodies, but He brought to them the bread of life. He healed men's diseases, but He was the physician to sin-sick souls. He offered men rest, He ministered to man's need of faith, hope and vision.

There was no need of man to which Jesus did not minister. And we ought to write that in the present tense, for there is no need of men to which Jesus does not minister today. Even the basic physical needs of men for food, health, housing and welfare can be met in our modern complex world only as men learn to be mutually helpful, and minister to one another, in the spirit of Jesus. It is ministry that the world most needs.

But the supreme ministry of Jesus was the ministry of salvation, the ministry in which He did indeed give His life a ransom for many.

"My God shall supply all your need," says the Apostle. And first in man's need is "the kingdom of

Her Gifts of Quilts Make World-Wide Friendships for Retired Missionary

By Myron T. Seifert

The missionary efforts of a former Hilltop woman, Mary M. Thomas, who devoted 22 years of her life as a Methodist missionary in China and whose retirement in 1929 prompted another challenge to service, is being carried on from the Bethesda Home, 440 Layfayette-av, Cincinnati, where she now resides.

Refusing to fold her hands a score of years ago, she started making baby quilts from patches and materials which she had accumulated from time to time.

Now at the age of 80 she continues this project, and her workmanship is found among families in all corners of the earth, including Hilltop homes.

Letters in many languages of appreciation for her services have been received by Miss Thomas.

To date, she has hand-made, piece by piece, 267 baby crib quilts and 100 doll quilts, which she has given to deserving people in 24 states, Alaska and in 23 foreign countries.

These generous gifts started with her nieces, grandnieces and cousins, their friends and friends many of whom she has never seen.

Recipients of her handiwork are found in South America, Palestine, India, China, Japan, Korea, Africa, Poland, France and 15 other foreign points, in addition to those in this country.

Protestant, Catholic, Jew, and the white, black, yellow and Indian races are numbered among her legion of friends.

Many of her quilts are made of tiny one and one-half inch squares of pink, blue and small figured cotton. When her friends see appropriate material at the stores they invariably take it to Miss Thomas' apartment for quilt-making. The inner lining, to provide softness and warmth, is usually white outing flannel.

"Most of the quilts," Miss Thomas said, "are quilted with tiny stitches. However, some that go to institutions and relief agencies are gayly knotted with yarn," she added.

As a result of her quilting there has sprung up, in addition to a wide correspondence with many families, a baby-picture gallery of "tots" whom she has helped in her work. These are found on the walls, desks and bookcases of her apartment. All of the children she can call by name, although the majority of them she has never seen.

Miss Thomas will be remembered for her many inspirational missionary talks to various church groups on the Hilltop.

Last August Miss Thomas was recognized on the Tom Breneman radio show as a "Good Neighbor" for her unselfish service.

'Listen Ladies' To Begin Contest

Groups from various parts of the city visit the program and many Hilltoppers have visited the program on Fridays.

On Mar. 1 a new contest was started and the prize to be awarded is a General Electric kitchen range.

French Students Give Program

By Myron T. Seifert

The West High French Club, under the direction of Leona Glenn, sponsored an assembly for the West High student body Tuesday, Mar. 1, in the school auditorium.

The program for the most part, was presented in the native language.

An elaborate English schoolroom scene depicting students learning the elements of French was humorously staged. Soloists Margaret Morgan and Marilyn Ring sang. A French folk dance characteristic of French people was enacted in the West High rialto and a chorus line of real Frenchies brought down the house.

Included in the group were: Jean Huston, Babs Pendell, Marty Jones, Carol Luckshaw, Char Cranston, Joan Stevens, Donna Snapp, Joan Freshcorn and Marilyn Gauggel.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

This early spring-like weather is really hard on the folks who make digging in the soil an intricate part of their lives. It brings out the old urge to get out and start doing things.

I think it proper to offer a word of warning about actually working the soil, especially flower beds or vegetable garden areas. The soil is rather water soaked and if it is handled in this stage there is danger of compressing the soil particles to the extent that all of the oxygen or air will be excluded. Air or oxygen is just as vital to plant development as the fertilizer you apply.

If you really have to do things in the yard, here are a few things you might have planned to do anyway and now is an excellent time to take care of them. Spring pruning of evergreens, hedges, or any of the late flowering shrubs. Do not prune any of your early flowering shrubs if you want to enjoy their flowers this spring. You can do any severe pruning such as tree trimming.

A convenient source of cut flowers for the house right now are early flowering shrubs. You can take branches from forsythia, flowering quince, peaches, plums, cherries and almond. These are most of the early varieties that will bloom. Put the branches in plenty of water in a warm room and the flowers will appear almost immediately.

New Smokeless Coal Is Being Introduced

Disco, a distilled product and reported to be the only ball-type low temperature carbonized fuel produced commercially by a continuous process, is now on sale by the City Ice and Fuel Co.

It is heavier than high temperature coke and differs from the latter in a number of respects that are important in domestic heating use. It is a highly reactive fuel, easily ignited and will hold fire for several days in the ordinary home furnace if the drafts are closed. As experienced at the present plant, the volatile content of Disco runs around 15 per cent, thus assuring both smokeless and high ignitability. It comes in ball shape that ranges in size from one to eight inches in diameter and handles nicely in that there is a minimum of breakage and cleanliness in storing.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

I HAVE a letter from a young man who says he is convinced that he will never get ahead in the world because he could not finish high school. Well! Well!

So here's a story of a boy in Schenectady, N. Y., who didn't finish high school, either. He had to leave at the end of his sophomore year to help earn money to support his family. His name: Vincent Schaefer. You probably haven't heard that name before, but you have heard of something he did.

D. Carnegie

He got a job in tool-making with the General Electric company in that city. After a time he quit and became a "tree surgeon." But after another period of time, he found that he didn't love a tree as much as he thought he did, so he went back to his tools again. During the depression he needed a house—a home of his own. But he was so hard up that he couldn't buy one. However, he took care of that. He bought an old barn and rebuilt it with his own hands into a livable house.

During the last war he was assigned to work in military aviation and for this he had to study clouds. One day he told a fellow worker that he believed he could make it rain. The man looked at him pityingly and said, "Well, you will be the first man to do that since the beginning of time."

Of course, in the early days, there had been fake rainmakers in Kansas and the later Dust Bowl. They had sent up clouds of gas; the rain would gather around the particles in the gas, they said. If it rained within three days they would get $500. If it didn't rain, they would move on to a new place and try their luck again.

But Vincent Schaefer had a new and different idea. He had blown his breath into a cold jar and watched clouds form. Then he had scattered ice particles in the glass jar—and it rained within the jar, or, rather water resulted.

Why couldn't this be done on a larger scale? He went up in an airplane, scattered some dry ice above the clouds. It rained! You read of that in the papers last summer.

And the effect of Vincent Schaefer's experiment may prove to be miraculous. Wait and see.

Hilltop Girl Misses Ohio River As Excursion Boat Season Approaches

By Myron T. Seifert

"Excursion boats on the Ohio are a sure sign of spring," said youthful Judy Ward, 31 Haldyav, sophomore at West High as she reminisced in a nostalgic mood on her childhood days in Ironton, O.

"River boats have always fascinated me," she said. "I don't remember when I first became conscious of them, but have been told by my parents that I showed signs of interest in boats before I was a year old."

The excursion boats passed the Ward home at regular intervals, and the sound of the calliopes is still vividly recalled by Judy. Excursion season was from early May until the latter part of August.

The "Island Queen" was the last word in excursion boats, and Judy knew every quarter of its luxurious hul. A very large boat, it was equipped with a huge dance hall, and Judy remembers the cavalcade of slot machines that bordered the recreation room. The Island Queen was destroyed by fire in recent years.

Excursion boats were operated in the late afternoon to accommodate school children who lived along the Ohio and always looked forward to at least one trip in the steamer before school was out in June.

Judy knew the history of practically every packet that cruised the Ohio.

A fleet of the fine "Green" boats sailed the old Ohio, and Judy's first ride, she recalls, was aboard the "Chris Green."

As a child it was her "greatest thrill" to ride the packet boat with the captain of the ship in the pilot house, where she was permitted to help chart the course of the vessel—even through the locks.

Other members of the "Green" line of packets to navigate the Ohio were the "Garden Green" and the "Tom Green."

Advance propaganda, via posters and press heralded the arrival of the picturesque show boat.

When the play actually began with its caliope preludes, the boat would move slowly up the river, adding color and movement to the show, which was usually a musical comedy.

There's a Reason for the Money They Spend

Week after week, month after month, the merchants of this community place columns upon columns of advertising in this newspaper. Each different department takes its turn in the small and large advertisements that are prepared by these progressive stores.

Why, you say, do they advertise so extensively? A moment's reflection and you have the answer. What would you do if they didn't advertise? How would you compare values and prices?

Yes, it would take days of searching, hours of weary looking and comparing. But with a parade of values and merchandise descriptions right before your eyes, you can accomplish in a half hour's reading what would otherwise tax your endurance and patience.

There's a reason for the money they spend — and the reason is to help you choose easily . . . quickly . . . intelligently, the things you need and want. That's why it pays to read Hilltop Record advertisements.

Contest Winners In Occident Subscription Drive Revealed

By Myron T. Seifert

Home rooms of two teachers at West High School, Arthur Miller of Junior high room 112 and Irvin Cammarn of Senior high room 311, won the Occident school newspaper marathon subscription drive, which closed last week in the junior and senior high departments, respectively.

Many school newspapers have disappeared in recent times because of financial problems; West High School, however, has maintained liberal support of both students and advertisers.

Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Cammarn indicate that many potential salesmen and saleslacies in the business world may be found among the blue ribbon Occident salesmen.

An analysis of occupations of parents of these super-salesmen shows some interesting facts, since many are either salesmen or in vocations where salesmanship is important. It's a like student, like parent "combine".

Lee Addie, office man; William Allen, postal clerk; Howard Brown, secretary; Phillip Cartmell, truck driver; Norman Chappelear, die setter; Karl Cline, business manager; Joe D'Amico, dock superintendent; Donald Davis, carpet layer; Robert Faistle, motor truck manager; Charles Hall, Columbus Southern Electric; Bob Harman, department manager; William Harrison, dragline operator; James Hunt, paper hanger and painter; Bob Johnson, mechanical engineer; John Kimes, meat man; Donald Linn, timekeeper.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

This early spring-like weather is really hard on the folks who make digging in the soil an intricate part of their lives. It brings out the old urge to get out and start doing things.

I think it proper to offer a word of warning about actually working the soil, especially flower beds or vegetable garden areas. The soil is rather water soaked and if it is handled in this stage there is danger of compressing the soil particles to the extent that all of the oxygen or air will be excluded. Air or oxygen is just as vital to plant development as the fertilizer you apply.

If you really have to do things in the yard, here are a few things you might have planned to do anyway and now is an excellent time to take care of them. Spring pruning of evergreens, hedges, or any of the late flowering shrubs. Do not prune any of your early flowering shrubs if you want to enjoy their flowers this spring. You can do any severe pruning such as tree trimming.

A convenient source of cut flowers for the house right now are early flowering shrubs. You can take branches from forsythia, flowering quince, peaches, plums, cherries and almond. These are most of the early varieties that will bloom. Put the branches in plenty of water in a warm room and the flowers will appear almost immediately.

New Smokeless Coal Is Being Introduced

Disco, a distilled product and reported to be the only bull-type low temperature carbonized fuel produced commercially by a continuous process, is now on sale by the City Ice and Fuel Co.

It is heavier than high temperature coke and differs from the latter in a number of respects that are important in domestic heating use. It is a highly reactive fuel, easily ignited and will hold fire for several days in the ordinary home furnace if the drafts are closed. As experienced at the present plant, the volatile content of Disco runs around 15 per cent, thus assuring both smokeless and high ignitability. It comes in ball shape that ranges in size from one to eight inches in diameter and handles nicely in that there is a minimum of breakage and clean in storing.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

I HAVE a letter from a young man who says he is convinced that he will never get ahead in the world because he could not finish high school. Well! Well!

So here's a story of a boy in Schenectady, N. Y., who didn't finish high school, either. He had to leave at the end of his sophomore year to help earn money to support his family. His name: Vincent Schaefer. You probably haven't heard that name before, but you have heard of something he did.

D. Carnegie

He got a job in tool-making with the General Electric company in that city. After a time he quit and became a "tree surgeon." But after another period of time, he found that he didn't love a tree as much as he thought he did, so he went back to his tools again. During the depression he needed a house—a home of his own. But he was so hard up that he couldn't buy one. However, he took care of that. He bought an old barn and rebuilt it with his own hands into a livable house.

During the last war he was assigned to work in military aviation and for this he had to study clouds. One day he told a fellow worker that he believed he could make it rain. The man looked at him pityingly and said, "Well, you will be the first man to do that since the beginning of time."

Of course, in the early days, there had been fake rainmakers in Kansas and the later Dust Bowl. They had sent up clouds of gas; the rain would gather around the particles in the gas, they said. If it rained within three days they would get $500. If it didn't rain, they would move on to a new place and try their luck again.

But Vincent Schaefer had a new and different idea. He had blown his breath into a cold jar and watched clouds form. Then he had scattered ice particles in the glass jar—and it rained within the jar, or, rather water resulted.

Why couldn't this be done on a larger scale? He went up in an airplane, scattered some dry ice above the clouds. It rained! You read of that in the papers last summer.

And the effect of Vincent Schaefer's experiment may prove to be miraculous. Wait and see.

Hilltop Girl Misses Ohio River As Excursion Boat Season Approaches

By Myron T. Seifert

"Excursion boats on the Ohio are a sure sign of spring," said youthful Judy Ward, 31 Haldyay, sophomore at West High as she reminisced in a nostalgic mood on her childhood days in Ironton, O.

"River boats have always fascinated me," she said. "I don't remember when I first became conscious of them, but have been told by my parents that I showed signs of interest in boats before I was a year old."

The excursion boats passed the Ward home at regular intervals, and the sound of the calliopes is still vividly recalled by Judy. Excursion season was from early May until the latter part of August.

The "Island Queen" was the last word in excursion boats, and Judy knew every quarter of its luxurious hul. A very large boat, it was equipped with a huge dance hall, and Judy remembers the cavalcade of slot machines that bordered the recreation room. The Island Queen was destroyed by fire in recent years.

Excursion boats were operated in the late afternoon to accommodate school children who lived along the Ohio and always looked forward to at least one trip in the steamer before school was out in June.

Judy knew the history of practically every packet that cruised the Ohio.

A fleet of the fine "Green" boats sailed the old Ohio, and Judy's first ride, she recalls, was aboard the "Chris Green."

As a child it was her "greatest thrill" to ride the packet boat with the captain of the ship in the pilot house, where she was permitted to help chart the course of the vessel—even through the locks.

Other members of the "Green" line of packets to navigate the Ohio were the "Garden Green" and the "Tom Green."

Advance propaganda, via posters and press heralded the arrival of the picturesque show boat.

When the play actually began with its caliope preludes, the boat would move slowly up the river, adding color and movement to the show, which was usually a musical comedy.

There's a Reason for the Money They Spend

Week after week, month after month, the merchants of this community place columns upon columns of advertising in this newspaper. Each different department takes its turn in the small and large advertisements that are prepared by these progressive stores.

Why, you say, do they advertise so extensively? A moment's reflection and you have the answer. What would you do if they didn't advertise? How would you compare values and prices?

Yes, it would take days of searching, hours of weary looking and comparing. But with a parade of values and merchandise descriptions right before your eyes, you can accomplish in a half hour's reading what would otherwise tax your endurance and patience.

There's a reason for the money they spend — and the reason is to help you choose easily . . . quickly . . . intelligently, the things you need and want. That's why it pays to read Hilltop Record advertisements.

Contest Winners In Occident Subscription Drive Revealed

By Myron T. Seifert

Home rooms of two teachers at West High School, Arthur Miller of Junior high room 112 and Irvin Cammarn of Senior high room 311, won the Occident school newspaper marathon subscription drive, which closed last week in the junior and senior high departments, respectively.

Many school newspapers have disappeared in recent times because of financial problems; West High School, however, has maintained liberal support of both students and advertisers.

Both Mr. Miller and Mr. Cammarn indicate that many potential salesmen and saleslades in the business world may be found among the blue ribbon Occident salesmen.

An analysis of occupations of parents of these super-salesmen shows some interesting facts, since many are either salesmen or in vocations where salesmanship is important. It's a like student, like parent "combine".

Lee Addie, office man; William Allen, postal clerk; Howard Brown, secretary; Phillip Cartmell, truck driver; Norman Chappelear, die setter; Karl Cline, business manager; Joe D'Amico, dock superintendent; Donald Davis, carpet layer; Robert Faistle, motor truck manager; Charles Hall, Columbus Southern Electric; Bob Harman, department manager; William Harrison, dragline operator; James Hunt, paper hanger and painter; Bob Johnson, mechanical engineer; John Kimes, meat man; Donald Linn, timekeeper.

Martha Baker, clerk; Irene Batteiger, machinist; Margie Bender, bookkeeper; Barbara Bradfute, sales councilor; Chairmain Buttner, contractor; Jerry Cline, motion picture operator; Nancy Constans, carpenter and construction; Jennie Dickendesher, foreman; Delores Dutton, truck driver; Nancy Flemming, welder; Jeanette Fulton, surveyor; Eleanor Gilgien, electrician; Virginia Goodburn, switchboard; Helen Higgins, grocer; Jane Hogabaun, bookkeeper; Aula Horga, service man; Frances Hosler, machinist; JoAnn Inboden, salesman; Nancy Johnson, driver; Eileen Lanbeberger, draftsman; Patricia Leach, sales manager.

Verna Manson, distributor; Jean Mason, service manager; Ramona McGinnis, water meter man; Ellen McKnight, foreman, Curtiss-Wright; Nancy Miller, housewife; Phyllis Miller, foreman, Buckeye Tent Awning Co.; LeDonna Mithoff, carpenter; JoAnn Oliver, foreman; Laura Pannabecker, operator; Norma Parliament, mechanic; Marcia Patridge, safety director; Sheila Pugh, executive director, Columbus Hospital Fed.; Norma Rehl, ice business; Diane Smith, commercial artist; Norma Spradling, machinist; Ruth Starkey, Lazarus Dept. A Lecture on CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Entitled

Proving the Truth Of Christian Science In Human Affairs

by

Ralph Castle, C. S.
of San Francisco, California

Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

Given on

March 3rd, 1949

At First Church of Christ, Scientist,
457 East Broad Street

The lecturer spoke substantially as follows:

Christian Science has its foundation in the Holy Bible. The books contained in the Bible have been translated many times from the original Hebrew and Greek into the English tongue; and, as we all know, up to a certain point in history, translators faced persecution and martyrdom in their desire to share with the people spiritual truths contained in these writings, without adulteration by the existing church or state.

Eventually, during the reign of James the First, a full translation into English was made available, and this authorized translation, known as the King James Version, is the Bible generally accepted today and is used by Christian Scientists and in Christian Science churches in all English-speaking countries.

In the year 1866 a spiritually-minded woman lay bedridden, condemned to a life of invalidism as the result of an accident. Physicians said there was no hope for her recovery. But she did not accept the verdict. Instead, she asked for her Bible, and pondering again the words and works of the master Physician, Christ Jesus, she became so conscious of the ever-availability of the power of God to heal that she was restored to normal health immediately. She thereupon arose from her bed, dressed, and joined friends and relatives to their utter amazement. That woman was Mary Baker Eddy, known to the world today as the Discoverer, Founder, and Leader of Christian Science.

Since childhood, Mrs. Eddy had been an unusually keen Bible student. She also possessed an unwavering faith in the power of God to heal. This instance of spiritual healing was not the first she had experienced, and by now she was firmly convinced that underlying the physical and moral healings recorded in the Bible was a definite rule. And she was equally confident that this rule could be discovered and so made available to present-day humanity.

Mrs. Eddy—Leader

Through divine revelation and her consecrated labors during the years to follow, she did discover a demonstrable Science with positive rules. Living, as she did, so closely to God, she discerned spiritually that the teachings of Jesus were based on a divine Principle, a Principle which healed, not alone the sick, but the sinful. In this connection she has written on page 28 of her textbook of Christian Science, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures": "Our Master taught no mere theory, doctrine, or belief. It was the divine Principle of all real being which he taught and practised. His proof of Christianity was no form or system of religion and worship, but Christian Science, working out the harmony of Life and Love." She named her discovery Christian Science. She, too, was persecuted and maligned because of her spiritual convictions, but today her book, from which I have just read, is accepted and used by countless thousands of grateful students.

It is understandable that Christian Scientists love and revere their Leader for what she was, namely, the divinely authorized and fearless revelator to this age of the Christ, Truth, expressed in terms so clear and practical that the commandment of Jesus to his disciples may be obeyed literally, by each and every one of us. I refer to his words as recorded in Matthew 10, "Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: freely ye have received, freely give."

Christian Scientists also are profoundly grateful to their Leader, this gentle woman who was yet strong enough to stand against intolerance, ostracism, and even family disownment that she might pursue a divinely inspired mission. And we rejoice in the knowledge that the success of her mission was established while she was with us, its beneficial effects upon humanity had become apparent, and she was rewarded in some measure for her labors by witnessing the works which so wonderfully justified her faith.

Mrs. Eddy established the Church of Christ, Scientist, The Mother Church, situated in Boston, Massachusetts, with its branches all over the civilized world. This church is governed by her Church Manual, on page 15 of which will be found six articles of faith which Mrs. Eddy has set forth as religious Tenets of Christian Science. The first of these Tenets reads, "As adherents of Truth, we take the inspired Word of the Bible as our sufficient guide to eternal Life."

The Inspired Word

A natural question which might arise in the thought of the new student is, "What is meant by the inspired Word?" So before going further let us see if we can come to an understanding. The inspired Word is the spiritual meaning of the Scriptures rather than the mere recital of events. It means the understanding of the spiritual truths revealed to the writers, who could pass along these revelations to others only by the employment of human language. And we all know the human language was, and is still, frequently inadequate to present a profound spiritual fact in its true significance. Students of Christian Science are students of the Bible. They recognize the inspiration of the Scriptures as a whole, and in their study of Holy Writ they learn to discern the spiritual values which lie behind the recital of even historical events and mentally to perceive eternal truths in the utterances of Biblical characters. Naturally, in many declarations, especially those made by certain of the prophets, by Jesus, and by his followers, the spiritual import of the words is more apparent than in some of the other writings. Yet there were times when the immediate disciples of the Master had to ask him to explain to them the spiritual meaning of his teaching.

Broadly speaking, the inspired Word throughout the entire Bible points to a great spiritual fact, namely, the omnipotence, omnipresence, and omniscience of the one God, whom the greatest of all teachers, Jesus the Christ, said to know aright is life eternal. This inspired Word, the Word of God given to mankind through men, requires spiritualized thought in order to be acquired and utilized. It is the utilization of these spiritual truths which constitutes the practice of Christian Science. And how can thought become more spiritualized, and thereby more capable of discerning spiritual facts, and so more able to apply them to everyday experience? By the study of the Bible together with the Key to the Scriptures, the textbook of Christian Science. Why? Because it has been proved thousands of times and publicly acknowledged that the light which Christian Science throws on the Bible has brought physical healing, comfort, and regeneration to countless persons willing to turn to God, or the inspired Word, scientifically understood, for help. You notice I use the word "scientifically." It is not sufficient to turn to God emotionally or even in blind faith. Christian Science, as its title implies, is a science—the Science of Christianity, the Science which Jesus understood and demonstrated and regarding which he said, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also."

Language of Spirit

It is reasonable to think there will be some persons present who are not very familiar with the teachings of Christian Science. To these people part of the terminology used may not accurately convey the meaning intended. Certain words may be used in a sense that seems at variance with the commonly accepted meaning. Two of these words, the meaning of which needs to be clarified, are "real" and "unreal." A knowledge of Christian Science, or the Science of being, as Mrs. Eddy sometimes refers to it, requires a clear concept of what is real and what is unreal: so let us take a few moments to analyze their meaning and arrive at a basis for discussion.

Students of Christian Science find it natural to think and speak in terms which may at first be somewhat difficult to grasp by one not instructed in Christian Science. After a Christian Science lecture in which I, personally, thought the difference between the two words in question had been pretty clearly set forth, a non-Christian Scientist friend wrote, "I can understand Mrs. Eddy's concept of reality as you expressed it, but I have to make a conscious effort to differentiate between that concept and the commonly accepted one." Possibly without realizing it, this friend has expressed in his statement the fundamental requirement for anyone who is desirous to learn more of Christian Science. To distinguish between the scientific conception of what is real and what is unreal most certainly demands a conscious effort, especially at first.

On the first page of the Preface to the Christian Science textbook, Mrs. Eddy has said (p. vii), "The time for thinkers has come." What is thinking absolutely but consciousness in action? So the conscious effort of our friend really means an effort to think, and to think correctly. But perhaps I am ahead of myself in making such an assertion prior to having established the reason for it.

Time for Thinkers

The man or woman who thinks about the subject at all will undoubtedly admit that the universe, the heaven and the earth, was created by and consequently must be sustained by some sort of Supreme Being, or governing intelligence. That may be as far as some persons care to go, but it is here that Christian Science makes demands upon its students to think more deeply—to make the conscious effort to determine for themselves what really constitutes creation, who and what they really are, and the extent of their capabilities.

We are all familiar with the opening words in the book of Genesis, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth." None will deny, I am sure, that God is Spirit. Since God is self-conscious Being, let us name God divine Mind, the source of all intelligence. It follows, therefore, that the origin of heaven and earth was spiritual, that heaven and earth were spiritual concepts, creations of the divine Mind, or intelligence.

In the twenty-sixth verse of this chapter in Genesis we read, "And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness." We might paraphrase this to read, "Spirit, or divine intelligence, said, Let us make man to reflect, or express, intelligence." As the physical or material senses cannot be cognizant of Spirit or intelligence, it is logical to conclude that the physical or material senses cannot be cognizant of the reflection, or expression of intelligence, designated in the first chapter of Genesis as man, man capable only of spiritually expressing, or reflecting, the qualities of his creator. And this leads us to all-important questions: Is the creator real or unreal? also, Is man, spiritually perceived as reflecting the attributes and qualities of the creator, real or unreal? Upon our answers depends our grasp of true creation and true being. False education down the centuries is responsible for mankind's misconception of reality. To realize the spiritual fact in the face of false material arguments most certainly demands conscious effort. In other words, it demands alertness to think consistently and accurately.

The Spiritual Creation

We cannot think of true creation without thinking in terms of life. So a spiritual creation must include spiritual life. Man, reflecting intelligence, reflects Life—spirituality, of course. Herein lies another important factor in Christian Science, especially from the aspect of healing. Under a subheading or marginal note in the Christian Science textbook entitled "Spiritualized consciousness" are these words (p. 14): "Become conscious for a single moment that Life and intelligence are purely spiritual,—neither in nor of matter,—and the body will then utter no complaints. If suffering from a belief in sickness, you will find yourself suddenly well." I have quoted from page 14, and these encouraging statements follow an enlightening discussion of St. Paul's aim and hope as expressed in his second epistle to the Corinthians, to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord. By scientific or correct reasoning we arrive at the conclusion that absence from the body and presence with the Lord is a spiritually mental possibility here and now. This does not mean the attempted desertion of this material body in what mankind calls death. On the contrary, as the citation from Science and Health states, the body ceases to complain, or to be painful, because the individual consciousness cannot be cognizant of ease and pain, relief and suffering, at one and the same time. Hence we see that a spiritual perception of what it means to be absent from the body and to be present with the Lord is requisite to Christian Science treatment, whether the treatment be in one's own behalf or in behalf of another.

I know of a case where one who was working to overcome a condition which had been diagnosed microscopically and pathologically as malignant, and which was unsightly and distressing, enjoyed a complete healing as a result of spiritualized understanding. One night when physical conditions seemed very serious, this student mentally turned his thoughts away from the body and the evidence of the material senses and pondered anew what is known to Christian Scientists as the scientific interpretation or spiritual sense of the Lord's Prayer, given on page 16 of the textbook. And by the way, this interpretation must not be thought a substitute for our Lord's Prayer. Its purpose is to set forth the spiritual meaning which the Master left for his followers to discern, in much the same way that he so often taught spirituality by parables and symbols. But to return to the case in point. Let us review a few of the spiritual truths which, specifically applied, brought about this bodily healing. I shall recite the opening lines of the Lord's Prayer and give their spiritual interpretation to which I have just referred:

"Our Father which art in heaven,
Our Father-Mother God, all-harmonious,
Hallowed be Thy name.
Adorable One.
Thy kingdom come.
Thy kingdom is come; Thou art ever-present.
Thy will be done in earth, as it is in heaven.
Enable us to know,—as in heaven, so on earth,—God is omnipotent, supreme."

Friend is Healed

It was at this point that our friend, who had pondered each of these statements at length and from each had extracted such clear spiritual facts relating to God and man that his consciousness was filled, as never before, with the realization of true creation, became utterly unaware of bodily feeling. In this exalted mental state he was actually absent from the body and present with the Lord. He dropped off to sleep, and when he awakened the physical condition showed definite signs of healing. What had been a deep and expanding lesion was entirely healed within a comparatively short time.

As previously quoted from Science and Health, "The time for thinkers has come." From the tenor of Mrs. Eddy's writings there can be only one construction to be placed on the word "thinkers," namely, intelligent thinkers. Reviewing world conditions today, are we not forced to the conclusion that they are hardly the outcome of intelligent thinking on the part of human beings? Are they not, instead, the result of false thinking, of emotions governed by fear, greed, revenge, and domination? In very truth, then, "The time for thinkers has come." And the application of the rules of Christian Science to human affairs by individuals offers the only solution to the difficulties which have, seemingly, become more complex with the passing of time.

Christianity has been advanced as a remedy for the ills of the world by spiritually-minded persons all through the course of history but, in the main, it would seem their appeals have fallen upon deaf ears. One reason may be, in part, because the teachings of Jesus have been advanced mainly from the standpoint of their moral or philosophical values. None will dispute these are highly desirable and necessary and have, undoubtedly, been indispensable to the spiritual growth of many individuals. Yet moral and philosophical values alone have been insufficient to stem the tide of national differences which have generally culminated in outbreaks of war and violence. In view of such catastrophes, therefore, may we not ask the question, "Has Christianity ever been given a really fair trial?" The honest answer is a tragic negative. Yet we have here, in the Christian Science textbook, the key to the situation. As the title implies, and as I have said before, it is the Science of Christianity. Not only does Christian Science teach the moral and philosophical elements of Christianity, but it goes much farther, it sets forth in clear and unmistakable terms its Science—the rules of which, when applied correctly to any given set of circumstances, will demonstrate scientifically the solution.

Old Systems Worn Out

For the purposes of our discussion, let us say the human race has been engaged in a business enterprise for, call it, five or six thousand years according to our measurement of time. By referring to Biblical records and records of more recent history, we can obtain a fairly clear picture of human relationships over that period. The business in which humanity has been and still is engaged is getting along harmoniously with one another; it is busy with the search for wealth and for health, and in making the world a happier place in which to live. As this business is a going concern, let us look at the balance sheet. What do the books reveal? What does the profit and loss account show for the period? You will agree, I am sure, that the balance sheet is somewhat a disgrace to the management. Despite "red figures" we see that methods adopted thousands of years ago have been adhered to through the centuries, although farsighted individuals at different times in history have openly and vehemently declared such methods are out of date and, if pursued, would bring disaster to the corporation. Nearly every year the books have closed "in the red"—the red occasioned by wars and other forms of human conflict—until today material sense would have us think that man's hand is turned against his brother as in the first record of fratricide when Cain slew Abel.

If methods were followed in our own private business enterprises which, year after year, kept us in the red, would we not take drastic steps to see that such methods were discarded and in their place institute a system which holds promise of successful operation? We might know it would take some time to get the wheels in motion to the point where the new system would be reflected on the books by a profit, yet we would be willing to adopt it after such a glaring failure. Instead, we find mankind generally still trying to live by the old formula, namely, by mass consent to human material conditions—mass consent to peace, to war, to morality. And we find that mass morality has failed, whereas Christianity has hardly been tried. Please do not misunderstand me. I use "morality" in a very broad sense. Furthermore, I am not implying we should dispense with human laws or with human forms of government. Such a plan is unthinkable and would result in confusion worse confounded. We must support law and order. Our revered Leader not only was meticulous herself in the observance of law, but she admonished her followers to be likewise. It is the matter of thinking to which I refer. The Master said, "Render to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's" (Mark 12:17). While we obey the laws of the state in every respect, let our thinking be in obedience to God, divine Principle. We do not mentally have to accept as real the inharmonies which confront us.

Material Sense Illusion

In this discussion we have already seen that evidence presented by material sense is not real in the Christianly scientific sense of that word. So it must be illusion. On page 495 of Science and Health we find what our Leader tells us we should do with such evidence. "When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you," she says, "cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to abide in your thought." A little later on the same page she writes, "Let Christian Science, instead of corporeal sense, support your understanding of being, and this understanding will supplant error with Truth, replace mortality with immortality, and silence discord with harmony." When we allow nothing but God's likeness to abide in our thought, we cannot become mesmerized by what human beings may seem to be expressing. Rather will we accept into our individual consciousness only that which spiritual sense compels us to recognize as God's ideas—the sons and daughters of God, expressing or reflecting God in His attributes and qualities.

Do you say, "That's all very well, but my thinking along such lines does not change the material situation"? Doesn't it? That is where lies a big mistake. Right there is the mesmerism that material sense is real and more powerful than good. We should remember that whatever the evidence of the senses tries to tell us is a lie from the beginning. An individual holding mentally to what he knows to be the truth of being in the face of all odds will find that what he calls the material situation is indeed changed, and that with the betterment of his own conditions he is assisting in putting into effect a new system of operation in this world business of ours. What if it does take time from the human standpoint? Mrs. Eddy foresaw that inevitability. She says on page 233 of the textbook, "The ages must slowly work up to perfection." So let us not feel discouraged if we do not immediately see the demonstration made over the evidence of the material senses nationally or internationally. Demonstrating the truth of being is an individual experience. As the number of individuals who are making this demonstration increases, so the prospect of happier times for all becomes more apparent. As I said just now, the old system has been tried for thousands of years. Let us now work as individuals scientifically to bring joy, peace, and health to mankind. Scientifically, it must start with you and with me and with others, in individual human consciousness. One thing is certain, namely, that as we approach world problems in this way, they become less real and discouraging to us and our individual mental dwelling, or human consciousness, is much happier. Also, it is defended against what the Psalmist called "the terror by night" and "the pestilence that walketh in darkness." Mrs. Eddy saw the far-reaching effect of one's mental attitude upon outward conditions. On page 160 of Miscellany she says, "To live so as to keep human consciousness in constant relation with the divine, the spiritual, and the eternal, is to individualize infinite power; and this is Christian Science."

Let us now approach our subject of demonstrating the Christ, the idea of Truth, in human affairs more specifically. For instance, consider the person engaged in business. Increasing numbers of men and women throughout the world are testifying to relief from discordant conditions in business, relief obtained by their adherence to the Christ, the idea of Truth, which demonstrates the omnipresence and omniaction of God, divine Love.

Mastering Temptations

Suppose one should find himself in an environment where sharp practices, greed, anger, and fear seem rampant. If such a one is an employee, the temptation to resign might arise, despite all doubts as to the prospect of re-employment. In Christian Science any inharmonious condition needs to be met and mastered. Withdrawal from the outward evidence of inharmony prior to obtaining individual spiritual mastery and freedom is not the true solution. At best it is but a temporary expedient.

It is not uncommon to hear inharmony in business attributed to certain personal faults. Unreasonableness, bad temper, even differences of opinion in politics and religion are held responsible for discord and distress. Christian Science makes it plain that such contentions are not true; that such fables of mortal mind are no part of real consciousness. In this connection let me cite two short statements from our textbook. On page 129 Mrs. Eddy has written, "If you wish to know the spiritual fact, you can discover it by reversing the material fable, be the fable pro or con;" and on page 71 are these words: "Evil has no reality. It is neither person, place, nor thing, but is simply a belief, an illusion of material sense." When Jesus asked the impotent man at the pool of Bethesda if he would be made whole, self-pity and self-justification answered. Others were blamed for his inability to reach the pool at the proper time. Although the Master had compassion on the man and healed him, he later admonished him, saying, "Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee." When confronted with seeming discord, it is not Christianly scientific to hold others responsible for our acceptance of error as real. Watchful care needs to be exercised to arrest such thoughts, "lest a worse thing come," and we believe ourselves victims of circumstances or targets for error.

Omnipotence of God

The remedy for mental confusion or inharmony lies in the glorious realization that there is no place or condition where one can be deprived of the presence of God and of His Christ. The Psalmist said, "If I make my bed in hell, behold, thou [God] art there." Self-pity and self-justification may argue that we have made our bed in hell, but refusing to remain there is entirely within the scope of our demonstration. We find the spiritual fact as we reverse the material fable. We probably would not hesitate to declare of our true self, "I am God's perfect child," and yet the truth of such a declaration is denied when we contend that someone else is lacking in the spiritual qualities we claim for ourselves.

A young woman who had been brought up as a Christian Scientist married into a family where the attitude toward her religion was extremely critical. A few months after her marriage she invited several of her in-laws to luncheon. On the morning of the occasion she awakened with a heavy cold, and as it was at the time of an epidemic of influenza, her first thought was to call her husband's relatives and, without mentioning the reason, tell them she was unable to have them. She was then confronted with the thought that they would assume she didn't want them, which would cause further friction. On the other hand, if she explained, she felt she would expose her religion to criticism and they would say that in time of need it was of no value. So she decided the only thing to do was to work out the difficulty before they arrived. She asserted many times that she was the perfect reflection of the perfect Mind, that as a child of God, Truth, she could not manifest error; but even as she worked, conditions grew worse. Suddenly she mentally awakened to what she was doing. Although she was asserting her own perfection, she was attributing to others an inability to recognize that reflection and was seeing in them traits of criticism and intolerance. She promptly reversed her thinking in regard to her relatives. She realized they, too, reflected the same Mind which she claimed to reflect and that they could neither see nor experience any inharmonious condition. The luncheon was a happy occasion, and not until her guests had left did our friend realize the fullness of this demonstration of the power of Truth. No word had been spoken about her physical condition, and for the good reason that she had been entirely healed.

God's Law Includes All

To Principle and its idea, God and His child, there is no evil. Our own demonstration of harmony requires our steadfast recognition that God's law governs our fellow being as well as ourselves.

By accepting the spirit of Christ into our business relationships and by determined and consistent effort to heed only the voice of Truth concerning our fellow men, we find that error is stripped of its supposed power and there is nothing left to disrupt our health, our wealth, our equanimity and peace of mind. This scientific procedure enables one to individualize infinite power in "the daily round, the common task," and is a practical contribution toward the Christianization of thought and life.

Somewhere around 600 B.C. the condition of the world must have appeared to its inhabitants very much the same as our world looks to us today. Military might acquired by one nation could spell aggression and cruelty to another. And a vicious circle might be the outcome. Unable to solve the perplexing difficulties in national affairs in any other way, the prophet Habakkuk turned his thought directly to God, and he mentally climbed his tower of faith that he might obtain a better view of his God and receive from the Almighty inspiration and hope for his people. I refer you to the book of Habakkuk, chapter two. Incidentally, this story is another good example of what we might term the "inspired Word of the Bible." One thing was quite clear to Habakkuk, the need for patience and an unwavering faith in the ultimate defeat of evil and the triumph of good. He was so sure this condition ultimately would prevail that he assures, "Though it tarry, wait for it; because it will surely come." And in verse 14 we read these stirring words: "For the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea." Habakkuk, from his mount of vision, saw the inhabitants of the whole earth acknowledging the one God, the one Mind, the conqueror of the world. And a world empire that is not Babylonian or Russian, Greek or American, but divine—the kingdom of God.

Reign of God

The glorious fact is that the kingdom of God is not circumscribed by boundaries and its existence does not depend upon the accomplishments of armies, statesmen, or politicians. And talking about the kingdom of God, let me quote a few lines from Moffatt's translation of Luke 17, verses 20 and 21: "On being asked by the Pharisees when the Reign of God was coming, he [Jesus] answered them, 'The Reign of God is not coming as you hope to catch sight of it; no one will say, "Here it is," or "There it is," for the Reign of God is now in your midst.'"

For many purposes the word "reign" is a good substitute for "kingdom." Mrs. Eddy uses it in her definition of "New Jerusalem" on page 592 of Science and Health. ". . . The kingdom of heaven, or reign of harmony," she calls it. And on page 476 she says, "When speaking of God's children, not the children of men, Jesus said, 'The kingdom of God is within you;' that is, Truth and Love reign in the real man." It is necessary, when considering the kingdom of God, to know that heaven, God's reign, is within us. It is divine Principle, Love, exercising a controlling influence. As a matter of fact, this line of thinking is so important to our individual spiritual progress and to our contribution to peace in the world that Mrs. Eddy gave us a prayer which she included in her Manual of The Mother Church and required that it be used daily by every member of her church. It is known as the "Daily Prayer." In a few words it epitomizes the Christian's desire for spirituality and the inward longing of mankind for peace on earth. It reads as follows (Art. VIII, Sect. 4): "Thy kingdom come! let the reign of divine Truth, Life, and Love be established in me, and rule out of me all sin; and may Thy Word enrich the affections of all mankind, and govern them!"

Federal Reserve Board Eases Credit Control

The government relaxed its credit controls to make it easier to buy things on the installment plan. The Federal Reserve Board took this action, effective Monday, after President Truman's economic advisers had assured him that the business outlook was "still very good, bright and promising."

The board did not comment on the state of the nation's economic health in its order extending time payments to 21 months and cutting the amount of down payment from 20 per cent to 15 per cent of the purchase price on all goods except automobiles.

Persons buying cars still must put up one-third of the cost in cash, but they now will have a longer time in which to pay off the balance—thus reducing those monthly installments which auto dealers claim have slowed their sales.

For example, if you buy a car for $1,800, you still have to pay $600 down; but your monthly payments would be $11.11 less than under the old regulations, which required the balance to be cleaned up in 18 months if the amount was over $1,000 and in 15 months if the balance was less than $1,000.

How It's Done

This is how it works after that initial $600 payment: You sign a note for $1,400, which includes the $1,200 balance, plus $200 for interest and insurance charges. (The $200 is an approximate figure, which may vary in different localities.) That makes your monthly payments $66.66 as compared with $77.77 required under the 18-month pay plan.

This holds true for other time purchases of such things as refrigerators, stoves, radios and household furnishings.

As it applies to automobiles, neither the present regulation nor the modification makes any distinction between new and used cars.

The Federal Reserve Board's order came shortly after its report that the amount of installment credit outstanding dropped $145,000,000 in January, marking the first decline in three years. It said total consumer credit, including charge accounts, which are not controlled, amounted to $15,376,000,000 in January.

The board has been under increasing pressure for a relaxation of the credit controls which were imposed last September and are due to expire June 30.

Her Gifts of Quilts Make World-Wide Friendships for Retired Missionary

By Myron T. Seifert

The missionary efforts of a former Hilltop woman, Mary M. Thomas, who devoted 22 years of her life as a Methodist missionary in China and whose retirement in 1929 prompted another challenge to service, is being carried on from the Bethesda Home, 440 Layfayette-av, Cincinnati, where she now resides.

Refusing to fold her hands a score of years ago, she started making baby quilts from patches and materials which she had accumulated from time to time.

Now at the age of 80 she continues this project, and her workmanship is found among families in all corners of the earth, including Hilltop homes.

Letters in many languages of appreciation for her services have been received by Miss Thomas.

To date, she has hand-made, piece by piece, 267 baby crib quilts and 100 doll quilts, which she has given to deserving people in 24 states, Alaska and in 23 foreign countries.

These generous gifts started with her nieces, grandnieces and cousins, their friends and friends many of whom she has never seen.

Recipients of her handiwork are found in South America, Palestine, India, China, Japan, Korea, Africa, Poland, France and 15 other foreign points, in addition to those in this country.

Protestant, Catholic, Jew, and the white, black, yellow and Indian races are numbered among her legion of friends.

Many of her quilts are made of tiny one and one-half inch squares of pink, blue and small figured cotton. When her friends see appropriate material at the stores they invariably take it to Miss Thomas' apartment for quilt-making. The inner lining, to provide softness and warmth, is usually white outing flannel.

"Most of the quilts," Miss Thomas said, "are quilted with tiny stitches. However, some that go to institutions and relief agencies are gayly knotted with yarn," she added.

As a result of her quilting [illegible] in addition to a wide correspondence with many families, a baby-picture gallery of "tots" whom she has helped in her work. These are found on the walls, desks and bookcases of her apartment. All of the children she can call by name, although the majority of them she has never seen.

Miss Thomas will be remembered for her many inspirational missionary talks to various church groups on the Hilltop.

Last August Miss Thomas was recognized on the Tom Breneman radio show as a "Good Neighbor" for her unselfish service.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

This early spring-like weather is really hard on the folks who make digging in the soil an intricate part of their lives. It brings out the old urge to get out and start doing things.

I think it proper to offer a word of warning about actually working the soil, especially flower beds or vegetable garden areas. The soil is rather water soaked and if it is handled in this stage there is danger of compressing the soil particles to the extent that all of the oxygen or air will be excluded. Air or oxygen is just as vital to plant development as the fertilizer you apply.

If you really have to do things in the yard, here are a few things you might have planned to do anyway and now is an excellent time to take care of them. Spring pruning of evergreens, hedges, or any of the late flowering shrubs. Do not prune any of your early flowering shrubs if you want to enjoy their flowers this spring. You can do any severe pruning such as tree trimming.

A convenient source of cut flowers for the house right now are early flowering shrubs. You can take branches from forsythia, flowering quince, peaches, plums, cherries and almond. These are most of the early varieties that will bloom. Put the branches in plenty of water in a warm room and the flowers will appear almost immediately.

New Smokeless Coal Is Being Introduced

"Disco, a distilled product and reported to be the only ball-type low temperature carbonized fuel produced commercially by a continuous process, is now on sale by the City Ice and Fuel Co.

It is heavier than high temperature coke and differs from the latter in a number of respects that are important in domestic heating use. It is a highly reactive fuel, easily ignited and will hold fire for several days in the ordinary home furnace if the drafts are closed. As experienced at the present plant, the volatile content of Disco runs around 15 per cent, thus assuring both smokeless and high ignitability. It comes in ball shape that ranges in size from one to eight inches in diameter and handles nicely in that there is a minimum of breakage and clean in storing.

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

I HAVE a letter from a young man who says he is convinced that he will never get ahead in the world because he could not finish high school. Well! Well!

So here's a story of a boy in Schenectady, N. Y., who didn't finish high school, either. He had to leave at the end of his sophomore year to help earn money to support his family. His name: Vincent Schaefer. You probably haven't heard that name before, but you have heard of something he did.

D. Carnegie

He got a job in tool-making with the General Electric company in that city. After a time he quit and became a "tree surgeon." But after another period of time, he found that he didn't love a tree as much as he thought he did, so he want back to his tools again. During the depression he needed a house—a home of his own. But he was so hard up that he couldn't buy one. However, he took care of that. He bought an old barn and rebuilt it with his own hands into a livable house.

During the last war he was assigned to work in military aviation and for this he had to study clouds. One day he told a fellow worker that he believed he could make it rain. The man looked at him pityingly and said, "Well, you will be the first man to do that since the beginning of time."

Of course, in the early days, there had been fake rainmakers in Kansas and the later Dust Bowl. They had sent up clouds of gas; the rain would gather around the particles in the gas, they said. If it rained within three days they would get $500. If it didn't rain, they would move on to a new place and try their luck again.

But Vincent Schaefer had a new and different idea. He had blown his breath into a cold jar and watched clouds form. Then he had scattered ice particles in the glass jar—and it rained within the jar, or, rather water resulted.

Why couldn't this be done on a larger scale? He went up in an airplane, scattered some dry ice above the clouds. It rained! You read of that in the papers last summer.

And the effect of Vincent Schaefer's experiment may prove to be miraculous. Wait and see.

Hilltop Girl Misses Ohio River As Excursion Boat Season Approaches

By Myron T. Belfert

"Excursion boats on the Ohio are a sure sign of spring," said youthful Judy Ward, 31 Haldy-av, sophomore at West High as she reminisced in a nostalgic mood on her childhood days in Ironton, O.

"River boats have always fascinated me," she said. "I don't remember when I first became conscious of them, but have been told by my parents that I showed signs of interest in boats before I was a year old."

The excursion boats passed the Ward home at regular intervals, and the sound of the calliopes is still vividly recalled by Judy. Excursion season was from early May until the latter part of August.

The "Island Queen" was the last word in excursion boats, and Judy knew every quarter of its luxurious hul. A very large boat, it was equipped with a huge dance hall, and Judy remembers the cavalcade of slot machines that bordered the recreation room. The Island Queen was destroyed by fire in recent years.

Excursion boats were operated in the late afternoon to accommodate school children who lived along the Ohio and always looked forward to at least one trip in the steamer before school was out in June.

Judy knew the history of practically every packet that cruised the Ohio.

A fleet of the fine "Green" boats sailed the old Ohio, and Judy's first ride, she recalls, was aboard the "Chris Green."

As a child it was her "greatest thrill" to ride the packet boat with the captain of the ship in the pilot house, where she was permitted to help chart the course of the vessel—even through the locks.

Other members of the "Green" line of packets to navigate the Ohio were the "Garden Green" and the "Tom Green."

Advance propaganda, via posters and press heralded the arrival of the picturesque show boat.

When the play actually began with its calliope preludes, the boat would move slowly up the river, adding color and movement to the show, which was usually a musical comedy.

There's a Reason for the Money They Spend

Week after week, month after month, the merchants of this community place columns upon columns of advertising in this newspaper. Each different department takes its turn in the small and large advertisements that are prepared by these progressive stores.

Why, you say, do they advertise so extensively? A moment's reflection and you have the answer. What would you do if they didn't advertise? How would you compare values and prices?

Yes, it would take days of searching, hours of weary looking and comparing. But with a parade of values and merchandise descriptions right before your eyes, you can accomplish in a half hour's reading what would otherwise tax your endurance and patience.

There's a reason for the money they spend — and the reason is to help you choose easily . . . quickly . . . intelligently, the things you need and want. That's why it pays to read Hilltop Record advertisements.

Federal Reserve Board Eases Credit Control

The government relaxed its credit controls to make it easier to buy things on the installment plan. The Federal Reserve Board took this action, effective Monday, after President Truman's economic advisers had assured him that the business outlook was "still very good, bright and promising."

The board did not comment on the state of the nation's economic health in its order extending time payments to 21 months and cutting the amount of down payment from 20 per cent to 15 per cent of the purchase price on all goods except automobiles.

Persons buying cars still must put up one-third of the cost in cash, but they now will have a longer time in which to pay off the balance—thus reducing those monthly installments which auto dealers claim have slowed their sales.

For example, if you buy a car for $1,800, you still have to pay $600 down; but your monthly payments would be $11.11 less than under the old regulations, which required the balance to be cleaned up in 18 months if the amount was over $1,000 and in 15 months if the balance was less than $1,000.

How It's Done

This is how it works after that initial $600 payment: You sign a note for $1,400, which includes the $1,200 balance, plus $200 for interest and insurance charges. (The $200 is an approximate figure, which may vary in different localities.) That makes your monthly payments $66.66 as compared with $77.77 required under the 18-month pay plan.

This holds true for other time purchases of such things as refrigerators, stoves, radios and household furnishings.

As it applies to automobiles, neither the present regulation nor the modification makes any distinction between new and used cars.

The Federal Reserve Board's order came shortly after its report that the amount of installment credit outstanding dropped $145,000,000 in January, marking the first decline in three years. It said total consumer credit, including charge accounts, which are not controlled, amounted to $15,376,000,000 in January.

The board has been under increasing pressure for a relaxation of the credit controls which were imposed last September and are due to expire June 30.

West High seniors are already making plans for the spring social events, traditionally a part of the final term's activities, George F. Neeb, class adviser, announced last week.

At an earlier meeting of the seniors this semester, Principal Irvin F. Young reminded students that they might have a fine social affair, but cautioned them regarding a repetition of last year's experiences.

Asking cooperation of all to see that hazards incident to a senior party are eliminated, Mr. Young was emphatic in his remarks to make this year's social affairs safe for all. A favorable response was noted among the 170 potential graduates present.

Students expressed opinions on a number of senior issues on a questionnaire, distributed among the classrooms.

Tabulations show seniors' opinions. One hundred and fifty-two students want a banquet, but eight opposed the measure. A senior dance was popularly supported by 160 seniors. The majority favored an "open" dance, with each student permitted to bring one guest. Vote stood 133 for and 35 opposed.

The vote for making the dance a senior-sponsored affair was 186 in favor and 11 against.

The class banquet, the seniors ruled, would be informal in dress. However, the dance this year will exhibit many pastels in formal dress for the girls, and boys still prefer "civies". Twenty-five boys voted for tuxedos and 134 against. Girls preferred formals by a vote of 106 to 28.

Finally, the class agreed to leave a class memorial fund to the extent of at least $75.

Records showed 49 favored a $50 project, 56 said $75, while a minority of 33 declared $100 might be given as a 1949 class memorial.

Memorial Hall Letters Get Good Replies

Rev. McVay, chairman of the committee for the Memorial Hall Fund of Camp Chase Post of the American Legion reports that "there has been a good response from letters sent out requesting an extension of time before construction begins on the project."

Mr. McVay added that approximately 50% of the letters sent out have been returned to date. "All have been favorable to the extension," he said.

The extension of time was requested, after valuable time was lost during the war, when it was impossible to secure materials. Also for some time the government would not grant a permit for the building.

Mr. McVay is urging those who have not signed or returned the letters to do so immediately in order that plans can be made for construction of the new Memorial Hall soon.

It has been estimated that the cost of the building will be approximately $30,000.

Shuttle Bus To Operate W. of Harris

Shuttle buses will travel west of Harris-av, to Binns-blvd and Wicklow-rd, he added.

The new turn, which is slated to go into effect sometime this spring, due to the proposed resurfacing of Sullivant-av, has necessitated the turn at Harris-av. Mr. Alexander advised last week.

Coaches traveling west on Sullivant-av, will turn at Harris-av, go south to Vida-pl, east to Warren-av, and north to Sullivant-av.

Two others in the jeep were injured, Pearl Sharron, 480 Clarendon-av and J. R. Brown, 966 Dublin-rd.

Condition of Pearl Sharron is fair, Mt. Carmel reported Wednesday. He underwent a brain operation after the accident.

Susie Says Good-Bye To Cols. As Hartman Hit Closes

By Doris McGill

Susie Johnson

Looking more like a French fashion model than the bewitching Brigadoon heroine, Susie Johnson called goodbye to her mother and father early Sunday morning as she left Columbus after Brigadoon closed a successful week's run.

Next stop after Columbus was Cleveland, where her show opened Monday for a six-day run.

Clyde Johnson, father of the musical comedy star, reported Wednesday that she had signed a contract for the role formerly played by Priscilla Gillet. Miss Gillet is retiring from the show due to illness. Susie was formerly Miss Gillet's understudy.

After Cleveland the company will travel with frequent stopovers, to the West Coast, where Brigadoon will open the annual Los Angeles Musical Festival in June. Engagements for Brigadoon extend through 1951, so Susie's immediate future is pretty well decided.

A Hilltopper nearly all her life, and a West High graduate, class of 1945, Susie has made great strides since her inauspicious beginning many years ago in Hilltop Minstrel Shows.

Her first big musical opportunity came in 1947 when she made her debut with the Columbus Philharmonic orchestra. Until that time and after graduation, Susie busied herself with a 7 a. m. daily radio program over WBNS and various local engagements.

But dreams of a real career made her restless, and in 1947 she left for New York, where she was auditioned for a singing role in a New York Radio City Music Hall ensemble. There she remained until a friend mentioned her for a part in Brigadoon and she signed a contract.

Susie's success in Columbus is what every understudy dreams of—to take a leading role. And for Susie to get this chance in Columbus, her own home town. It was even better than she had ever imagined.

The pretty Hilltop girl is ideally suited for musical comedy. She looks the part. She is tall, about 5 feet, 7 inches, and is not dwarfed on stage. She weighs about 130 pounds and has a 23½ inch waist. Susie has green eyes and, until lately, dark brown hair. "Meg", her Brigadoon role, required a blonde, so Susie, obligingly, now has light-colored tresses.

Naturally, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Johnson are quite proud of their daughter's success. They were especially pleased when she chose to stay with them in their three-room flat, at 2422½ W. Broad-st, rather than the suites of rooms offered her by the Deshler-Wallick and Virginia Hotels.

VFW to Celebrate 50th Anniversary Next Month

Next month will mark the 50th anniversary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. It is not generally known that this national organization was founded here in Columbus in 1899.

That year, 50 years ago, a group of foreign service veterans met in a tailor shop on E. Main-st, near Sixth-st, and originated the movement that was later to include nearly every city in the United States.

In the year 1913 this group consolidated with the Colorado Society of the Army of the Philippines, to form the present organization. They received their national charter, under the name of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in 1936.

On Apr. 3 Columbus and the Hilltop will begin celebration of the Golden Jubilee Week. A banquet is planned for Apr. 5 and a parade will be held Apr. 6.

On Mar. 18 there will be an open meeting at Westway Post for all veterans and their friends.

State Hospital May Buy Big Television Set

Patients of the Columbus State Hospital may get a treat in store for them, if the wishes of Dr. J. F. Bateman are carried out.

Plans are being made for the purchase of what may be the largest television set in Columbus. Dr. Bateman has spoken to several dealers in hopes of getting a set with a 9ft. by 11 ft screen.

He reports that nothing definite will be done until after Mar. 27, the scheduled opening date of television in Columbus.

Cost of the proposed set would be approximately $2395, Dr. Bateman advised. "The increase in morale of the patients would more than compensate for the cost of the set," he added.

20th Minstrel Is Lauded

Following is a letter received by Philip V. Stout, president of the Hilltop Business Association, from Harold R. Boyer, 249 W. Rathbone-rd, resident of another community, who recently enjoyed the 20th annual Hilltop Minstrel.

"I had the opportunity to attend your presentation of the Twentieth Annual Hilltop Minstrel Show last Thursday night, the 24th. This is the first of these that I have attended.

"It is a pleasure to extend to you my reaction to this show. In my opinion, and without exception, it is the most outstanding local talent event which I have ever witnessed. Your selection of acts was well balanced, you started the show on time, and your two hours and 35 minutes of action was very ably directed.

"I certainly hope that this event continues in future years, and you may be assured that I will make it a point to attend next year also."

TEST YOUR I. Q.

2. To what dates does the abbreviation O. S. refer?

A Scot held the winning ticket on the raffle of a new car, but a friend found him glum.

"What's the matter, Jock?"

"'Tis this second ticket. Why I ever bought it I canna imagine."

The train for n'Orleans had just pulled out of St. Louis and the passengers had just settled back for the trip. A handsomely tall man in the Suth'n Cuh'nel tradition entered the club car and with great dignity raised his voice and asked: "Is theah a gentleman from Shelby County, Tennessee, present?"

One man stood up. "Ah'm a native of that county, suh!"

"Fine!" beamed the first man. "Ah wondah if Ah might borrow yoah sweetheart for a minute, suh?"

Here's a reminder-rhyme for kite-flying time from the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce:

Near the street Tom was flying his kite,
But he couldn't gain very much height;
So he ran out too far—
So close to a car
That the driver and Tom shook with fright!

And remember, sometimes it turns out much worse than that! Youngsters, watch out for the cars! Motorists, watch out for the kids!

Vocational Survey Shows Probable Careers of Students

By Myron T. Seifert

Five hundred and forty-nine West Senior High School students enrolled in 11A, 12B and 12A classes, indicated their probable future careers last week in a vocational survey conducted by George F. Neeb, guidance supervisor, Principal I. F. Young said today.

Purpose of the occupational project is to ascertain the range of interests among the upper classmen and to provide data for the administration of a vocational clinic to be conducted at West High School, along with other Columbus High Schools, in the near future, Mr. Neeb advised.

Each student placed a checkmark, on a mimeographed information sheet listing 126 occupations, of three occupations or fields of work about which he would like more information. Arrangements will later be made whereby people engaged in various areas of work will be brought to the school for discussions.

"It is hoped that each interested student will be able to participate in several of these meetings," Mr. Neeb said.

Forty-three of the occupations cited merited 10 or more votes. Stenography led the field with a tabulation of 73, all of whom were girls; 70 girls and two boys stated a preference as typists.

With an eye to the future 47 girls list an interest in airline work, as stewardesses. Sixteen boys and four girls are interested in piloting.

Two score are looking forward to direct selling of merchandise. Thirty would like to enter retail merchandising and 10 have chosen wholesale fields. In addition eight boys and 11 girls would like to become buyers of merchandise for a merchantile establishment.

Fifty-one listed an interest in nursing. Fourteen registered their preference for practical nursing and 37 were interested in requirements for registered nurses.

The fourth estate holds interest for many. Twenty-five boys and five girls said they would like more information in this field, both from the management and editorial phase of the work. Reporting interested 15 and public relations was listed by a few.

Girls and boys were equally divided in the advertising world, with newspaper, radio and television mediums.

Professional musicians, either in popular, classical or religious catagories, were listed by 30 students as a probable vocation.

Twenty were interested in medicine and several listed optometry, dentistry, physical therapy, osteopathy, psychology and pharmacy as areas of interest.

The legal profession attracted 14 boys and three girls.

Thirty-seven were interested in the teaching profession.

The engineering field elicited response among 34 boys. Six chose chemical engineering; eight showed an interest in electronics; nine in civil engineering; six in electrical and five in mechanical.

Twenty-one boys and one girl stated a preference for professional athletics.

The careers of architects and draftsmen attracted 33 students, 13 of whom wished to learn about the designing profession, and 20 in the blue-print area.

Twenty students envisioned the world of art as a probable area of work.

Social work, including the ministry, held top interest for seven boys and 21 girls.

In the girls' world 21 desired information about cosmetology, 22 were interested in home economy and 31 in the field of interior decorating.

Radio and television commanded the interest of 40. More specifically, 12 expressed a liking for announcing, 11 for radio technique and 17 as specialists in television.

Trades were many and varied. Ten were interested in carpentry; 31 in the area of auto mechanics, a dozen in photography 15, all of whom were girls in office machine routine.

More about army and navy life was suggested by 42, including five girls who were interested in the navy.

Natural history, in the form of wild-life management, was suggested as probable careers of 17 boys and 3 girls.

Surprisingly enough nine girls and five boys want to know more about embalming as a profession, and four boys have an interest in funeral directing.

Easy Recipes For Good Cooking

By HELEN HALE

TO make a coconut crunch topping for a quick coffee cake, combine 1 cup shredded coconut, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon cinnamon and ¼ cup cream or top milk. Mix well and spread evenly over batter.

For a sugary crust on top of pie, brush the top of the pastry with milk, then sprinkle lightly with granulated sugar before baking.

Glazed effects on pies are easy to achieve if you brush the top crust with egg or egg yolk mixed with a little water.

For a deep brown crust on pie, add ½ teaspoon of sugar to egg before brushing the glaze on the pie.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Chocolate Souffle
(Serves 4-6)
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
¾ cup milk
1½ squares chocolate
2 tablespoons hot water
½ cup sugar
3 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla

Melt butter, blend in flour, and add milk. Stir and cook until smooth. Melt chocolate, add water and sugar, stirring constantly. Combine sauce and chocolate mixtures; add well-beaten egg yolks; cool. Fold in egg whites and vanilla. Turn into buttered baking dish and bake 25 minutes in a moderate (350° F.) oven. Serve with whipped cream to which crushed peppermint candy has been added, if desired.

Always drain and rinse macaroni foods after they have been cooked tender. If you're using them in a hot dish, use hot water for rinsing. If using them in a salad, rinse with cold water.

Keep cut onions and lemon in a covered glass jar in the refrigerator so they will not waste.

Use cream in place of milk and butter for making mashed potatoes. It's less expensive and just as good.

In making fruit mixtures for dessert, place grapefruit, pineapple and oranges over peaches, bananas and apples to keep the latter from turning dark before using.

To peel potatoes quickly, slice skin off one side, then cook whole in boiling water. When done, the rest of the jacket slips off in a jiffy.

"Do you know who's in the hospital?"

"No. Who?"

"Sick people."

"The doctor advised me to take iron for my nerves."

"How did you make out?"

"Well, I took it. Now I'm a man of mettle."

Being the First In A Series of Anecdotes About the Early Hilltop

EDITOR'S NOTE: We are attempting to resurrect and preserve anecdotes and stories of interest about the Hilltop. Believing that there is much interest in local history, we have done much research to bring to our readers the story of the community in which you live. We invite contributions. Perhaps you may have in your possession some documents, letters, papers, heirlooms, etc., that would be worth knowing about and that you might wish to share with your Hilltop neighbors; if so, let's hear about it.

Below is the first of a series of Hilltop's most extensive landowners and realtors.

Hilltop, a community numbering 40,000 was not always so densely populated.

There was a time when all land in this area 150 years ago was owned primarily by one family—the Sullivants.

Your abstract of title, which you hold as evidence of land ownership, perhaps begins with the Sullivant grant, as original equity holders.

The name Sullivant is a familiar one today to Hilltoppers since one of the two most important thoroughfares, Sullivant-av, spans this section.

Lucas Sullivant, founder of neighboring Franklinton, had three sons, two of whom had a far-reaching influence in laying the foundations for the present Hilltop community.

The names of Sullivant's sons were William Starling Sullivant, eldest of the three, and Michael second son of the founder of Franklinton.

William Sullivant built a beautiful country home on the site now occupied by the Columbus State Hospital; and Michael had many farming interests, including his extensive acreage on the territory now called the Hilltop.

Hilltop motorists traveling downtown via route 40 as they pass the institution grounds, and gaze eastward, get a glimpse of the territory which the Sullivants had in their possession.

The Ohio State Journal, June 29, 1854 edition said this about William Sullivant's farm: "Extensive Corn Field"—The beautiful farm belonging to William S. Sullivant, Esq., containing 1200 acres, adjoining the town of Franklinton, has been rented to Messrs. Dixon, Merrick and Stitt of this city, and from the manner in which it had been worked this season they may well claim to be classed among the model farmers of the day. Notwithstanding the continued wet weather about planting time, they succeeded in putting in six hundred acres of corn, and by constant care and attention, they can show the tallest corn in the neighborhood. Fifteen shovel plows and three cultivators worked by eighteen men and twenty-five horses, are kept in constant requisition; and the result is that scarcely a weed can be seen in well-plowed furrows.

Twenty-five German girls follow the plows and do the hoeing, for which they receive 62½ cents per day.

The men receive $20 a month. The view from the mound upon which the "log cabin" stands, is exceedingly beautiful. Far as the eye can reach, as you look down towards the "sunny banks" of the Scioto the summer breezes stir the waving corn; and as you dwell upon this picture, you may fancy in your "mind's eye" the sort of fields they have."

William Starling Sullivant, who was born in Franklinton in 1803, became a great scientist, and at the time of his death, in 1873, enjoyed a world-wide reputation.

A graduate of Yale, in 1823, he later became identified with his father in the latter's extensive business interests.

Influenced by his surroundings at his beautiful country home, and by the tastes of his younger brother, Joseph, he took up the study of botany and later devoted himself to the muscological branch of this science, a field of investigation in which he rose to distinction. Agassi, Gray, Dana and Leo Lesquereux were his friends and collaborators.

He published a number of volumes on plant life, which were accepted as authoritative by the scientific world both in America and in Europe. His works were elaborately illustrated with microscopic drawings, executed by a skilled draftsman brought from abroad. The expense amounted in some instances, to thousands of dollars, and were paid by Mr. Sullivant, without hope of pecuniary return.

His botanical associates bestowed the name of "Sullivantia Ohionis" upon a rare plant which he discovered on the banks of the river near his birthplace and farm.

Mr. Sullivant pursued his studies both at home and abroad, and was elected to membership in the scientific societies to various countries. At his death tributes were paid his memory by the most eminent botanists of his time.

His collections now enrich the museums of several American colleges. He had several children: Mrs. Robert E. Neil, Mrs. A. D. Rodgers, Mrs. F. C. Gersh, Roderick and Jacob Sullivant, and Thomas Sullivant, a hen well-known artist and caricaturist of Philadelphia, whose creations appeared in Life, Puck and other publications. Colonel Lynn Rodgers, private secretary to Governor Bushnell, was a representative of the fourth generation.

Michael Sullivant, second son of the founder of Franklinton, was born at the family homestead, at Sandusky and Broad, in 1807. After leaving college, he chose agriculture as an occupation.

He exercised a beneficent influence upon farming on the Hilltop site by importing and improving stock, and interesting the state authorities in agriculture of intelligent methods.

Reaping wheat, via Michael Sullivant's method, attracted universal attention.

The Ohio State Journal of July 1, 1853, commented on the "New Sullivant Method" in glowing terms. The editor said this:

"A fine opportunity is open to our citizens, and to strangers in Columbus, to witness the more improved methods of reaping wheat by horse power, instead of by hand, as formerly. Three different kinds of reaping machines are in full operation cutting the wheat in Mr. M. L. Sullivant's wheat field, half a mile west of Columbus, on the National Road. Mr. Sullivant has 250 acres of wheat to cut, and is reaping it all by machinery. We live in an age of invention and improvement. Each year adds new and valuable improvement in these machines.

"The great public trial of reaping and mowing machines, under the authority of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture, will take place at Wooster, in Wayne County, (July 6 and 7) at which many different, perhaps all the kinds of these machines, will compete for the premiums offered, and for the patronage of the farmers of Ohio.

"In 1854 he moved to Illinois, where he became a noted figure as the proprietor of the largest farm in the world, known as Bur Oaks, and consisting of 40,000 acres.

"In 1872 he cultivated 15,000 acres of corn, with oats and hay in proportionate quantities. He took a visitor for a ride of 20 miles through his cornfields.

"The farm was stocked with a great herd of the fine blooded horses and cattle, and furnished employment for 300 hands."

He died aboard an Ohio River steamboat between Evansville and Owensboro in 1877. His descendants were Joseph M. Sul-

Q. How good is television sound?

A. Television sound is FM (Frequency Modulation). It means virtually static-free reception—startlingly realistic.

READY for you to take over, —SON!
Yes . . . ready and waiting for stronger hands to take over the heavy tasks which the older folk have carried through the long years of war. . . . Everything is in good shape. Dad has seen to that. The fine heritage created by his own labour and prudence is protected, too, by a SUN LIFE insurance policy which will, should he die, take care of the mortgage and any indebtedness normal to good farming operations. . . . Yes, Dad made a good job of planning for the well-being and security of his family in generations to come.

Hilltopper In Charge of "1949 California Gold Rush" of Achbar Grotto

When members of Achbar Grotto shove off for Long Beach Calif. on June 14 to attend the Supreme Council Sessions the tour will be guided by Hilltopper Dave Cornwell, 356 S. Roys-av.

In view of the fact that this is the 100th anniversary of the California Gold Rush, Dave has been named to help in the official headquarters at Long Beach.

Dave was editor of the local Grotto publication until February at which time he was placed in full charge of the convention tours this year and he immediately went to work on the trip with the idea that no member of the Grotto wanted to go so far west just to attend a convention so he arranged a tour that makes a really comprehensive trip through the west from Mexico to Canada, with stops on the way going and coming from the convention to see as much as possible.

Cornwell plans his tour via first class pullman all the way with no change of cars between Columbus and Los Angeles and between Los Angeles and Columbus on the return trip up through Canada, except for the boat trip through Puget Sound to Vancouver, B. C., with a stop at Victoria, B. C.

Dave said that he could arrange to take along any member of the Masonic Order who cared to go even if he should not now be a member of the Grotto. This could be done by arranging for his initiation in the class to be held at the Masonic Temple just prior to the tour. Should any eligible person want to go along he should contact Dave at Ra. 8879.

This tour is not limited to Prophets of the Grotto only but includes their families and any close relatives as well as the families of former Grotto members who have since died.

Among the many stunts being planned are a special showing or program of "Bride and Groom" when a Prophet of the Grotto and his girl are married before a huge audience and given the usual send off by the sponsors of this program.

Trips through studios are planned and arrangements are being made to get the Columbus party in to the Republic studios to see Roy Rogers and Dale Evans and witness work on one of Roy's pictures

To cap the climax Dave will be in charge of the trip to Erie, Pa., for the State Grotto Convention. He will take a large group on to Niagara Falls, some of whom will return to Columbus from there and the rest go on to New York City via Albany and a boat ride down the Hudson River, then on to Philadelphia and Washington, D. C. before coming back home.

Hilltopana

livant, an extensive farmer of Skiddy, Kan.; Michael Sullivant, a manufacturer of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. E. L. Davidson of Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. W. S. Hopkins of Columbus; Mrs. John Beard and Miss Fanny Sullivant of Pensacola, Fla.

Then in November, 1853, Michael decided to dispose of his "Hilltop" holdings and advertised his extensive interests thus:

"More land for sale—I now offer for the first time all my real estate in Ohio including my home farm containing five thousand acres, west of and adjoining the City of Columbus, and extending west to the five mile stone on the National Road. Said farm is capable of being sub-divided to advantage into farms of fifty acres or more, having much of it fine durable running water springs, timber and cleared land, the soil of the best Scioto bottom and upland.

"Also on both sides of the National Road and Columbus and Xenia Railroad, between the five and six and a half mile stone, about two hundred acres. It can be sub-divided into convenient farm lots of any size.

"Also, twenty-three hundred acres on Big Darby, the geographical county of which is about two miles from the Columbus and Xenia Railroad. The nearest points within one hundred rods of the National Road, and ten and a half miles west from Columbus. It is washed from three miles on its western boundary by Big Darby, a fine, bold mill stream having forty feet fall from its upper to its lower corner, having fine sites for mills and manufactories. It is covered with a fine growth of splendid white oak, burr oak, black walnut, blue ash, hickory, elm, and etc. The soil is mostly fine first rate upland. The timber will pay thirty dollars per acre clear of expenses of manufacturing and sale with ordinary management. I will sell none less than the whole tract. Price twenty dollars per acre, one half in hand, balance in one year, with interest from date of sale.

"Also tract of two thousand acres in Brown Township, twelve miles northwest from Columbus, Piqua and Indiana Railroad. The soil is extraordinary. The timber is worth thirty dollars per acre, clear of expense of manufacturing and sale. It is surrounded on all sides by finely improved farms. Price twenty dollars per acre, as above. I wish to sell that tract entire. I expect to erect thereon, and have in operation a good saw mill, by first of December next.

"Also divers and sundry patches in different parts of the country, in tracts of two, three, and four hundred acres each. Some choice places for fifteen dollars per acre.

"Also, one thousands acres in Logan County, on Rush Creek, a never failing, spring stream, running its entire length, three-fourths of a mile south of the Big Spring Station, on the Marion and Bellefontaine Roalroad. Soil extra. Timber tolerable. Price twenty dollars per acre.

"Also, six hundred acres, opposite, and only separated by the Scioto River from Kenton, the flourishing county seat of Hardin County. Price twenty dollars per acre.

"The above are the largest tracts I have not yet sold. I have also several thousand acres in smaller tracts, too tedious to describe, in different parts of Logan and Hardin counties.

"I am willing and desirous to sell all or any on reasonable terms and time. Land buyers will do well to give me a call at my office in Franklinton, one mile west from the State House, Columbus, Ohio, where I can give particulars, and, if necessary send a man to show the land.

"The land near Columbus will be sold in the city lots and outlots to suit buyers."

"Farmer Brown, I can't come out to see you any more."

"Why, what's the matter doctor?"

"Why, every single time I come out, your ducks insult me."

"My doctor tells me I can't play golf."

"So he's played with you, too."

Dale Carnegie

"HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE" Author of

DO YOU enjoy making someone else happier? Well, I know the answer to that one. If you make someone else happy, deliberately, you will enjoy the aftermath, as surely as the night follows the day.

D. Carnegie

Carl P. West of Decatur, Ga., relates an incident that he says was truly tragic, though many might call it a minor happening. He tells of a stenographer with a record of 35 years of faithful service who asked her boss why she didn't get a raise in salary. The younger girls were getting raises regularly with very little effort on their part. She was producing twice the work of any one of them, yet, no increase for her. Why?

Her boss took the easiest way out and said, "We can get anyone off the street at $35 per week to do your work; why pay you more!"

Thirty-five years of faithful service and no one appreciated her efforts, her knowledge of the work. Life for her seemed unbearable.

Mr. West was a witness to this unfortunate incident and his sympathy was all for the woman. A few days later he had an urgent job which would have to be done completely over and which it would seem would require a good two days' of time. He went to the above mentioned stenographer with his problem and she suggested a way that would enable them to get the work out within a couple of hours.

Upon completion of the work, he praised the stenographer not only for what she had done but for her service to the company over the years. He pointed out that they would have been lost without her help on this job.

He had no more than got back into his office, when she appeared. She said, "Mr. West, I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for what you said a few minutes ago." Mr. West asked, "Why?" Then added, "I didn't say anything you didn't deserve."

"But," she said, "you gave me all the credit and you praised me in front of my boss. I know after what you said, that he will not only think me worth more, but he will feel that I am more valuable than someone he could call in from the street. You have given me a new lease on life—and I am so happy."

Mr. West says that he was happier, too, for days after that.

Is there someone whose life you can touch as easily, and be happier because you do? Try it.

Eventful Date

"Could you tell me the date of a traffic accident at the corner of Fifteenth and Denver some time during February?" an anxious feminine voice inquired of the police department.

After much digging through the files an obliging officer was able to report to the troubled woman that the accident happened Feb. 24.

"Now what else do you want to know about the accident?" asked the obliging officer.

"That's all," replied the troubled woman. "That's the day my cat got out and now I know when to expect her kittens."

Deseret Orchestra To Entertain West High Students March 18

By Myron T. Seidel

What promises to be an unusual treat for West High students will be a musical performance by the Deseret Orchestra, composed of 14 ordained ministers of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, who will present their program on West High stage Friday, Mar. 18.

In the city for a convention, Mar. 18, 19 and 20, the "Elders" were "booked" by West High on the first day of their visit to Columbus, and will be the only Columbus high school where they will appear, Irvin F. Young, principal, said.

The 14 ministers voluntarily gave two years of full time work to the church at their own expense.

Deseret is a Book of Mormon name meaning honey and bee and because of its symbol of industry and frugality, has been adopted by the orchestra.

It characterizes the activities of more than 5000 missionaries now in 42 missions throughout the world. These orchestra members are a representative group.

The name Deseret was adopted by the early church members as the name of their state. Under Brigham Young's leadership the people learned to work together. They endured many hardships, overcame great difficulties in barren lands.

The industry and energy of those early pioneers, as characterized by the bee-hive, was inspired by the Book of Mormon. This book of Mormon contains within its pages a divinely inspired account of Jesus Christ's personal ministry to the early inhabitants of this Western Hemisphere.

Through revelation given to this modern prophet, Christ's Church was re-established upon the earth. Also through prophetic revelation people in this day and age have received added truths concerning healthful living, the development of effective youth programs, and a cooperative welfare program to insure its members against want.

As the crowning social event of the recreational program, "Gold and Green Balls" are held in each church division. To make possible these fine dances throughout the mission the Deseret Orchestra was organized. It plays free of charge and each member pays his own traveling expenses.

Hoge Takes Win From 'Y' All-Stars

By Dave Miller

Hoge Memorial, champions of the Hilltop "Y" basketball league and runner-up in the West Church Intermediate loop, copped another win Monday evening, by trouncing the Hilltop "Y" basketball loop All-Stars, 37-29, at John Burroughs gym.

The Ben Lewis five, one of the better organized church teams, were never in the ball game until midway of the third period when they pulled away on Bob Birle's push-shot, and from there on held their opposition to only three fielders as they got 19 points themselves.

Hoge was never in the lead from the beginning until the third period. Warren Stephans sank a goal and a free toss while Ray Bostic hit a charity toss as compared to Dick Holycross' fielder to give the All-Stars a 4-2 first quarter lead.

In the second period, the All-Stars kept adding to the lead and held a 14-9 halftime edge. However, Bob Birle, Dick Wolfe and Dick Holycross began hitting and Hoge was on its way to another victory. In the fourth period, the ultimate winners led all the way and the lead was never in doubt from there on.

Dick Holycross and Dick Wolfe paved the way for the winners, each getting 10 tallies. Warren Stephans of the All-Stars and Barry Emerich of Hoge were second with eight. Bob Birle played a nice game under the bucket for the winners, racking through seven points. The surprising thing of the game was that Ed Sensenbrenner, high scoring center for Hoge, was held basketless the whole game.

In a preliminary game, the remainder of the players in the Community league played a Red-White game in which the latter won out, 25-16. Gene Thompson of the winners had 10 followed by teammate Charles Hunter and Ray Richardson of the losers with six.

Tony Borowski of Ohio State Construction had the best three game total, 590.

Demers added two games to their first place standings in the K of C League as they took all three from Westgate Roofing while Franklin Monument was beating second place Finneran and Fischer two games, including a tie middle game. Al Tankovich's 241-589 and Krause and Pagura 1030 (192 H. C.)-2983 (576 H. C.) were the tops for the evening.

Outside of the Thursday night Hilltop Ladies' League the women found the pins just a little too tough. Six women, all from different teams, broke the 500 mark with Margie Wharton taking the lead with 200-549. Sarah Winnestaffer came close with 548. Jerry Hausfield had 523, Julia Friend 514, Kay Kuntz 568, and Ruth Perry 504.

One little note of interest is the fact that not only is Eddie Harold a good bowler but also a good teacher. It seems he has acquired a pupil in Louann Reeves and since that time this young lady has added 30 pins to her average. Nice going, Ed.

All you mixed tournament fans had better shine your shoes because the fifth annual mixed doubles tournament will open Apr. 9 to 24 at the Hilltop Lanes. More about this next week.

Libby Downing, former employee of the Record, had three games of 116 Sunday night in the Twilight Mixed League.

All-Star Cage Players Revealed

By Dave Miller

Salvation Army, West Church Intermediate League crown winners and Hoge Memorial dominate the All-Star team of the league selected by the coaches of the respective teams last Tuesday evening at Glenwood.

The loop winners have the honor of having Forward Bill Fisher and Guard Gene Morgan on the All-Star team. Morgan, a mid-year graduate at Central this past year, and a member of the Central cage team until that time, was the only player unanimously voted to the All-Star squad.

Fisher, the other all-star member from the pace-setters, is second in the league in scoring while Morgan, even though he stopped basketball activities at mid-year, is still the fourth scoring leader of the loop.

The coaches were asked to vote for a team of five players. The coaches are Ben Lewis, Hoge; Jim Ryan, Salvation Army; Ralph Watts, Westgate; Jim Wise, Glenwood; Dick Koontz, St. Aloysius; Bill Kelley of West Park. The other selector was scorekeeper George Hardy while Riverside and North Congregational failed to announce their selections.

In addition to Salvation Army's two first team point-getters, they were also represented by forward Don Shaeffer with two votes. Bob Wilson, sharp-shooting guard of Hoge Memorial's runner-up team missed one vote of being unanimous. His teammate, center, Eddie Sensenbrenner made the first team with four votes. The other player on the first team is Glenwood's dead-eye Jim Burke, who collected four votes. Bob Elliott of Riverside, who leads the league in scoring, failed to get one vote. Glenwood had three in all; West Park, one; Westgate, two and Riverside and St. Aloysius failed to land a player.

Purchase New Projector For School

Starling has purchased a new strip film machine for classroom use. The new type movie machine can be used in either a darkened or lighted room, and pictures can be held on the screen separately for 10 minutes, which is not possible with ordinary movie machines.

To date 58 films have been purchased to begin a permanent film library. Part of this money was furnished by the sale of tax stamps collected by the boys and girls. The PTA has voted additional funds for the purchase of more films.

NEW LIGHTS

New fluorescent lights have been installed in Room 13. The three rows of lights have been placed 12 feet abcve the heads of the pupils, and will provide good light on the cloudiest days. They replace the old type spray lights that were used for many years.

GE Has Large Television Line

The exclusive General Electric dealer on the Hilltop, the Robinson Electric Co., will have a total of 11 General Electric television sets for consumer selection.

Prices will range from $325 to $1,470, plus federal excise tax and installation charges.

Models range from table sets to large floor model consoles. One of the most complete sets is General Electric model 802, which includes radio, an automatic record player, television, and record storing space. Some of the special features of this larger set are low power consumption, natural clarity of pictures, virtual elimination of interference, safe operation, a 12-inch dynapower speaker and dual control.

The owner of this model can receive any commercial television broadcast within his area.

If the owner moves to another city no further adjustments by the dealer are necessary, because this television receiver is equipped to pick up all commercial television stations within range.

One of the less expensive floor models is the No. 811. Size of the screen is 52 square inches. This model does not include radio or phonograph.

All General Electric television sets have the GE automatic clarifier, an automatic stabilization circuit, which automatically controls picture synchronization. By this means sharp, clear pictures are made possible. Sharpness is enhanced, due to the reduction of the effects of disturbance sometimes caused by passing automobiles or unfiltered disturbing electrical appliances.

Other GE models differ in size of screen and other features, according to price.

Nation-Wide Television Seen In 1950

Television networks on the east coast and in the middle west are already in operation. Jan. 12, the two networks were linked and within another year coast to coast hookups will be possible. The Bell Telephone Company now has 3,400 miles of intercity television network channels and expects to triple that figure during the next two years, not only by expanding their lines to the west coast, but by connecting cities lying adjacent to these routes with the direct channels.

It may be several years before television networks similar to today's numerous networks of radio stations, especially reaching into the smaller or rural communities, will be in operation. In view of high transmission charges, many network programs for some time will include a large amount of kineoscope films.

Many in the industry believe that the coming year will find an ever increasing demand for television sets even with the industry's more than doubling of production.

Admiral did not enter the television field with the technique of mass production until February of 1948. Yet with this comparatively recent start they have achieved a rate of 20,000 sets monthly. Production will be stepped up to approximately 400,000 units later in 1949.

Estimates on the number of television sets now in operation throughout the country vary with the figures as of Dec. 1, ranging from 675,000 to 725,000. The disparity stems from the fact that some estimates are based on estimated receivers in operation against those still in process of distribution. Current production is about 95,000 sets a month. Six months ago the rate was slightly over half that.

Cincinnati Now Has 17,000 Television Sets

CINCINNATI — Television set installations in the WLW-T viewing area reached 17,079 on Mar. 1, a survey by the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation disclosed today.

Don Miller, research director, said the figure represents an increase of 2,061 sets in the month of February.

Private home installations now total 15,326 and those in public places total 1,753. The distribution is 89.8 per cent in homes and 10.2 per cent in public places.

A WLW-T program, televised on channel 4, will be picked up by a special television antenna mounted on the WLW-D tower. That signal will go by coaxial cable into a modified receiver in the WLW-D transmitter building. From there it will go to a microwave transmitter and then to an eight-foot microwave antenna set up near the tower. This antenna focuses the signal in a sharp beam directed up the tower, much in the manner of a searchlight beam.

On the tower, a perforated metal screen measuring 8 by 12 feet will literally "bounce" the signal out into the air—aimed at Mechanicsburg, site of a second relay setup. The relay signal is sent at a very high frequency, about 30 times that of an ordinary television signal.

At Mechanicsburg, the signal hits another screen at an angle of 45 degrees, bounces to the ground into a microwave antenna, and then goes by cable through receiver and transmitter equipment inside the transmitter building.

Zenith Easily Adapted To New Channels

A new and important feature of Zenith television sets is their adaptability to new channels, which consumers should watch when buying sets.

The assignment of television broadcasters to new channels in the ultra-high frequencies is virtually certain to begin very soon.

In other words, many television stations will be broadcasting on channels which cannot be tuned by ordinary receivers such as are now on the market.

Zenith television can be quickly converted to tune stations in these new ultra-high frequency channels, and also stations in the present channels, simply by changing tuning strips in the Bull's Eye Tuner mechanism, a change that can be made quickly, easily and inexpensively by any qualified service man.

Zenith Television will not become obsolete when stations begin operating on the new channels. With Zenith Television, it will still be possible to tune all stations within range, regardless of their channel assignments.

Television In 1949 To Be Major Industry

Television in 1949 will pass many other industries on its way up to one of the top 10 industries of this country which experts predict will have taken place within at least five years when the television business will represent a five billion dollar expenditure. Production for the industry will be more than doubled in 1949 with an estimated 2,000,000 television receivers being produced as against 800,000 for 1948. Even this enlarged production of video units could be increased if the shortage of cathode ray tubes and many component parts would be alleviated. There is some possibility for this during the last half of 1949.

This estimate on the production of video sets for the coming year is based on reports from fewer than 25 television set makers now accounting for 98 percent of this country's total production of video units.

Prospects are unlikely for a material increase to the number of video set manufacturers. To be competitive in price the television industry a manufacturer must have mass production. He also must have an adequate source of vital component parts and raw materials, which in most cases are only available on a quota basis to companies that have been in the electronics industry since before the war.

Entry into the television market is much different than it was years ago in the radio manufacturing industry when all one needed were some parts, a few small tools and a skill to put things together. For instance, back in 1934 the forerunner of the present Admiral Corporation was started in the radio business on a capital of $3,400 and a tooling cost of less than $1,000. To become a television manufacturer was a different story. Over a million dollars was spent on special testing and electronic equipment before Admiral stepped into television with its technique of mass production in February of 1948. In less than a year's time Admiral has become one of the nation's top three producers. Admiral is currently producing 80,000 sets monthly—one out of every five sets made. Production will be stepped up to approximately 600,000 units in 1949.

GRAVES CHAIN-LINK FENCES PROTECT LIVES

MOTHERS FEEL safer when their young children are at play in yards which are protected by strong Graves Chain-Link fences, such as pictured.

Now is the time to place your order with the F. E. Graves & Co. for that chain-link fence which you have been planning for spring.

Soon the youngsters will be spending more and more time in the yard. You'll feel much safer if they are protected by a Graves Chain-Link fence. These sturdy fences keep them safe from traffic, animals and other dangers which they face when they're on their own.

These fences also protect your property against trespassers. A well fenced yard is a beautiful addition to any property. It reflects tidiness and security.

The F. E. Graves & Co., 185 McDowell-st, are in a position to immediately erect such a fence. These quality fences were not available for residential installation during the war years.

A Graves Chain-Link fence erected today will still provide adequate protection to your property 20 years from now. They are sturdy and lasting because only the highest quality of material and workmanship go into the making of them. Graves' crews are skilled in erecting them.

Graves Chain-Link fences come in various heights and gate sizes. There is one to fit your needs and at the price you want to pay. For complete details and free estimates of cost, call Graves at AD. 5700.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR MARCH 20

Jesus, the Teacher, Combined Guidance With Experience

JESUS was a great Teacher, though He conducted no school in the ordinary sense of that word.

A famous adage described the ideal college as a log with Mark Hopkins, eminent college president, at one end and a student at the other. That conception would be very inadequate in our day of great scientific laboratories and observatories, equipped with expensive equipment. But it stressed a necessary quality of all true education, no matter on what a scale, or how complicated it becomes. That is the fact that knowledge must become personalized.

The school of Jesus had that basic quality. It was mostly a school in the out-of-doors, a school of companionship and personal contacts, a school in which the Teacher taught by constant example and in which He encouraged every success in emulating that example. It was a school, too, in which the Teacher had infinite patience, as every true teacher must have.

But it was a school of strict discipline and high standards as well. Poor pupils, even in a good school, may be content just to pass or "get by," but Jesus had called His disciples for high purposes. They needed training. The late Dr. A. B. Bruce, an eminent Scottish churchman, wrote a book on what he called "The Training of the Twelve."

What was the teaching and training that the Twelve received from Jesus? I have said that it was teaching and training by example. Jesus said, first of all, "Follow me." He said "Go," only when He had shown the way.

The school of Jesus was like some of the schools of today in which knowledge and guidance are combined with experience and practice. Jesus sent the disciples in His school out into the villages, two by two, to practice what they had learned, and to proclaim what they had heard.

A good school is judged by its results and its product. What a school, then, was that of Jesus, in which humble men became Apostles and spiritual world conquerors!

Prepare To Take Scholarship Tests

By Myron T. Seifert

Many West High students are making preparations to participate in the district scholarship tests, Principal Irvin F. Young said this week.

Preliminary tests will be held at West Friday, Apr. 8. The tests are open to high scholastic students in each class in the subject in which tests are being given. Students may take two tests at this time, Mr. Young said.

Finals in the testing program will be held at Ohio State University Saturday, May 7, where West High may enter three students in each subject. A student is eligible to take only one test in this final competitive test.

Tests will be offered in the following subjects: biology, chemistry, physics, advanced algebra, plane geometry, American history, world history, problems of democracy, English, bookkeeping, Latin, French and Spanish.

Westinghouse Sets Have 3 New Features

One of the best features of Westinghouse television is its instant focus tuning control. Television pictures stay just right, even after rapid switching from channel to channel. This feature is found only on other more expensive sets.

Three chief features of Westinghouse television are automatic picture stabilization, full-frequency reception, and finer screen pictures.

The first feature, automatic picture stabilization, automatically controls frequency and virtually eliminates interference from local FM stations.

The second feature, full frequency reception, means utilizing the full television band widths. This brings a brighter and clearer picture.

The third feature, a finer screen, means a better and clearer television picture.

GM Wages To Take Cost Of Living Cut

General Motors employees will suffer a cut of $10 in their cost-of-living allowance, effective Mar. 1, it was revealed in the General Motors annual report recently.

This reduction is based on the two year agreement with unions, which states that the cost-of-living allowance will fluctuate with the price index of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The BLS consumers' price index for Jan. 15, made public on Feb. 25, was 170.9, compared with the BLS of 173.6 for Oct. 15. This drop resulted in a decrease of two cents per hour in the cost of living allowance for hourly-rate employees. A decrease from $40 to $30 for the quarterly period March through April was effective Mar. 1.

Union agreements incorporate the new wage formula under which all eligible employes received an increase of 11 cents per hour. Of this three cents represented the improvement factor for 1948, and eight cents the cost-of-living adjustment.

This adjustment was based on the consumers' price index of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics for 1940 and for April, 1948, and the average GM hourly wage rates of 1940 and the rates in effect in April, 1948.

Wages are subject to quarterly increase or reduction, depending on the movement of the consumers' price index, except that only five cents of the original eight-cent cost-of-living adjustment is subject to reduction.

The improvement factor for the second year calls for an additional three cents per hour to be added to the base rate of all eligible employes, starting May 29, 1948.

The report announced that employment in General Motors reached a peacetime record level of 380,329 during 1948 and payrolls totaled $1,283,885,090, a peacetime high exceeded only in two peak war production years.

Last year's peacetime employment, with wage and salary increases and a slight increase in the average number of hours worked per week by hourly-rate employes, resulted in a total pay roll exceeded only in the peak war production years 1943 and 1944, when employment was about 20 per cent above 1948, the report said.

The average number of GM hourly rate employees working in the United States last year was 269,056, slightly higher than the 268,479 in 1947. Their average weekly earnings in 1948 were $64.10, compared with $57.86 in 1947. Total hourly-rate pay rolls in the U. S. were $896,777,099 last year, compared with $807,730,919 during 1947.

The report stated that during 1948 GM hourly-rate employes in the United States worked an average of 38.9 hours per week, compared with 38.3 in 1947. It added that the average number of hours worked in 1948 would have been 40 or more except for absenteeism.

Hi-Y Boys Will Do Odd Jobs For World Youth Fund

Approximately 400 high school boys, members of the Hi-Y clubs in their respective schools, will cooperate in an EARN and GIVE campaign, Apr. 9.

This marks the third annual effort sponsored by the Hi-Y clubs of Columbus as part of a nationwide program to earn money for the World Youth Fund.

This money is used to help rebuild the more than 100 YMCA buildings that were destroyed during the war, and to help rehabilitate hundreds of YMCA workers.

On Saturday, Apr. 9 the Hi-Y boys will accept odd jobs in their communities. In the campaign last year boys carried out ashes, rolled lawns and raked leaves; took down storm sash, washed windows and put up screens; washed down walls and painted fences.

For their labors on that day they were able to turn in almost $400 which was sent immediately on its errand of mercy.

Folks in this community, who have odd jobs to be done, may call the office of West High School.

Leave your name and address and the type of job you want done, and one of the Hi-Y boys will be assigned to that job.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

Now is a good time to consider your lawn. I might mention before getting into this that there is no end to the various schools of thought regarding lawn treatment.

First let's think in terms of an old lawn where the turf is thin and full of weeds. Since weeds seem to thrive on any kind of soil and grasses will not, it is evident that the soil lacks fertility, so here is where we begin.

After the ground has dried out enough for working you can begin by thoroughly cleaning up the lawn area. Use a lawn broom and sweep heavily. This will leave the soil in a suitable condition to receive the seed. If the lawn is rough, level it up with a top dressing of good soil. Apply a good seed mixture sparingly, taking pains to sow mostly in the very thin spots. Best seeding results are obtained in the early fall. Now you are ready to apply a generous application of fertilizer. Whatever brand you use be sure to follow directions and make the application even.

The next step is to take the garden rake and by raking back and forth you can work the fertilizer into the soil and cover the seed. You are ready to water again. Keep plenty of moisture available until the seed has germinated and is growing well. I have omitted rolling. An explanation will be made later.

Hilltopper To Be In Oberlin Play

Ellen Dorn, daughter of Walter L. Dorn, 378 S. Chase-av, will be featured in a production of Goethe's Faust I, to be given Mar. 23-26 by the Oberlin College Dramatic Association.

Miss Dorn, a junior at Oberlin, is majoring in English literature.

Motorists, you must think for children on the street. Why? Because children don't always think for themselves. The Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, conducting a "Watch Out For Kids" campaign this month, urges you to drive watchfully and slow enough that you could stop in time to spare a child's life.

You'll find the best buys in the Record ads every week.

Two horses in Michigan, perhaps trying to use people-sense, ran head-on into each other and both were killed. But how to PEOPLE get hurt and killed? Usually, says the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce, by simply not using horse-sense and common carefulness in their everyday acts—at home and at work, while walking on the streets and while driving their cars.

How do people get hurt? In New York City a would-be passenger had his feelings hurt when a bus went right past him. He hailed a cab and caught up with the bus. But instead of handing over his fare, he pulled out a knife and stabbed the bus driver. But—the Safety Council of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce reminds you that most people are not bus drivers, and most people get hurt or killed through plain little acts of carelessness of thoughtlessness in their everyday activities. Most accidents are not odd accidents—they are costly and often painful events that can be prevented by consistent carefulness.

The Hilltop company carries a complete line of all household furnishings, including carpeting, appliances, furniture, stoves, radios and television. All living room furniture is custom built and West Hill Furniture has in stock Simmons, Haywood-Wakefield and Grand furnishings.

Mr. Schadler is a member of the Masons and the Hilltop Business Association.

Don Rice

One of the largest displays of television sets in the city is available to prospective buyers at Westgate Electric, 2655 W. Broad-st, according to Don Rice, manager of the store.

This firm now has 15 different models on display with direct picture screens ranging in size from seven inches to 16 inches as well as a large projection type television set. This large display represents a several thousand dollar investment.

Rice has spent considerable time making preparations for the advent of television by visiting the markets in Cincinnati, Cleveland and Dayton where television has been in operation for some time.

Westgate Electric has been in business on the Hilltop for the past 29 years.

They are featuring only nationally advertised and well-known lines of television including Westinghouse, Admiral, Zenith, Stromberg-Carlson and RCA Victor.

Don Rice is vice-president of the Columbus Electrical Dealers Association.

Can Have Confidence In Local Dealer

With the advent of television in Columbus all people living in the Hilltop area will do well to purchase their sets from a Hilltop dealer.

Television is a new field and anyone wanting to purchase a set and invest a large amount of money in a set wants to be certain that he is buying only reputable merchandise.

Hilltop dealers are selling only such reputable merchandise as Admiral, Westinghouse, Zenith, Stromberg-Carlson, RCA Victor, General Electric, Philco and Emerson, all well established and reliable manufacturers of quality tested merchandise.

Following the war there were 160 different firms manufacturing radios in the U. S. For the most part the quality of their products was of such a nature that very few of them stayed in business for long. Today a few "off-brand" sets are sold by chain stores and some large downtown firms. None of this type merchandise is sold by local Hilltop dealers.

Hilltop television dealers are cooperating in an effort to give satisfactory service in this new field. They point out that in buying a set from a local firm the purchaser has a personal contact with a neighbor who can be relied upon to make the service satisfactory.

Hilltop television dealers are open all day on Wednesday now and arrangements are being made to stay open for special demonstrations at the time actual programs go on the air. Details will be carried in announcements in the Record.

Expect Color Television In 10 Years

Commercial color broadcasts are at least five and more likely 10 to 15 years away, it was announced by the Admiral Corporation. In order to televise in color, every video station would have to change its equipment entirely. When color does come, it is practically assured that the set purchased today will be usable with the addition of a simple convertor.

If the Federal Communications Commission eventually permits the use of ultra-high frequencies, present sets can be easily converted at a low cost.

Lower prices on video sets do not seem feasible in the near future because prices of component parts of a television receiver are increasing. However, the whole industry is striving for improvements which will result in larger direct pictures although at correspondingly higher prices.

But this is going to take time, and the man who delays buying a television set because he thinks television still is in the experimental stage, or who lets the "obsolescence" belief delay his purchase . . . that person is going to miss a lot of interesting and educational entertainment.

Q. Can I attach my present radio to a television set?

A. No! And there's no reason why you should! Radios and television are two entirely different things. They are broadcast at different wave lengths. Separate types of equipment are needed for the transmission and reception of each.

Television Is 20 Years Old

Many persons are of the opinion that television is an overnight phenomenon. Actually, the first telecast was made 20 years ago. Even as early as 1939 a few television stations were in operation on an extremely limited or experimental basis. Then came the war and the necessary concentration on war efforts that forced a suspension of commercial television developments.

Dec. 1, found 47 television stations in 28 cities on the air as compared with 16 at the beginning of 1948. Seven other stations in four additional cities in the programming stage were scheduled to be on the air by Jan. 1, 1949.

The industry anticipates the opening of 43 new markets in 1949 with the completion of installations of 70 television stations. Approximately 125 stations in 70 cities will be in operation by Jan. 1, 1950.

It is believed that major improvements will be made in better broadcasting equipment and techniques for these stations.

Q. What is meant by direct-view and by projection (big screen) television?

Installation Needs Skilled Technician

Installation is an important aspect of good reception. Of prime importance is the special home antenna to pick up waves.

The antenna should be placed on the roof of the house and if possible at right angles to the direction of the waves from the station. Where there are several stations, it may be necessary to set it at an angle that reconciles the beams.

For installation, it is necessary to have the services of a skilled technician, who can not only locate the antenna properly for best results, but who can also carefully check the basic adjustments of the receiver.

It is also best to make a firm decision as to the part of the room in which the set will be placed. In this way the cost of moving the special lead-in wire, that comes from the antenna, will be saved.

One feature generally unknown to the public is that a dark room is not needed for good reception. Shades needn't be pulled down nor lights turned off. It is more comfortable on the eyes if there is some general illumination in the room.

Q. How is it done?

A. An electronic television camera photographs what it "sees" and sends pictures with sound out on the air. This is then picked up by a television receiver and the same pictures are recreated on the screen of the television set.

Q. How good are television pictures?

A. Pictures on a good television set are so bright you can see them with room lights on; so clear you see the pleats in a dress, or the perspiration on a boxer's brow; and so steady that they're as good as home movies.

Q. How long will these tubes last?

A. The best answer to this question is the fact that there are many television sets that have been in operation seven years without requiring tube replacement.

Q. How much does it cost to operate a television set?

A. Television sets usually cost less than 1c per hour to operate . . . much less than an electric iron.

Q. What is video?

A. This term is sometimes used in place of the word "television." Technically, it refers to that portion of the television signal that contains the television picture.

Q. How about the sound part of television broadcast?

A. This is picked up by regular microphones and broadcast simultaneously with the television picture. The results are perfect co-ordination between picture and sound in your living room.

Microwave Relay System Links Crosley Stations

A complicated system of microwave units, metal screens, cables and towers will enable Dayton and Columbus television stations to receive the programs aired by WLW-T, the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation's Cincinnati station, beginning late this month.

Shows originating in Cincinnati, DuMont and NBC network kinescope features and films shown over WLW-T will all arrive in Dayton and Columbus by means of this complex relay system.

Within a few months, WLW-D will originate its own shows, which will be sent along to WLW-C. Additional equipment will later be installed at the relay points — Dayton and Mechanicsburg—to handle two-way transmission of programs.

For the first few months, however, programs will follow a one-way route from Cincinnati to Dayton to Mechanicsburg to Columbus.

Into the transmitter building and again through a receiver and transmitter the signal goes via cable. From there it is fed into the WLW-C tower and antenna and is televised on channel 3, which is WLW-C's authorized television channel.

At Dayton, at Columbus or at both places, the relay signal may be fed directly into the respective television transmitters and become a regular WLW-D or WLW-C program. Or, the signal may be fed only into the relay equipment as outlined above. A third possibility is that the signal may go both routes—at Dayton, at Columbus, or at both places.

Million To Get TV Service From Here

When Crosley television station WLW-C in Columbus begins operation March 27 television programs will become available to 1,130,000 people living within a 45 mile radius of the Ohio capital. Pictured above is the two story studio building of WLW-C now under construction on Olentangy River Road in Columbus.

WBNS-TV To Broadcast This Summer

WBNS-TV, due to go into broadcasting late this summer, will carry programs of the American Broadcasting Company, it has been announced by Richard A. Borel, general manager of the station. Final arrangements were recently completed with Ernest Lee Jahncke, Jr., vice-president of the ABC network in New York.

In signing this contract WBNS-TV will bring to Columbus televiewers programs of the two outstanding networks, as a similar arrangement was signed with Columbia Broadcasting System television officials some time ago.

Programs will be available over WBNS-TV direct from New and other television production centers, when the coaxial cable facility, which transmits the network shows, reaches Columbus. It was recently announced that this would be available about Oct 1, 1949.

Meantime, the outstanding programs of both networks will be available on kinescope recording. This is a high quality film reproduction of live broadcasts, as kinescope is an exact duplicate of the program as originally televised.

In addition to the network schedules, plans are in motion to include a strong schedule of local programs, when WBNS-TV starts operation some time late this summer.

A basic television studio building, specially designed for adaptability to future changes which are certain to come in TV and other broadcasting techniques, has been adopted by WBNS-TV for its new station being erected along Olentangy Blvd.

'49 Sets Good Long Time

"Prospective owners of television sets can be sure that the set they buy today will not be obsolete tomorrow or even for the next few years," Ross D. Siragusa, president of Admiral Corporation, one of the three top producers of television sets in this country, stated recently.

Continuing, Mr. Siragusa says, "Certainly there will be improvements in each year just as in the case of all new and expanding industries, but no basic engineering changes are anticipated for some time. Engineers do not expect any miracles that suddenly may revolutionize the television industry. The major wrinkles were ironed out years ago, and no unknown surprises are expected in television."

Another reason why today's television sets will not undergo any major overnight changes is that the Federal Communications Commission and manufacturers have set standards to be followed by all industry. Today's television set will work in any locality of this nation within range of a station with minor adjustments to meet local conditions.

Q. How many people can watch a television program on a set at the same time?

A. That depends upon the size of your room. As many as 50 people can see the picture on an RCA Victor table model. Sets installed in public places are viewed by even larger numbers.

Video To Be Beamed To Over Million

When Crosley television Station WLW-C in Columbus begins operation Mar. 27, regular television programs will become available to 1,030,000 people living within a 45-mile radius of the Ohio capital, according to James Leonard, station manager of WLW-C.

Until the WLW-C studio building in Columbus is completed, most programs from that station will emanate by micro-wave relay from Cincinnati.

Crosley television stations WLW-T in Cincinnati, which has been in operation over a year, WLW-D in Dayton, also opening in March, and WLW-C will together form a regional television station network with interchangeable programs.

Local programs from the Columbus area will begin soon after completion of the two-story studio building at 3165 Olentangy River Road.

From WLW-C, televiewers will see NBC and DuMont network television programs and WLW-T productions starring entertainers of the Cincinnati station.

While WLW-C is a basic NBC television station, it will also carry a substantial schedule of DuMont network programs by kinescope, with network programs to be taken on a live basis when coaxial cable facilities become available later this year.

The WLW-C transmitter and studio sites are both located at 3165 Olentangy River Road. The station will operate on Channel 3, with a visual power of 15.2 kilowatts and an aural power of 12.8 kilowatts. WLW-C will serve a total of 1,030,000 people in its combined primary and secondary areas of coverage.

Height of the WLW-C antenna is 455 feet above average terrain, 578 feet above ground, and 1,320 feet above sea level. The antenna is a three-bay, super-turnstile design, built by RCA. The tower is a triangular, guyed structure, of a uniform triangular cross-section type.

Studio equipment includes two movie projectors, two studio cameras, two remote cameras for televising out-of-studio events, and one micro-wave relay unit with associated equipment.

Construction work on the transmitter building has been completed and erection of the studio building is now under way.

In the WLW-C studio building there will be three studios on the first floor, with a central control room on the second floor overlooking the studios. One will measure 40 by 60 feet, another 24 by 33 feet, and the third will be 18 by 29 feet. Overall dimensions of the building are 95 by 148 feet. The building will also have a large basement which will be partitioned into dressing rooms.

The central control booth in the studio will be glassed on three sides. Producers will be stationed on a raised platform in the center of the control booth. Control equipment and panels for all three studios are visible from the central platform. Eastern entrance to the studio building will have a marquee, with a corrugated aluminum pylon mounted above, bearing the call letters WLW-C.

Q. Must I have a radio to go with my television set?

A. No! Good television sets give you both picture and sound portions of a television broadcast.

Science Reveals Simple Explanation Behind the Miracle of Television

Television may seem like magic to most of us and may have been viewed as such by our forefathers, but today science has an explanation of the principles of the television tube.

How Television Works

Basically, the television picture tube looks like a large electric heating lamp. It has a narrow glass and metal base, a glass neck and bulbous glass front.

The base of the picture tube contains an electron gun, which shoots forward an invisible beam of electrons from a small heated metal plate known as a cathode. This narrow beam of electrons is called a cathode ray, which is why the picture tube is referred to as a cathode ray tube.

The front of the picture tube is coated on the inside with a fluorescent material.

When the narrow beam of invisible electrons from the gun strikes the fluorescent material, a pin-point glow results. The electrons are stopped by the coating and are changed by it into a different form of energy, a tiny light at the particular spot where the electrons have hit.

The invisible beam of electrons doesn't stand still. Like the traversing fire of a machine gun the electron gun shoots a series of closely spaced electron bullets, which form what appears to be a continuous line on the screen.

As soon as the line is completed, the beam is shut off and quickly returned to the left of the picture, turned on again and moved downward a small fraction of an inch. Then it starts again.

The amazing principle of the process is that in 1/30th of a second the rapidly moving electron beam covers the entire front of the tube or screen with all 525 lines of light.

Actually the screen is covered twice in this time, because the beam first takes care of half the 525 lines (the odd-numbered ones), then returns to do the other half (the evenly-numbered lines). This principle is known as interlaced scanning and cuts flickering of the picture to an absolute minimum.

Focusing the Beam

At the neck of the tube are pairs of electromagnetic coils or electrostatic plates. Without going into detail, the electricity in these coils or plates is automatically varied with each movement of the electron beam so that the beam is bent sideways and vertically, exactly the right distance at exactly the right time to form the lines described.

The brightness of each line at any given point depends on the number of electrons striking this particular point on the screen at a given moment. If there are many electrons in the beam, that point in the line is an extremely bright white. With fewer electrons, it is grayish.

With very few or no electrons, the effect is black. The infinite variety of shading from white to black is controlled and varied by the "signals" received by the receiver from the television station.

Because the spots and lines are very small (as are the dots in a newspaper half-tone picture) the eye sees groups of them together as a unit—as part of a complete scene. The dark spots and lines blend to form the dark areas, such as shadows, or dark clothes, in the picture. The light spots and lines blend to form the light areas, such as snow, white shirts, fair complexions.

As soon as the electron has scanned a frame (a single complete picture) it starts all over again, then another picture is completed in exactly the same way. The changing of frames is so rapid that the pictures merge in- ir each other and thus the television movie is completed.

Television, Movies Are Very Similar

Of interest to all television fans is the television camera, which resembles a motion picture camera. The television camera is used in much the same way with attention to lighting, focus, position and shooting angles. But what happens inside the camera is based on the electronic principles of television.

There is a tube in the camera, similar in many ways to the picture tube in the television receiver. But the camera tube changes a picture into electronic impulses, whereas the receiver tube converts the electronic impulses into a picture.

In the camera tube there is a mosaic surface made up of thousands of sensitive photo-electric cells, each of which is pin-point size. A lens concentrates the scene on the mosaic.

At the same time an invisible beam of electrons sweeps rapidly from side to side across the image. With each horizontal stroke, it also moves downward a fraction of an inch in the same manner and at the same time as the electronic beam in the receiver.

The beam of electrons produces an electrical impulse as it sweeps each tiny cell in the mosaic. The series of impulses of varying strength eventually reaches the television receiver, where it is translated to what is seen on the screen.

Q. What is a camera tube?

A. This is the electronic tube used in a television camera. This tube picks up the light rays from the objects to be put on the air and converts them into electrical impulses. There are several types of camera tubes. Lighting conditions at the broadcast point determine which tube is used. These tubes are known as the Iconoscope, the Orthicon, and the Image Orthicon.

Programming Is Important Aspect Of Television

The progress of television in the future depends chiefly upon the coordination of the manufacturer and the broadcaster. The television set owner has already proven his faith in television by spending on television sets last year more than was spent for radio sets in the first three full years of radio.

The manufacturer is dependent upon research and engineering to improve his sets and to lower his prices.

For instance, Admiral Corporation spent approximately a million dollars just on special testing and electronic equipment to apply its mass production policy to the manufacture of television receivers.

In turn, the broadcaster must furnish programs that will sustain and create more demand for the sets produced.

Television programming is a brand new art in every phase from acting to staging and writing, but it is growing up by leaps and bounds. Television is a completely new form of entertainment combining the best features of radio, the legitimate stage and motion pictures. It is a new answer to complete home entertainment.

Ticklers — By George

Television Will Open New Worlds In Education and Entertainment

All the world's a stage . . . and right in your own living room. Television is almost a reality for Hilltop residents. In approximately one or two weeks, entertainment and fun will be available for all Hilltoppers who are fortunate enough to have one of the many sets making their appearance on the market.

Already a million Americans are enjoying the almost limitless pleasures and values that television sets are bringing to American homes.

One of the important features of television is its educational value. It is a known fact that 80 per cent of what we learn through our eyes is retained.

Guided armchair tours of famous museums, and fascinating places of interest, demonstrations of cooking, sewing and art, laboratory lessons in the sciences, after-school instruction for youngsters, will be only a few of the educational programs available to television owners.

Television Programs

But attracting the largest number of set owners are television's wide entertainment features. Television brings free tickets to Broadway and Hollywood shows, famous orchestras and conductors, grand operas, the ballet, dance recitals, star night club entertainers, circus performers, Shakespearean drama, puppet shows, trained animals, quiz shows and many other programs.

What Is Television?

What you think you see and what you really see on a television set are two different things. A television picture is really an optical illusion. Television is not as complicated as it seems. A brief explanation follows.

When, close to the television picture, a great many parallel lines can be seen. The lines are horizontal and as thin as the grain in wood or threads in cloth. As the picture is moved back, the lines are no longer apparent. They disappear, blending into a complete picture. There are 525 lines, one above the other in every television picture. These are lines of light.

Lines of Light

When a railroad man swings a lantern or if someone moves a flashlight back and forth through the air at night, what appears to be a flash of light is seen. If the light is moved back and forth very rapidly left to right in a series of lines parallel to the ground, a rectangular pattern of lines of light something like the gridiron on a football field would be seen. From these simple rectangular patterns of light, artistic arrangements of light and dark areas can be formed.

The television pattern is very similar in principle to the flashlight picture.

A tiny and very rapidly moving point of light traces 525 parallel lines, all in the amazing time of 1/30th of a second, or the time that it takes to make one complete television picture or frame. The lines are formed only by the left to right movements.

The television picture isn't merely black and white like a newspaper cartoon. It has all the fine shadings, such as are seen in a photograph or moving picture. This is due to the variance in brightness of the lines of light.

Will Television Help or Hurt Attendance At Major Sports Events?

By Tom Harmon
Sports Director, KVI-TV

"Within the last year the sports world has witnessed the birth of a new baby. And although this baby still is in its swaddling clothes, before many years have passed it will definitely make its presence felt in the world of sports.

"I am referring to television and its ultimate effect on all sports events.

"To the average promoter, television now is on the fence. Some feel that television hurts their gate. Others, men like Philip Wrigley of the Chicago Cubs and Fritz Crisler, athletic director of the University of Michigan, look upon television as a definite asset to their gate. Actually, television hasn't had a good chance to prove whether it will hinder or help the gate. Television today is an unknown baby. What effect it will have on sport gates when sufficient sets are in American homes is sheer speculation.

Personally, I fall in line with Mr. Wrigley and Mr. Crisler. The percentage of folks who know anything about football, basketball or baseball is small in proportion to our over-all population. To me, television will be a major factor in bringing these games to the American public for the first time. And once a new fan has his or her interest aroused, their next move will be to go to the park to see for themselves. This means new spectators for all sports.

Television is only a very good substitute for the actual game. The camera cannot cover all of the interesting factors. And to the real sports addict, yelling "Kill the ump!" at the television tube is small satisfaction for his feelings.

In relation to the sports announcer, television has issued a new challenge. Unlike radio, the television play-by-play announcer must be with every play. He cannot follow the action by 30 seconds or so, as most of our radio sports announcers do. The sports fan watching television wants to know who has the ball and who is making the tackle as the action takes place on his screen. In television, the play-by-play announcer must have the memory of an elephant and know what he's talking about. Sports fans are rabid. In television, they see as well as hear of the action. The announcer cannot make a mistake.

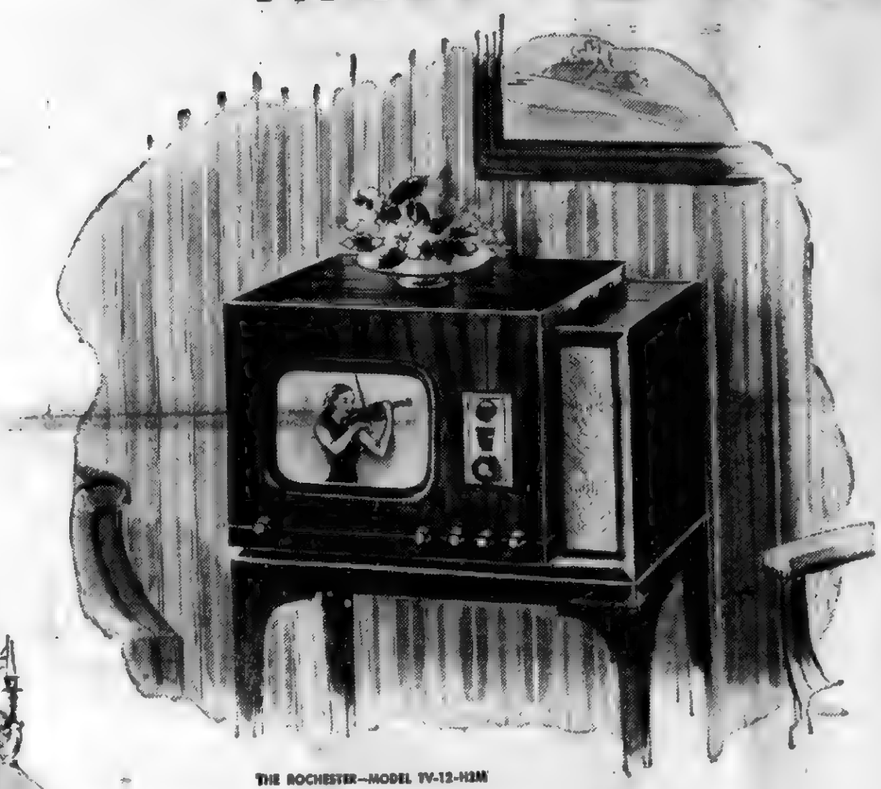
It will develop in years to come that all members of the television crew will have to have a running knowledge of the sports they are covering. The teamwork of a television crew (cameraman, technical director, producer and announcer) will have to be as well co-ordinated as the perfect football play.

Coverage of sports events at night already has thrown a curve at television stations. Many arenas have been outdated so far as their lighting systems are concerned. In television, not only is a power outlet needed but also a survey must be run on lights, line of sight to the transmitter, announcer positions, camera positions and other problems. Lights that give a spectator good vision often are not of high enough power for the sensitive television camera.

Some sports naturally are easier to televise than others. This is mainly because of the area to be covered. Boxing and wrestling, because of the small ring, give the average television fan a much better picture of the proceedings than the ringside fan. The television camera with a close-up lens gets right in with the contestants. Television fans want to see action close up. In playing football or baseball the television crew must sacrifice much of the over-all playing area because of the fans' desire for close-up action.

In the complete picture, television ought to be the greatest boon to sports since the invention of radio. It will give shut-ins and sick folks a chance to see events they could not ordinarily attend. It will force sports promoters to raise the quality of talent. It will do away with the bad play-by-play broadcasting which has been much overdone in recent years. For my money, these three improvements alone should make television a welcome guest at each and every sports event. Television, like the automobile, is here to stay. It's one more step in a greater sports picture for the greatest sporting nation in the world.

Q. What is a telecast?
A. This term is often used in place of "television broadcast."



Q. How well developed is television?
A. It is a highly developed art . . . ready for you to enjoy! RCA Victor introduced it to the public in 1939 at the World's Fair in New York. Today, pictures are bright, clear, steady . . . the result of almost a quarter of a century of research and development—a project that cost many millions of dollars.

Three Kinds Of Pick-Up Possible

How pictures are brought to the home on the television screen is chiefly a question of pick-up. Programs can originate either from a local station or from a network station in another city. There are three kinds of pick-up possible.

Remote Pick-Up

Out of the studio events are picked up by mobile unit cameras and immediately transmitted to the set from the station's main transmitter. At the very instant that things are happening, the set-owner can see and hear all that the camera picks up. For example, a political convention, a parade, opera, symphony, church service, a ball game, or boxing match.

Studio Pick-Up

Live actors at the studios of the television stations are seen and heard on the television set at the same time as the action takes place. Television stations are staging plays, musical entertainment, fashion shows, cooking programs, ballets and quiz shows for the audiences' entertainment.

Film Pick-Up

Motion pictures on film are picked up by the television cameras and television sound equipment and are transmitted to the television owner. In this way dramatic films, travel movies, educational films and newsreels can be enjoyed in the home.

WBNS

The Austin Company, engineers and builders of the new facilities which will include both studio and transmitter for WBNS-TV and the transmitter space for Station WELD, FM station, have utilized a basic design which will be known as the Austin "Tele-Center."

Sixty-foot clear spans are provided throughout the structure, which has a frame of Austin standard welded H-section trusses and sufficient clearance to permit the erection of studios, transmitters, combination audition room and client's booth, offices and the other auxiliary facilities, all within this framework.

The two transmitters will be located on a mezzanine directly above the ground level control room to give engineers the advantages of complete accessibility to all wiring and cable, without the cost of providing a basement.

The studios, themselves will be at ground level, to facilitate the handling of sets or props to and from the television staging area.

The adaptability of H-section trusses to a wide range of loading patterns has proven particularly valuable in this studio building, which will be able to accomodate suspended loads at any point without difficulty.

The all-welded trusses will simplify the installation of electronic air filters, air conditioning ducts, piping, wiring, and other overhead facilities.

Philco Offers 'Wide Screen'

Philco is showing a wide array of television sets featuring FM-AM radio with full rich tone and performance on any station.

The Philco No. 1450 featured by West Hill Furniture Co., is a consolette with new "wide screen" which brings a picture 90 square inches in size. The consolette cabinet is finished in rich mahogany and is eye level height for perfect viewing ease.

The complete channel coverage offered by Philco provides tuning in any of the 12 television channels.

A one-year warranty is provided in the installation fee on Philco.

What to Look For When Purchasing Television Set

When selecting a television receiver, many factors enter into the quality of reception. Among these are sensitivity, character of the image, quality of the sound, steadiness, stability of the image, size of the picture, adequacy of controls, and resistance to interference.

It may not be practicable for the consumer to analyze and evaluate all the technical factors that affect the quality of performance.

Therefore, the best plan is to select an instrument manufactured by a reputable company and retailed by a reputable dealer.

RCA Features Eye Witness Television

Hilltop dealers handling RCA-Victor invite the public to see the new RCA "Eye Witness" television. RCA eye witness picture syncronizer "locks" the picture on the screen in tune with the sending station.

Eye witness television is always bright with lights on or off.

Choosing a station with this receiver is as easy as push button tuning . . . just turn the automatic multi-channel station selector to the desired channel number . . . and there's your station.

RCA also features the golden throat tone system. This acoustical system is an exacting balance of amplifier, speaker and cabinet.

Installation by the experts of RCA's own Service Organization, the RCA Service Co., is yours when you purchase the RCA Victor Television Owner Contract. This optional Owner Contract also covers all charges for antenna and it guarantees you a full year of fine Eye Witness television performance. No other company offers you the advantages of such extensive television service facilities.

Hilltop dealers are showing a wide selection of RCA television sets in all price ranges.

WLW-C Manager James Leonard, Like Bing Crosby, Has Four Sons

WLW-C station manager James Leonard and crooner Bing Crosby can claim a common ground, in addition to years of radio experience and an interest in television, for each is the father of four sons.

While both are talented singers and showmen, Leonard laughingly states, "The only difference between Bing Crosby and me is $99,999,000."

Appointed station manager of WLW-C, Crosley television station in Columbus, on Dec. 1, 1948, Leonard brings to the new medium a long and varied career in radio since 1930.

Graduating from high school in 1930, he entered the University of Florida. Working his way through school, he laid the groundwork for a career in radio. At the University of Florida radio station, WRUF, Leonard served as announcer, producer, sportscaster and general handy man.

He was with the station until 1936, two years after graduation, before coming to WLW. A classmate of Leonard's in college was Red Barber, the CBS sports director.

With the Crosley station until 1944, he was dramatic star in a wide variety of shows, announced many programs, and emceed audience participation shows beamed from WLW.

He was appointed program director of Cincinnati station WBAI, under the Crosley ownership and later under Marshall Field's, and served in that capacity until appointment to his present position. Leonard also emceed WLW's "Circle Arrow Show," beamed to the NBC network on Sunday mornings.

As a teacher in Cincinnati's College of Music, Leonard developed several talented youngsters and he is especially interested in finding local talent for WLW-C television productions.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, the former Marie Wessell of Cincinnati, are the parents of Pat, 6; Mike, 4; Tom, 2; and Jim, 9 months.

Zenith Using Circle Screen Coast to Coast

A comparatively new feature recently put into operation by the Zenith Corporation is the giant circle screen.

The circular screen was planned to overcome the most frequent objection to previous receivers—the fact that the pictures were too small. By utilizing the entire surface of the picture tube instead of just part of it, the circle screen makes possible pictures that are much larger, much easier to see and much easier on the eyes. Even small objects are quickly recognizable. In the broadcast of a hockey game, for example, the puck may be followed easily on the Zenith screen, yet it is almost impossible to see it with ordinary television receivers having much smaller screens.

Furthermore, a round picture is a natural picture. All devices using lenses—telescopes, binoculars and cameras — produce round pictures. Pictures taken by cameras are masked down to a rectangular size for ease and economy in reproduction on film.

How To Get Large Picture Revealed

The size of the television picture is all-important. Numerous questions have been asked as to how to make a larger, more easily seen picture. There are three ways of accomplishing it. The methods follow:

1. Large tube. When a television receiver has a direct view picture the eye looks directly at the end of the tube. If this tube is large, the picture is large.

2. Projection. A projection type television receiver reflects the picture by mirror and lens onto the screen. This enlargement may not have all the brightness and contrast of a direct view picture.

3. Magnification. A lens is mounted in front of the tube. It magnifies the picture but may narrow the angle from which you can view the picture.

Q. What is a kinescope?

A. This is the technical name for the picture tube in an RCA Victor television set. It reconverts the electrical impulses sent out by a television station into the same picture seen by the television camera tube.

Admiral Now Has Units In Matching Sets

The Admiral Corporation answered one television problem recently, when it provided "Television Optional".

Exhaustive surveys taken last year conclusively indicated that 53 % of television purchasers also want radio-phonographs. But the catch is that many prospective customers desiring complete home entertainment simply cannot pay at one time the relatively high price for a radio-phonograph-television combination. Then too, in markets where television is "just around the corner" some customers may be delaying the purchase of a radio-phonograph until they can buy and use a complete unit, including television.

Admiral's answer to this complex problem was Television Optional, wherein home entertainment is provided in matching units comparable to sectional furniture and which can be purchased independently or simultaneously. The customer with a limited budget can select either an Admiral radio-phonograph or the television unit immediately, the companion piece later. The customer who must wait for television to come to his city can purchase an Admiral radio-phonograph immediately, and add the matching television unit later. As a basic merchandising concept, Admiral's Television Optional has had a profound effect upon the entire industry the past year.

The year 1948 was for the television industry its "Age of Adolescence." Television was a toddling infant at the end of the war and did not become a commercial reality until a little over a year ago when the Federal Communications Commission established definite performance standards.

Television is an industry that is opening up a new frontier in the business life of the nation, and its effect upon the economic, social and political life of this country is bound to be enormous. Television brings with it new methods of merchandising and marketing.

But, all in all, more collective nonsense has been written and spoken about television than any other youthful industry. Fantastic results from the use of video, in all sorts of fields, have been predicted by visionaries, and have somewhat obscured the fact that television is a normal, healthy, young business with excellent future prospects—and during 1949 television will be seen as "coming of age."

When a television receiver is purchased, integrity of the dealer from whom it is bought is as important as that of the manufacturer. Stromberg-Carlson television and radio receivers are sold only through franchised dealers who have won the respect and confidence of their communities.

This is major consideration, for the fully successful performance of the television receiver is assured only if the receiver and antenna are properly and carefully installed, adjusted and serviced.

Stromberg-Carlson Sets On Market Since '39

One of the reputable television manufacturing companies is Stromberg-Carlson, which has been manufacturing receivers since 1939. Many of these first receivers are giving their owners satisfactory service today.

The desires and preferences of consumers are given full consideration in the design of these instruments.

Enjoyment of television depends on the tonal quality as well as clarity. A television or radio set with FM and AM gives even greater listening pleasure.

Stromberg-Carlson offers the benefit of many years of pioneering achievement. In FM, for example, the first public demonstration of FM was made by Major E. H. Armstrong, its inventor, on a Stromberg-Carlson instrument.

This company was the first to offer a complete line of fully perfected FM radios.

Also, Stromberg-Carlson operates WHFM, the first commercial FM station owned and operated by a radio and television manufacturer.

The cabinets of Stromberg-Carlson television and radio receivers are styled by famous furniture designers who express the authentic spirit of traditional masters, and exemplify the contemporary manner at its modern best.

Fine hardwoods are selected and brought directly from the source to the Stromberg-Carlson premises, where they are kiln-dried, matched, worked, and painstakingly hand finished by Stromberg-Carlson.

By C.C.Hartley

In Memory's Golden Book

To all who have been so kind during the illness and death of my mother last week I take this opportunity to express my sincere thanks.

The fine tribute paid her by Pat Shrock, editor of The Greenfield Daily Times, in his column, "The Listening Post", was one I would like to pass on:

IN MEMORY'S GOLDEN BOOK

The other night we heard a gentleman describe a lady whom he met and learned to know on an ocean liner as "the most beautiful person I have ever seen, and her character was equally as beautiful as her face" . . . he went on to say that she had greying hair and that it enhanced her loveliness . . .

We have had the privilege of knowing a white-haired lady who was lovely in appearance and who was kindly and sweet and fine in character . . . we first learned to know her when she had attained middle-age and when her hair had already turned to white . . . being a lovely and a lovable person, her goodness and her charm lent lustre to her surroundings, made the experience of living a more enjoyable one for those near to her . . .

We believe that most everyone has in the innermost recesses of his memory a special niche for very special persons . . . some poet phrased it, "The Golden Book of Memory" . . . this lady has a very special page in ours: Mrs. Maude M. Hartley.

Short Notes: Nona Kimes is spending her spring vacation at Grant Hospital undergoing a serious throat operation, and she reports she wants to be home by April 1 at which time her Collie pup, Wynnsect Lady Byona, is expecting a blessed event . . . Rose and Ed Ferguson write a card from Fort Myers, Fla., where they are relaxing . . . Norma Jean South and Charles Garrish have set June 18 for a formal wedding at St. Aloysius . . . The H. E. Shermans, former Hilltoppers, now of New Orleans, are advised of local news via their Record subscription . . . Mike Sheskey has a treat for every lady who brings in the coupon in his ad in this week's Record.

Controls, Controls And More Controls

The Ohio Legislature is faced with an avalanche of bills, many of which are pet peeves of certain individuals . . . and most of which, if enacted, would merely mean more and more controls over our free competitive system.

Such a bill is H. B. No. 116, which would put a control on the price that might be charged by an oil company for its products.

We are just now returning to a time when competition will again mean lower prices for the individual consumer. We are seeing more and more price cutting in various fields because of the desire to do business.

Such control as provided in this bill will merely stabilize the present high price schedule and keep out competition.

We have long felt that the best government is the one with the fewer strangle holds over our daily living.

Brother of Hilltop Woman Honored

The brother of Alice M. Lombard, 2645 W. Broad-st, a former member of the Ohio State legislature, recently received the highest honor possible for a Catholic layman from Pope Pius XII.

C. T. McCort of St. Clairsville was made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory by the Bishop of the Steubenville Diocese, after an order from the Pope.

One of the founders of Catholic action in Belmont County, Mr. McCort is a member of St. Mary's Church in St. Clairsville and a member of the Knights of Columbus.

He is the father of 11 children. His wife is the former Maude M. Harsh of Madison County.

Trappe Ave. May Become Suncrest Dr.

At the Mar. 15 meeting of the High Ridge Civic Association, it was voted to change the name of Trappe-av to Suncrest-dr. Residents of this street signed the petition and presented it to City Council for action.

It was announced at the meeting that some progress has been made concerning the installation of traffic lights on Butler-av, between Springmont and Moundale.

Also discussed at the meeting were plans for the Apr. 19 television show at the Mound Street School.

Preliminary arrangements for the Spring Open House meeting were made at the meeting. On May 17, residents of the Hilltop will be invited to attend a technicolor sound motion picture, entitled "Year Round with the Browns."

This film will show many of the 1948 football games and, in slow motion, feature plays used by the Browns. Highlighting the film will be the championship game between the Browns and the Buffalo Bills.

Tickets for the film are 25c. Ticket chairman is H. T. Van Ness, 654 Whitethorne-av.

Easter Bunny To Be Busy At Glenwood

President of the Hilltop Community Council, Russell Carter, and his committee, Russell Fletcher and Mrs. Edward Thompson, have completed arrangements with the City Recreation Department for the use of Glenwood Shelter House and grounds for the Community Council Easter Egg Hunt.

All children 12 years of age or younger are invited to attend the hunt Apr. 18 at 2 p. m.

Much Damage Estimated In Train Wreck

Thirty-two cars of a Pennsylvania fast freight train were derailed seven miles northwest of Columbus Saturday and the cars and freight strewn along the tracks for several yards.

The east-bound freight train was bound for Columbus when the accident occurred early in the morning. A preliminary investigation by officials indicate that the accident may have been caused by a broken axel on one of the cars.

Damage to the freight and cars was estimated at $500,000 by officials. The amazing part of the accident was that no one was injured in the 32-car accident. Wreckage on the two main lines was cleared off by noon Saturday, so that other rail traffic could resume.

The train was en route from Bradford, O., a switching point in Darke County where the line from the southwest joins an east-west line of the railroad and circles slightly northward to enter Columbus through Hilliard.

Town Sends Thanks For Gift Boxes

A letter was received in The Hilltop Record office this week by C. Carlton Hartley, chairman of the committee for aid to Ritthem, Holland.

The letter expressed the thanks of the entire village for the two Christmas boxes mailed from the Hilltop, Dec. 22, which reached Ritthem near the end of February. The boxes consisted of toys and articles for children, 15 years of age and younger.

The citizen from Ritthem writes, "It is a pity that your committee, having done so much work on this, cannot be present at the distribution, so that you could see the faces of our youth, who are so thankful.

"We express our very great gratitude to you and the other members of the committee."

Mrs. J. G. Bowser, secretary of the committee, reports that she has received several letters from Ritthem families during the past few weeks and hopes that Hilltoppers won't delay answering any letters they may have received.

One Patient Missing After School Break

Dr. F. L. Keiser, superintendent of the State School, reported Tuesday that all but one of the patients had been returned to the school, after the break last week, when nine escaped.

Dr. Keiser said he had some unofficial information that one patient at large, Kenneth Johnson, 18, was being held in Akron by authorities. He said he had no definite information on this to date. According to records at the school, Johnson lists his address as Akron.

A check of the records at the police station showed that 205 patients have fled the institution in the last 15 months. Records listed only 103 as having been reported back at the school, but it is believed that most of the remainder have returned.

Local Television Dealers To Have Open House Sunday

When television goes on the air from the local Station WLW-C on Sunday afternoon Hilltoppers will have an opportunity to get a view of the initial broadcast.

Hilltop television dealers have announced that they will have "open house" Sunday afternoon, during which time they invite the public to witness the operation of the various sets they have.

The local stores have indicated they will remain open for the Sunday afternoon broadcasts only. No sales will be made. This is merely an opportunity to witness the first broadcast and to see television as it will actually be received in Columbus.

When the initial station pattern went on the air earlier this week local television dealers were well pleased and report that they anticipate very fine reception here.

The initial program of television Station WLW-C, Columbus, on Sunday, Mar. 27, will feature several local programs from WLW-T in Cincinnati and regular network programs, officials at WLW-C announced Tuesday. A regular schedule of programs was not available at press time. However, programs will be aired from 2 to 4 p. m. and from 7 to 10 p. m.

Hilltop firms extending an invitation to witness the first broadcast include the following:

Hilltop Band Leader Scoring Hit With Tune Arrangement

By Doris McGill

If you've heard George Towne's arrangement of "It's a Cruel, Cruel World," you won't be surprised that Billboard this month gave it an excellent rating and called Towne's version "a smooth rendition of a catchy novelty tune."

The well-known band leader, who lives with his wife and family at 105 N. Brinker-av, thinks he has "scored a top hit with this tune." His arrangement of "It's a Cruel, Cruel World" has been rated over songs rendered by Margaret Whiting, Danny Kaye, Guy Lombardo, and other top-flight artists in Billboard's poll of disc jockeys, dealers and operators.

Towne describes the tune as a "bright waltz" with a rhythm similar to the new hit, "Cruising Down the River."

Perry Como has been plugging the song over his coast to coast radio program, by inviting listeners to send in original lyrics to match the tune.

A campus band gave George his first start in music. He organized the band in 1932 while studying at Georgetown (pronounced like band leader's name) University, and kept it until 1940. After turning professional in 1941, the young musician made an early triumph by scoring a hit on the Fitch Band Wagon.

After that it was easy sledding for the 14 members of the band and their two vocalists.

The band has played in nearly every state in the U. S., receiving their bookings from a New York office.

Once a year the band comes to the Deshler-Wallick Hotel. They were here last fall. Also a favorite of New Yorkers, they have been featured at the Edison Hotel and at the Pelham Heath Inn.

But personal appearances haven't been their only field of success; the band has played on numerous coast to coast networks and on local radio stations.

When asked if his wife traveled with him during his engagements, Towne answered that, "she used to, but hasn't since the children came."

His wife is the former Sally Meers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meers, 723 S. Roys-av. Their two daughters are Susan, four, and Scarlet, two.

Currently Towne's arrangement of "It's a Cruel, Cruel World" is being plugged by local disc jockets, Irv Johnson, Marty DeVictor, Bud Sweeney and Phil Bradford.

"EASY DOES IT"

By HELEN HALE

TO KEEP BEST, grapes, apples pears and peaches should be placed in covered containers in the refrigerator.

Turn cut melon or citrus fruit cut-side-down on a plate in the refrigerator.

Vegetable shortening and lard should be kept in a cool place. All other fats must be refrigerated to keep them from turning rancid.

Soft cheese must be kept covered tightly to prevent it from spoiling. Hard cheese should be wrapped in waxed paper or tinfoil to keep. Store it covered so it does not absorb odors from other food.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Sunday Supper Salad
(Serves 4)

1 cup chopped, cooked chicken
¼ cup finely chopped parsley
¼ cup finely chopped sweet pickles
¼ cup salad dressing
Salt and pepper
4 slices toast
4 slices cheese
Chili sauce

Combine chicken, celery, pickles and salad dressing. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Spread chicken mixture on toast. Top with slice of cheese large enough to cover toast. Bake in a hot (400° F.) oven or broil until cheese is melted. Garnish with a dot of chili sauce.

Parsnips, rutabagas, potatoes, winter squash and onions should be stored in a vegetable bin, kept in a cool, dry place.

Remove spots before storing crisp and leafy vegetables. These should be placed in a crisper or wet bag in the refrigerator.

Old and new milk should not be mixed unless you use it immediately. Don't leave milk on the sunny doorstep. Bacteria develops easily if it is kept in a warm place and the milk may lose its B vitamins, too.

Cereal foods and baking powder need a cool, dry place for storage. Coffee, tea and spices need air-tight containers.

Granulated sugar should be kept dry so it doesn't become lumpy. Brown sugar needs to be kept moist, preferably in an air-tight container with a slice of orange or apple placed on a piece of waxed paper, to add moisture to it.

OF DEBORAH, DEPARTED

I should be quiet on nights like these,
Moonbeams rocking the cherry trees;
Skies swung low from a transient rafter,
On nights like these and forever after
I'll wake and harken the smallest sound
Of leaves that crackle on lonely ground . . .
I should be quiet — the more fool, I,
Harboring death and afraid to die.

Frances Boal Mehlek, in Ohio Poetry Society Magazine.

LIFE'S UPS AND DOWNS

Pitcher in hand, ascending the stair
Up from the darkened cellar where
Cool cider drinks were kept in store,
He slipped and slid to the cellar floor.
There 'midst his groans he heard her call,
"Did you break the pitcher?" That was all.
There echoed back the curt reply,
"No, but I will!" and the crash rang high!

GRADATION

Tides of day and night forever
Flowing into eon's maze,
Fast from now, we can't disever
For it shapes our future days.
How we rail the present hour
Carping of the things we like—
Deep in awe of atom's power
While in war we falter back.
Rather look and see a world
Shaped by adolescent man
Bud of genius, fully unfurled,
With promise wondrous to his span.
Ascending slow, the steps of tempering time
With faith he will achieve his truth sublime.

PREVENTION IS THE BEST FIRE INSURANCE

DESPITE growing interest in fire prevention education, not only among workers, housewives and other adults, but also children, the United States last year had the worst record of loss of life and destruction of property by fire than ever before in its history, according to the National Fire Protection association.

In the Quarterly, just published by the association at its Boston headquarters, Percy Bugbee, general manager, said preliminary estimates of the fire loss for 1948 stand at $725,000,000—an increase of approximately three per cent over the comparable 1947 estimate. This, he added, is the highest fire loss in dollars ever recorded in this country.

Never before, according to a report of a staff study printed as part of the publication, has North America suffered so many single fires above the $250,000-mark. Not even in 1946 or 1947 were there as many separate fires involving property damage of this magnitude, according to the printed report which said there were 187 major fires in 1946, 203 in 1947 and 268 in 1948. The total estimated dollar loss from 1948's major fires is $141,497,000, the study showed 19 per cent of the estimated aggregate fire loss in the United States and Canada ($800,000,000).

The study also showed, the report said, that the major fires of 1948, which caused less than one-fifth of the total fire loss, represent about 4/100th of one per cent of the total number of fires that occurred during the year.

"Such fires can be prevented," Bugbee said, "by protection of vertical and horizontal openings so that any area subject to a single fire is limited; installation of automatic detection and extinguishing equipment (such as automatic sprinklers); organization of industrial and mercantile fire brigades, and strong and well-trained municipal fire departments."

Four Major Causes.

Among the major causes of fires described in the quarterly, are these:

1. Inadequate or obsolete building codes. A recent survey by the National Bureau of Standards covering 3,840 municipalities shows that 990 have no code whatever, 691 have codes 20 years old or older and only 574 have codes adopted within the last five years.

2. Lack of enough exits and fire escapes, especially in large department stores, sufficient to permit rapid evacuation. Panic is not likely to develop where there are convenient and safe means of escape. It is a curious anachronism that theaters are so fully regulated and that most large department stores, which jeopardize more people, have gone relatively unnoticed in the establishment of safeguards against loss of life by fire.

3. Resentment of fire regulations and refusal to comply, which hamper efforts to protect the public against the hazards of fire by legal action.

4. Smoking in bed. Some hotels have little placards posted in each room, instructing "guests preparing to smoke in bed (1) call the office and notify the management where you wish the remains sent, (2) notify guests in adjoining rooms of your intention of endangering their lives so they may take necessary precautions to protect themselves and (3) sit down and think how foolish it is for you to take this risk."

Last year 268 major fires caused damage estimated at $141,497,000 in the United States alone—18 per cent of the estimated aggregate fire loss in the United States and Canada ($800,000,000). Never before has North America suffered so many fires above the $250,000-mark.

Spring Fashions

By Doris McGill

The coming of spring may be heralded by the first song of a robin, the first sign of violets, or the first long sunny day. But no matter what the sign, the advent of spring is an occasion of celebration.

The final banishment of lack of color brings that light, airy way of looking at life, which can be expressed only in new millinery and fashions.

Spring dresses and bonnets, bedecked with bows, frills and flowers at modest prices, are abounding on the fashion market.

The pure silk shirtwaist dress at the left is perfect for this period of transformation from winter to spring. Its light, gaily colored texture will make a classic beginning for your spring into summer wardrobe.

The new silhouette is simpler than the striking "New Look". Skirts are not so billowing, nor so long. For everyday wear, they are an inch shorter, making the prescribed length 13 inches from the floor.

A sure hit for spring are polka dots, the tinier the better. You'll find them in neat tie silks and rayons, as lining for fitted gabardine coats and as millinery trimmings.

Tony Says Airplanes Making Sky Too Crowded for Kites

Here's another kite story.

Most of us are familiar with the kite-flying accomplishments of Mrs. Doris Acosta, 20-year-old Hilltop mother and record-breaking kite-flyer.

Mrs. Acosta, who lives at 2369 Ray-st, holds a record-flying time of 23½ hours. She began flying her kite last Wednesday, Mar. 16, but a snowstorm caused her to bring down the kite after 23½ hours of flight. Her neighbors estimated the kite was 5000 feet in the air when she brought it down.

Little Tony Minor, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Minor, 277 S. Westgate-av, doesn't profess to be in Mrs. Acosta's class, but he did get his kite up pretty high Sunday.

In fact his kite was so high that it flew into a small yellow airplane circling the park. Try as he would, he couldn't keep the kite from flying into the plane, and a few minutes later, pieces of the once kite masterpiece came floating down.

Tony was pretty sad. He made the kite himself and had looked forward to flying it on Sunday.

To comfort Tony, the Minors took him to Gomer Jones Flying Service, Sullivant-av, to see if they could find the plane that caused the damage. And sure enough there it was.

Bits of paper, and string sticking to the wheels, were all that was left of Tony's kite. His comment was, "You'd think that with all the space up there, there'd be room for kites and airplanes too."

PTA Group Sees Gym Activities

A PTA program Tuesday, Mar. 22, in the West High gym featured physical education demonstrations under the auspices of departments at the Hilltop school.

Approximately 72 junior high girls demonstrated folk dances, while three-score senior high girls danced and played volleyball.

Girls who took part were from the seventh period GAA class and the eighth period class consisting of 10th and 11th graders. The G. A. A. class played volleyball and the 10th and 11th graders exhibited skills in folk dances.

Boys who took part consisted chiefly of seventh and eighth graders with a select number of senior high boys doing difficult stunts. The boys, chosen from R. C. Glass' physical education classes, displayed their ability in tumbling and apparatus work. There were more than 50 junior high boys who took part and seven senior high boys consisting of John Current, Gene Rigsby, Paul Pfaff, John Wessa, Dick Briggs, Ken Hallam, Dean Baker.

Maid. "I accidentally let the baby's blanket drop out of the window."

Mother. "Awfully clumsy of you. Now the baby will catch cold."

"Oh, no, madam, he won't. He was inside it."

"I hear there's a new baby over at your house, William," said the teacher.

"I don't think so," replied William. "The way he cries shows he's had lots of experience."

Hilltop Responds Generously To Alaskan Library Project

Response to the appeal for books for Alaskan homesteaders has been "very gratifying", according to Mrs. Mose Williams, who reported Tuesday that 414 books have been received to date for the Alaskan library.

Three hundred and eighty-seven of the books have been shipped, she reported. The many calls received at the Williams' home indicate that the present number of books received may be doubled by the end of the month.

An appeal for books for Alaskan homesteaders was directed to Hilltoppers after letters requesting reading material were received by the Williams', from friends who are homesteading in Kenai, Alaska.

Those who have donated books are Mr. and Mrs. Simon Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chrisman, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Suver, Wanda Wagner, Mrs. Chester R. Hill, Mrs. A. F. Bragenhardt, Margaret Scott, Mrs. C. A. Dolby, Clarence Story, Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Carlton Hartley, Mr and Mrs. Benjamin Knepper and Jerry Spears.

Mrs. Williams wishes Hilltoppers to continue donating books, as the need in Alaska is acute, she said.

"Reference books are especially needed," she added. School children have only a few outworn and outdated textbooks, and research is practically impossible without reference material.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams will call for any books that Hilltoppers wish to donate.

FROM AN UNKNOWN SOURCE

How lightly over the meadows of my heart
Came this unheralded wind with soft caress;
It touched the spring of joy with subtle art
And stirred the listless day to effervesce.

I could not trace the golden way it came
Or follow as the airy wings brushed over;
But from its kiss, more softly tipped than flame,
A fragrance lingered, meadow-sweet as clover.

Harrisburg Pk. Plant Produces Truck Bodies

Three years ago, four men opened a small business in a two-car garage in the rear of 269 Green-st. The firm was known as Timmons Metal Products and later moved to 463 Stauring-st. They later purchased a tract of land and built a large modern building at 845 Harrisburg-pk.

The men are Kenneth K. Timmons, general manager; Frank Timmons, sales manager; Wilson D. Timmons, plant manager; and Carl Jagsch, engineer.

Timmons Metal Products manufactures utility and beverage truck bodies only, under the trade name of "Timpco", and they are of all steel welded construction. Other than building all metal truck bodies the corporation is Central Ohio's distributors for Heil Hydraulic dump bodies and equipment of Milwaukee.

Another service the company extends to its customers is the fleet painting of trucks.

Juvenile Bureau Gets Brain Recorder

The Ohio Society of Crippled Children has presented to the Bureau of Juvenile Research an electro-encephalograph, a device which makes a written record of the electrical currents given off by the human brain.

The instrument will be a definite aid in testing children for brain damage or abnormalities. This equipment is known as an "E-E-G" machine and is the bureau's newest addition to the battery of testing equipment used in research work with children handicapped by personality or behavior problems. More than 500 children are referred there annually for study.

After the first impact, police said, the taxicab bounced into a Frebus-av bus, causing a three-way accident.

Injured were Robert F. Pestel, driver of the milk truck, Edward J. Smith, driver of the taxicab, and Donald F. McCloud, 455 Helen-st, a passenger in the cab. McCloud and Smith were treated in White Cross Hospital.

Across The HILLTOP ALLEYS

By Dick Ardis

The fifth annual mixed doubles tournament starts Apr. 9 and continues through the 24th. With a greater handicap this year there should be more and higher scores. Prizes are going to be greater for the first few places.

Dick Ardis

Homer Ranney and Emily Dougherty were the winners last year. They had a score of 1310 with the handicap and walked off with $5 dollars each. This year first place will be around 100 dollars.

The tournament will run on the week-ends and through the week except on Monday and Wednesday. The Girls' Teen-Agers roll at 4 p. m. Monday and the St. Aloysius Mothers' Club League rolls on Wednesday at 12:30.

The hours during the week are from early morning until 5 in the evening and all day Saturday and Sunday.

The handicap will be 75% this year in place of the 70% of last year. Handicaps will be taken on scratch averages of 180 for women and 200 for men. The Sunday night leagues, which end April 3, will be counted on the handicap basis.

The prize list was $719.40 last year, when 327 sets of bowlers rolled. The entry fee this year will be $4 per couple and anyone may bowl as many times as he wishes as long as partners are changed each time.

Here are some of the league standings for this year:

By Jim Bond

Due to the popularity of the square dances held at Glenwood, free lessons will be given to boys, girls and adults, beginning Tuesday, Mar. 29, from 7:30 to 9 p. m.

The Glenwood senior basketball squad started off in the Knothole tournament in great fashion, defeating West Jefferson 46 to 16. Gene Brown led Glenwood's scoring with 16 points, while Les Henton, Jim Bush, Don Sweeney, Don Skipper and Jack Vincent aided in the victory.

St. Aloysius dropped a close one to Cuttings Market, 25 to 23, but was awarded the game on protest.

The Glenwood Athletic Club now boasts almost 50 members. Any boy interested in athletics can still join. The GAC sponsors cake and candy sales at all Glenwood dances.

Pat Matthews has just received a new large supply of craft materials and boys and girls interested in crafts are invited to join one of the classes.

Dick Kontz and Jim Sweeney are co-coaches of the St. Aloysius baseball team.

Harvey To Be At Hartman

Frank Fay, the original Elwood P. Dowd, and "Harvey" will be at the Hartman Theater Mar. 28 through 30.

A Pulitzer Prize play, this fantasy is unexpectedly humorous, even hilarious to some. Others find its main appeal one of understanding poignance.

The play is thoroughly refreshing and tenderly eloquent to all. The one certainty is that theatergoers will have the time of their lives with "Harvey" and Elwood.

With the incomparable Frank Fay as Elwood P. Dowd, "Harvey" had its premiere in Boston Oct. 17, 1944, after which the play went to New York, where he played the role for three and one-half years. The play and its star have received "rave reviews", year after year.

It just doesn't seem possible not to be charmed "out of this world" by "Harvey" with Mr. Fay as Elwood P. Dowd. Theater goers won't be disappointed.

Just Garden Talk

By W. R. Lindberg

I promised to give my reasons for not recommending the use of a heavy roller on the lawn. I am going to delve a little into the technical side to make my reasons clear.

To begin with, soil is made up of particles referred to as aggregate. The larger the aggregate the better the air content of the soil. The reason for not using a heavy roller is the more the soil is packed down the less air there is left in the soil and air is just as vital to the growth of plants as fertilizer. A good sprinkling will settle the soil as near as nature does it. If the ground is uneven level it up with a good application of top soil.

Take advantage of every good gardening day that comes along now, especially for the transplanting of shrubs, trees, and evergreens. Leave off any cultivation working of the soil until it becomes dried out enough to keep from packing. I will remind you again to apply a good heavy application of fertilizer to your lawn and all your plants as soon as you can get to it. It is not too late to do dormant spraying of fruit trees and other plants.

Remember you can have your garden questions answered by sending your question with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to "The Gardener", care of The Hilltop Record.

KNOWN CRIMINAL

A SHORT-SHORT STORY By RICHARD H. WILKINSON

FREQUENTLY it's the most simple things that reveal the identity of a criminal. A quirk of nature. A human trait. A virtue. A vice.

Consider the theft of the tax money. Everyone knew Adam Perkins was the thief. And it seemed like he didn't care much if they did know it, he was that smug, that sure of his own security.

Adam had been tax collector for nine years. In that time he had filched $28,000 from the town. A little at a time. Driblets. Not enough to arouse suspicion. And since he was keeping the books and folks generally trusted in his honesty he got away with it. For nine years.

Then there came a day when Bessie Thayer, Adam's assistant, came into the office and found Adam unconscious on the floor, a sizable lump on his head.

Bessie called Henry Cartwright, the town clerk. Bessie and Henry revived Adam. Adam said he'd worked late the night before, as was his custom. Shortly after midnight a masked man had entered the place, knocked him on the head, and that was the last he'd known till just

The safe door was open. They looked at the cash box. Empty. Henry Cartwright summoned Thad Fairbairn, the one and only town policeman.

An investigation was conducted, and that investigation revealed the rather startling fact that every year for nine years the tax money had been a little bit short. Folks looked with suspicion at Adam. They figured that he felt that right soon some one was due to begin asking him questions, which was why he had concocted the fake holdup. But Adam anticipated every move that the investigators made. He told a story about storing cash of partly paid taxes inside the safe and depositing it in lump sums. He told any number of stories, but the story he stuck to was about being knocked on the head when there was a sizable amount of money in the cash drawer. He said he guessed the thief must have been snitching money from that cash drawer off and on for nine years. Thad Fairbairn agreed that he guessed that must be the case, and if Adam didn't mind would he kindly stick out his paws while Thad clamped a pair of bracelets on 'em.

Adam was bonded for $30,000, and the bonding company paid that amount to the town with the stipulation that Adam be brought to trial. The town said that was okay by them, and a date for the trial was set. It looked dead open and shut, but Thad Fairbairn was worried. And at length he spoke his mind to the selectmen.

"Boys," he said, "you better stop this trial in a hurry. We can't prove a thing on Adam. We know he stole the money, but we can't prove it. Now if the court finds Adam innocent, then, according to the terms of his bond, we'll have to give back the $30,000 the bonding company's paid us. It was a criminal bond, you know. Well, the way I figure it, we're better off with Adam out of jail and $30,000 in our pockets than having Adam in jail and nothing in our pockets."

The selectmen thought this over and decided it was a fine idea. But, said they, we got to prove Adam's guilt somehow, on account of if we let him go free it'll set a bad example in town and besides, this here community will be the laughing stock of the nation.

So they postponed the trial and imported a famous detective from Boston. But after a week the famous detective allowed that it looked to him like Adam had 'em where the hair was short. The way things stood no court could find Adam guilty.

Well, it seemed that the town was going to be out $30,000 and Adam Perkins was going to be free and able to enjoy a little business venture he and Sam Scott had engaged in, which was erecting a hotel and lodge for the winter sports visitors who swarmed in on the village during the cold months.

It probably would have worked out that way, too, if Thad Fairbairn hadn't been a Yankee, too, and just as smart as Adam Perkins. Thad figured and figured and fretted and fretted. Two weeks, a month passed, then Trad went down and arrested Adam Perkins, and this time he had the stuff that would convict him.

A second trial was held, and right at the psychological moment in walked Sam Scott and testified that Adam had put up the $15,000 needed to build the lodge and hotel, and likewise Adam had mentioned to him that it was the taxpayers who had, in a roundabout way, provided the funds.

This was enough for the jury. They convicted Adam and gave him 10 years to think the situation over. As for Sam Scott: Thad Fairbairn accosted Sam after the trial and said: "Sam, I reckon I owe you an apology. [illegible] fixing to filch you out of your share of the hotel like I said. Nor did he mention it was you who put up the money for the hotel and that you might have been the jigger who snitched the funds from his safe. That was a job I put up on you just to get you to testify. You see, we couldn't have Adam running around so smug and free, and that trick was the only way I could think of getting evidence to prove he was responsible for a crime everyone knew he committed."

Sam was mad at first, then he grinned and said: "Well, I guess it's best I ain't mixed up with no criminals, and I did wonder where Adam got that money, though he told me a story about a rich uncle dying. But here's something: I got the hotel all built and paid for and ready for business. Now what'll I do about it?" But Thad had done enough figuring for one spell. He didn't know.

"Will five dollars be enough?"

Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church Is Celebrating 43rd Anniversary This Week

One Charter Member Is Still Living

More than 1200 Hilltoppers are celebrating this week the 43rd anniversary of their church, Hoge Memorial Presbyterian, the first church to appear in Franklinton community more than 138 years ago.

Only one of the original charter members of the Hoge Memorial Church, 29 S. Eureka-av, survives on the church's 43rd anniversary, as far as Church Historian Dr. M. K. Weber, 57 Eldon-av, can learn. The lone charter member is Mrs. Lelia J. Cooley.

Other charter members were Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Ault, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Birch, Ada Marie Birch, Leland Birch, Harold Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. George Gill, Raymond Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Huff, Gladys Huff, Ralph Huff, Mrs. J. P. Johnson, H. M. King, Dorothy King, Grace McGill, Mildred K. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Charlotte, Violet and William McDonald.

The first Presbyterian meeting house in the year 1811 on the Hilltop opened in a saloon.

Dr. Walter H. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Deems, parents of Herbert Deems, and a small group of members from the West Broad Presbyterian Church conducted Sunday School in this building, which had formerly been a saloon. It stood on the lot adjoining the Houx building, corner of W. Broad-st and N. Terrace-av.

THIS IS THE FIRST church to appear in the Franklinton community. Built in 1811, it was a gift of Lucas Sullivant.

Forty-three years ago, Mar. 23, 1906, a band of members met in this building and organized a church. A memorial fund for church extension was raised in honor of Dr. James Hoge.

This new church was chosen to share in the "Centennial Memorial Fund" and a gift of $5,000 was made by the Presbytery toward the erection of a chapel.

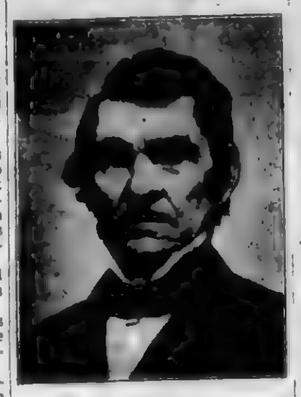
On July 1, 1906, ground was broken for the new building to provide a church home for what was to be known as the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, on the present site, and services were held in the unfinished building in April, 1907.

Rev. J. H. Hatfield was called to be the first regular minister in 1907 and remained until 1918.

Rev. Richard E. Shields was requested to be pastor of the church in 1919 and remained until June 30, 1926.

It was under Rev. Shields' pastorship that the present church house, costing $44,000, was added. This addition provided space for the Sunday School, a dining room, kitchen, a gymnasium, a church office and a church parlor.

The entire week, beginning Apr. 20, 1924, was given over to the dedication services. Rapid growth and increased interest were manifested in all departments of the church.



In the fall of 1926 Rev. Harry C. Hutchison was called to Hoge Memorial and remained until Mar. 31, 1939. Under his pastorate the church continued to grow, with 500 members being added to the church roll.

The present pastor, Rev. Alfred J. Wold, was called May 21, 1939, and preached his first sermon as minister in charge on July 9.

Hoge Memorial is flourishing under the leadership of Rev. Wold with a steady growth in membership and an increased interest and attendance in worship services. More than 700 members have been added to the church since his arrival.

Hoge Memorial, with a membership of more than 1200, is enlisted in an active program motivated not only for the temporal and spiritual advancement of its members but for the welfare of the entire Hilltop community in which it is located.

First Pastor

Dr. James Hoge

When Dr. James Hoge was called to become the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in the frontier village of Franklinton he was installed in the new courthouse.

It was not until 1812, after more than five years of work, that the congregation found itself in a position to erect a suitable church building. But even then it was destined to bitter disappointment and disaster. Hardly had the project gotten under way when the War of 1812 broke out and Franklinton was on the warpread to Canada. When General Harrison arrived at the village in October of that year he found scares accommodations and the unfinished church building was taken over by the army for its needs. But it was destined to be of slight service to the soldiers for a severe storm laid the building low.

The little flock that Dr. Hoge had collected was not to be scattered by such disaster as wars and tornadoes. Three years later, in 1815, a new building, more accommodating than the first, was dedicated for the purpose of worship. This building was used until Nov. 19, 1821, when the church at Franklinton was united with the one at Columbus, the later place now becoming the center of Dr. Hoge's labors.

The name Hoge refers to the founder of the first church in Franklinton.

In the latter part of the year 1805 there came to Franklinton a young missionary of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, who had been commissioned to the state of Ohio.

The young missionary was well received by the dwellers in the wilderness, and on Feb. 8, 1806, the First Presbyterian Church, and the first church of any denomination in this region, was organized with 13 members, of whom Mrs. Sullivant, wife of Lucas Sullivant, was one.

This young man was Rev. James Hoge, and his work was so acceptable that on Sept. 25, 1807, the congregation gave him a formal call to become their pastor. The request was acceded to, and he served for more than 50 years. A copy of that call, which was in Lucas Sullivant's handwriting, follows:

"The congregation of Franklinton, being on sufficient grounds, is well satisfied with the ministerial qualification of you, James Hoge, and having good hopes from our past experience of your labors, that your ministrations in the gospel will be profitable to our spiritual interests, do earnestly call and desire you to undertake the pastoral office in said congregation promising you, in the discharge of your duty, a proper support, encouragement and obedience in the Lord; and that you may be free from worldly cares and avocations, we hereby promise and oblige ourselves to pay to you the sum of 300 lbs. in half yearly payments, annually, for three-fourths of your time until we find ourselves able to give you a compensation for the whole of your time, in like proportion, during the time of your being and continuing the regular pastor of the church.

"In testimony whereof, we have respectively subscribed our names this 25th day of September, Anno Domini 1807.

"Robert Culbertson and William Reed, elders.

"Joseph Dickson, John Dill, David Nelson, William Domigan, Joseph Hunter and Lucas Sullivant, trustees."

That this call was prepared and forwarded for Mr. Hoge with the knowledge and at the earnest request of the whole congregation of Franklinton, is attested by Robert G. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was the minister called to assist the congregation in such a case, according to the Presbyterian forms.

APPROXIMATELY 1200 MEMBERS attend the Hoge Memorial Church which is housed in this building at 29 S. Eureka-av. Hoge Memorial Church is celebrating its 43rd anniversary this year.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR MARCH 27

There Is No Place For Prejudices In Christ's Gospel

ONE of the most amazing and revolting incidents of our time is the spectacle of certain people preaching and practicing racial and religious prejudice in the name of Christ. And much of this prejudice has been directed against Jews, of which religion was Jesus himself.

When Paul spoke of the Gospel of Christ, he emphasized its universality, His mission and ministry, he insisted, were to Gentiles as well as to those of his own religion, both to the Greek and to the Jew.

Was Paul in this a true interpreter of his Master? Or did Jesus in any way limit His mission, or the benefits of the grace of God?

There are one or two incidents that viewed lightly, or thoughtlessly, might indicate that. But the whole story of Jesus, the revelation of His spirit, and the general records of the four Gospels, are so much against any such interpretation, that these incidents must be seen in the light of the full evidence.

One of the most puzzling incidents, if we read the record without insight and imagination, is that of Jesus and the Syrophenician woman. In Mark 25-30. This troubled Grecian woman had brought her demented daughter to Jesus, beseeching Him to heal her. Jesus had retired to a house, hoping for privacy and rest, but the woman heard of His being there, and was persistent in her effort to see Him.

Her importunity must have impressed Him, but evidently to test her faith He put in her way stumbling blocks that seemed harsh, and even cruel. Voicing the common religious and racial prejudice, He said, in effect, "Do you ask this of Me, a Jew? It is not meet to take the children's bread and give it unto dogs." But He was voicing, not His own thought, but the sort of thing that racial and religious prejudice thinks and says, for He was about to bless the woman and her daughter.

So the incident, and the healing, actually rebuked those who would have turned the woman away. There is no place for racial or religious prejudice in any phase of Christ or His Gospel.

Church Begins 25th Year On The Hilltop

By Myron T. Seifert

Hillcrest Baptist Church will celebrate Apr. 1, its 25th anniversary of the dedication of the present building. In honor of this occasion new hymn books will be presented to the church as a memorium to W. D. Knox, director of the Hillcrest Baptist Church Choir for many years.

The church, established in the spring of 1976 by the First Baptist Church, was originally housed in a small chapel at Eldon and Steele-ays.

The First Baptist Church, appointed W. D. Knox and Henry Ballard to serve, along with its pastor, Dr. Doolan, as a committee to choose and purchase a site for the establishment of the new church.

The site at Eldon and Steeleavs was selected and a small chapel, with a seating capacity of 150, was erected. The building was dedicated Apr. 7, 1918 and three weeks later the full organization was completed with a membership of 69.

Rev. Arthur E. Cowley was the first pastor and W. E. Knox for 10 years was director of music. He later resigned his position to assume similar duties at Hillcrest.

In 1922, a year after an addition had been built to the original chapel, Rev. F. E. McFarlane was called to succeed Rev. Cowley. Under his leadership the church continued to grow making it necessary to move to larger quarters. Accordingly the present building at Eldon and Broad was purchased and dedicated Apr. 8, 1924.

Rev. John H. Hughes was the third pastor, assuming his duties in 1927 and being succeeded by Rev. William Pieffer in 1929. The latter resigned in May, 1933 and Rev. S. Talmage Magann took charge of the work on Nov. 12, 1933.

A child's good appetite is a Mother's delight but it's sometimes hard on Mother, too. Just finding a variety of dishes that are nourishing, appealing, and—need we add—economical, is no easy matter.

Cold weather creates a desire for hearty foods with savoury odors that float out from the kitchen and perk up that already awakened appetite even more!

The recipes below all cater to healthy hunger. One of these, Glazed Ham Patties, is an excellent meat dish that will do for two meals in most families (unless you decide to cut the recipe in half.) For a one-dish supper, or for a big Sunday brunch, Bacon Bran Flakes Waffles really hit the spot. And for the finish of any meal, the Baked Apples with Crumble Topping given below are "tops" for any child or grownup with a cold-weather appetite.

Glazed Ham Patties
1 pound ground smoked ham
1 pound ground fresh pork
1 cup raisin bran
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of thyme
2 tablespoons finely chopped [illegible]
1¼ cups milk*
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup corn syrup
3 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine ham, pork, raisin bran, salt, pepper, thyme, onion, and milk. Roll into balls and place in custard cups or large muffin pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 minutes.

Mix together in saucepan brown sugar, syrup, vinegar, and mustard. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Pour 1 tablespoon of mixture over each patty and bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with remaining sauce. Makes 12 patties.

*For extra richness, use 1¼ cups undiluted evaporated milk.

Bacon Bran Flakes Waffles
1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted bacon fat
1 cup 40% bran flakes
¼ cup chopped cooked bacon
2 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks and milk. Add to flour mixture, add bacon fat, then mix only until smooth. Add flakes and bacon and blend. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Makes four 4-section waffles.

Baked Apples with Crumble Topping
3 large apples, cored and cut in [illegible]
5 tablespoons honey
⅔ cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped nut meats
1 cup corn flakes

Arrange apple halves in baking dish and spread each half with 1 teaspoon of the honey. Add enough water to cover bottom of baking dish (about ⅓ cup). Cover and bake in hot oven (400° F.) 20 minutes. Combine butter, remaining 3 tablespoons honey, salt, and cinnamon in saucepan and mix well. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture bubbles. Add nuts and cereal flakes and mix lightly. Spread cereal mixture over tops of apples. Return to oven and bake, uncovered, 20 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Makes 6 servings.

Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church Is Celebrating 43rd Anniversary This Week

One Charter Member Is Still Living

More than 1200 Hilltoppers are celebrating this week the 43rd anniversary of their church, Hoge Memorial Presbyterian, the first church to appear in Franklinton community more than 138 years ago.

Only one of the original charter members of the Hoge Memorial Church, 29 S. Eureka-av, survives on the church's 43rd anniversary, as far as Church Historian Dr. M. K. Weber, 57 Eldon-av, can learn. The lone charter member is Mrs. Lelia J. Cooley.

Other charter members were Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Ault, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Birch, Ada Marie Birch, Leland Birch, Harold Cooley, Mr. and Mrs. George Gill, Raymond Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Huff, Gladys Huff, Ralph Huff, Mrs. J. P. Johnson, H. M. King, Dorothy King, Grace McGill, Mildred K. McArthur, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. McDonald, Charlotte, Violet and William McDonald.

The first Presbyterian meeting house in the year 1811 on the Hilltop opened in a saloon.

Dr. Walter H. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Deems, parents of Herbert Deems, and a small group of members from the West Broad Presbyterian Church conducted Sunday School in this building, which had formerly been a saloon. It stood on the lot adjoining the Houx building, corner of W. Broad-st and N. Terrace-av.

THIS IS THE FIRST church to appear in the Franklinton community. Built in 1811, it was a gift of Lucas Sullivant.

Forty-three years ago, Mar. 23, 1906, a band of members met in this building and organized a church. A memorial fund for church extension was raised in honor of Dr. James Hoge.

This new church was chosen to share in the "Centennial Memorial Fund" and a gift of $5,000 was made by the Presbytery toward the erection of a chapel.

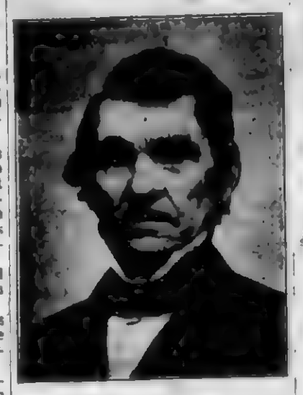
On July 1, 1906, ground was broken for the new building to provide a church home for what was to be known as the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, on the present site, and services were held in the unfinished building in April, 1907.

Rev. J. H. Hatfield was called to be the first regular minister in 1907 and remained until 1918.

Rev. Richard E. Shields was requested to be pastor of the church in 1919 and remained until June 30, 1926.

It was under Rev. Shields' pastorship that the present church house, costing $44,000, was added. This addition provided space for the Sunday School, a dining room, kitchen, a gymnasium, a church office and a church parlor.

The entire week, beginning Apr. 20, 1924, was given over to the dedication services. Rapid growth and increased interest were manifested in all departments of the church.



In the fall of 1926 Rev. Harry C. Hutchison was called to Hoge Memorial and remained until Mar. 31, 1939. Under his pastorate the church continued to grow, with 500 members being added to the church roll.

The present pastor, Rev. Alfred J. Wold, was called May 21, 1939, and preached his first sermon as minister in charge on July 9.

Hoge Memorial is flourishing under the leadership of Rev. Wold with a steady growth in membership and an increased interest and attendance in worship services. More than 700 members have been added to the church since his arrival.

Hoge Memorial, with a membership of more than 1200, is enlisted in an active program motivated not only for the temporal and spiritual advancement of its members but for the welfare of the entire Hilltop community in which it is located.

First Pastor

When Dr. James Hoge was called to become the pastor of the Presbyterian Church in the frontier village of Franklinton he was installed in the new courthouse.

It was not until 1812, after more than five years of work that the congregation found itself in a position to erect a suitable church building. But even then it was destined to bitter disappointment and disaster. Hardly had the project gotten under way when the War of 1812 broke out and Franklinton was on the warpath to Canada. When General Harrison arrived at the village in October of that year he found scarce accommodations and the unfinished church building was taken over by the army for its needs. But it was destined to be of slight service to the soldiers for a severe storm laid the building low.

The little flock that Dr. Hoge had collected was not to be scattered by such disaster as wars and tornadoes. Three years later, in 1815, a new building, more accommodating than the first, was dedicated for the purpose of worship. This building was used until Nov. 19, 1821, when the church at Franklinton was united with the one at Columbus, the later place now becoming the center of Dr. Hoge's labors.

The name Hoge refers to the founder of the first church in Franklinton.

In the latter part of the year 1805 there came to Franklinton a young missionary of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States, who had been commissioned to the state of Ohio.

The young missionary was well received by the dwellers in the wilderness, and on Feb. 8, 1806, the First Presbyterian Church, and the first church of any denomination in this region, was organized with 13 members, of whom Mrs. Sullivant, wife of Lucas Sullivant, was one.

This young man was Rev. James Hoge, and his work was so acceptable that on Sept. 25, 1807, the congregation gave him a formal call to become their pastor. The request was acceded to, and he served for more than 50 years. A copy of that call, which was in Lucas Sullivant's handwriting, follows:

"The congregation of Franklinton, being on sufficient grounds, is well satisfied with the ministerial qualification of you, James Hoge, and having good hopes from our past experience of your labors, that your ministrations in the gospel will be profitable to our spiritual interests, do earnestly call and desire you to undertake the pastoral office in said congregation promising you, in the discharge of your duty, a proper support, encouragement and obedience in the Lord; and that you may be free from worldly cares and avocations, we hereby promise and oblige ourselves to pay to you the sum of 300 lbs. in half yearly payments, annually, for three-fourths of your time until we find ourselves able to give you a compensation for the whole of your time, in like proportion, during the time of your being and continuing the regular pastor of the church.

"In testimony whereof, we have respectively subscribed our names this 25th day of September, Anno Domini 1807.

"Robert Culbertson and William Reed, elders.

"Joseph Dickson, John Dill, David Nelson, William Domigan, Joseph Hunter and Lucas Sullivant, trustees."

That this call was prepared and forwarded for Mr. Hoge with the knowledge and at the earnest request of the whole congregation of Franklinton, is attested by Robert G. Wilson.

Mr. Wilson was the minister called to assist the congregation in such a case, according to the Presbyterian forms.

APPROXIMATELY 1200 MEMBERS attend the Hoge Memorial Church which is housed in this building at 29 S. Eureka-av. Hoge Memorial Church is celebrating its 43rd anniversary this year.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR MARCH 27

There Is No Place For Prejudices In Christ's Gospel

ONE of the most amazing and revolting incidents of our time is the spectacle of certain people preaching and practicing racial and religious prejudice in the name of Christ. And much of this prejudice has been directed against Jews, of which religion was Jesus himself.

When Paul spoke of the Gospel of Christ, he emphasized its universality. His mission and ministry, he insisted, were to Gentiles as well as to those of his own religion, both to the Greek and to the Jew.

Was Paul in this a true interpreter of his Master? Or did Jesus in any way limit His mission, or the benefits of the grace of God?

There are one or two incidents that viewed lightly, or thoughtlessly, might indicate that. But the whole story of Jesus, the revelation of His spirit, and the general records of the four Gospels, are so much against any such interpretation, that these incidents must be seen in the light of the full evidence.

One of the most puzzling incidents, if we read the record without insight and imagination, is that of Jesus and the Syrophenician woman, in Mark 25:30. This troubled Grecian woman had brought her demented daughter to Jesus, beseeching Him to heal her. Jesus had retired to a house, hoping for privacy and rest, but the woman heard of His being there, and was persistent in her effort to see Him.

Her importunity must have impressed Him, but evidently to test her faith He put in her way stumbling blocks that seemed harsh, and even cruel. Voicing the common religious and racial prejudice, He said, in effect, "Do you ask this of Me, a Jew? It is not meet to take the children's bread and give it unto dogs." But He was voicing, not His own thought, but the sort of thing that racial and religious prejudice thinks and says, for He was about to bless the woman and her daughter.

So the incident, and the healing, actually rebuked those who would have turned the woman away. There is no place for racial or religious prejudice in any phase of Christ or His Gospel.

Church Begins 25th Year On The Hilltop

By Myron T. Seifert

Hillcrest Baptist Church will celebrate Apr. 1, its 25th anniversary of the dedication of the present building. In honor of this occasion new hymn books will be presented to the church as a memorial to W. D. Knox, director of the Hillcrest Baptist Church Choir for many years.

The church, established in the spring of 1918 by the First Baptist Church, was originally housed in a small chapel at Eldon and Steele-ave.

The First Baptist Church, appointed W. D. Knox and Henry Brillard to serve, along with its pastor, Dr. Doolan, as a committee to choose and purchase a site for the establishment of the new church.

The site at Eldon and Steele-ave was selected and a small chapel, with a seating capacity of 150, was erected. The building was dedicated Apr. 7, 1918 and three weeks later the full organization was completed with a membership of 69.

Rev. Arthur E. Cowley was the first pastor and W. E. Knox for 10 years was director of music. He later resigned his position to assume similar duties at Hillcrest.

In 1922, a year after an addition had been built to the original chapel, Rev. E. E. McFarlane was called to succeed Rev. Cowley. Under his leadership the church continued to grow making it necessary to move to larger quarters. Accordingly the present building at Eldon and Broad was purchased and dedicated Apr. 6, 1924.

Rev. John H. Hughes was the third pastor, assuming his duties in 1927 and being succeeded by Rev. William Pieffer in 1929. The latter resigned in May, 1933 and Rev. B. Talmage Magann took charge of the work on Nov. 12, 1933.

A child's good appetite is a Mother's delight but it's sometimes hard on Mother, too. Just finding a variety of dishes that are nourishing, appealing, and—need we add—economical, is no easy matter.

Cold weather creates a desire for hearty foods with savoury odors that float out from the kitchen and perk up that already awakened appetite even more!

The recipes below all cater to healthy hunger. One of these, Glazed Ham Patties, is an excellent meat dish that will do for two meals in most families (unless you decide to cut the recipe in half.) For a one-dish supper, or for a big Sunday brunch, Bacon Bran Flakes Waffles really hit the spot. And for the finish of any meal, the Baked Apples with Crumble Topping given below are "tops" for any child or grownup, with a cold-weather appetite.

Glazed Ham Patties
1 pound ground smoked ham
1 pound ground fresh pork
1 cup raisin bran
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
Dash of thyme
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1½ cups milk
½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup corn syrup
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 teaspoon dry mustard

Combine ham, pork, raisin bran, salt, pepper, thyme, onion, and milk. Roll into balls and place in custard cups or large muffin pans. Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 20 minutes.

Mix together in saucepan brown sugar, syrup, vinegar, and mustard. Bring to a boil and boil 1 minute. Pour 1 tablespoon of mixture over each patty and bake 20 minutes longer. Serve with remaining sauce. Makes 12 patties.

For extra richness, use 1½ cups undiluted evaporated milk.

Bacon Bran Flakes Waffles
1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
2 tablespoons melted bacon fat
1 cup 40% bran flakes
¼ cup chopped cooked bacon
2 egg whites

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Combine egg yolks and milk. Add to flour mixture, add bacon fat, then mix only until smooth. Add flakes and bacon and blend. Beat egg whites until they will hold up in moist peaks. Stir quickly but thoroughly into batter. Bake in hot waffle iron. Makes four 4-section waffles.

Baked Apples with Crumble Topping
3 large apples, cored and cut in halves
5 tablespoons honey
⅔ cup water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup chopped nut meats
1 cup corn flakes

Arrange apple halves in baking dish and spread each half with 1 teaspoon of the honey. Add enough water to cover bottom of baking dish (about ⅔ cup). Cover and bake in hot oven (400° F.) 30 minutes. Combine butter, remaining 3 tablespoons honey, salt, and cinnamon in saucepan and mix well. Cook and stir over low heat until mixture bubbles. Add nuts and cereal flakes and mix lightly. Spread cereal mixture over tops of apples. Return to oven and bake, uncovered, 20 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Makes 6 servings.

ENTERTAIN WITH CHEESE TRAYS

Whatever the occasion, you'll rate high as a hostess if you serve a large tray resplendent with creamy yellow, golden and ruddy pieces of cheese cut in attractive shapes. Serve a cheese tray for dessert, appetizer or as part of an informal buffet meal. Cheese also is tops for evening snack refreshments.

There is a wide variety of superior-flavored American-made cheese available now. This makes possible almost unlimited combinations of interesting types of cheese for your cheese trays.

The nut-like flavor of American-made Swiss cheese makes it ideal for the buffet cheese tray we have prepared. To prevent too rapid drying, it is best to leave it in one large piece and let the guests help themselves.

Golden yellow American cheese, tangy brick, colorful Edam and Gouda are just a few of the many other varieties of cheese for you to choose from. And don't forget to include some of the stronger flavored ones like Blue, Gorgonzola and Limburger. When you are cheese shopping remember that the success of a cheese tray really depends on a variety of choice and unusual cheese flavors.

BUFFET CHEESE TRAY

To make the attractive buffet cheese tray pictured, choose an assortment of American-made cheeses, in a variety of shapes as well as types. Use a square Edam, with a few wedges cut out to form a design, for the center of the tray. Around it place wedges of Brie and cubes of Brick cheese, with a piece of Swiss cheese in one corner and a snappy domestic dessert cheese in red wax in the other.

Complete the tray with an assortment of crackers, and accompany it with jelly, olives, and pickle relish, to satisfy the tastes and preferences of everyone.

DEFROSTED SIDEWALK . . . Heated coils of wrought iron embedded in the pavement keep this 100-foot-long sidewalk in front of New York's famous 21 Club warm enough to melt the snow as it falls and prevent ice from forming. A pump forces hot water through the coils. Anti-freeze in the water prevents freezing when system is not in use. A flick of a switch does the trick.

Angry Motorist: "Some of you pedestrians walk along as if you owned the streets."

Irate Pedestrian: "Yes, and some of you motorists drive around as if you owned the car!"

OFFICERS ELECTED

At their meeting last Friday evening, Hoge Memorial Men's Brotherhood elected the following officers: president, A. B. Lewis; vice-president, Floyd Badgley; secretary, Lawrence Proper and treasurer, Belford Biddison.

NOON-DAY DANCES

Every Wednesday during the lunch hour, dances are held in Starling's auditorium. The admission price is two cents, the proceeds of which are used to buy new records for the juke box.

Teachers in charge this semester are Helen Krumm and W. B. Walsh.

Student helpers are Jean Deming, Saralee Glover, Mary Lou Hanson, Sylvia Lusingolo and Florence Ramey.

The cast for "The Little Red School House" includes Margaret Drummond, Eda Vannacelli, William Schultz, Ray Oyer, Mary Luke, Bill Shaffer, Jack Conrad, Doris Ysseldyke, Hazel Lewis, Glenn Stoll, Phyllis Geho and Janet Grimm.

Members of the "As Sure As You're Born" cast are Bill Morris, Richard Searles, Tom LeValley, Ina Williams, Charlotte Davy, and Jean Lacey.

Mrs. Verona Rothenbush will direct both plays.

BASEBALL SCHEDULE ANNOUNCED

Starling's baseball schedule for this year is as follows: Apr. 12, Linden McKinley at Starling; Apr. 26, Starling at Everett; May 3, West Junior at Starling; May 10, Starling at Champion.

All Starling games will be played at the State Hospital Field on W. Broad.

STUDENT COUNCIL MEMBERS ELECTED

New members elected to the student conference council this semester are Frank Wiseman, Shirley Merritt, Jerry Remalie, Richard Siegwald, Betty Zane, Glenn Wright, Robert Nestor, Grace VanAtta and Dick Davis.

The student conference council consists of 12 boys and girls, elected by their classmates, who meet with Louise Lincoln and the principal, L. W. Huber, to talk over problems and suggest ways to make Starling a better school. The student handbook this year was the latest project of the group.

ASSEMBLY SPEAKER

Mike Dunn, a member of the Columbus Board of Education, spoke to the students on "The Bataan Death March" last week. He told of the actual capture of the men and their march to the prison camp, where many men died due to the lack of food and medical care. He also told what part played in the lives of these men. He stressed three main points in his talk: 1. To appreciate the things we have; 2. That most ordinary Japanese people are not as cruel as their leaders were; and 3. That we must learn to solve our problems by loving people and not hating them.

This was another in the assembly series, "Appreciating Our American Heritage."

LETTERS AWARDED

Seven basketball players were awarded letters for taking part in 20 of the 40 quarters of play: Wayne Lee, Kenneth Calendine, Jack Buck, Bill Hamilton, Eddie Valentino and Bill Purdy. Ralph Bollinger received a certificate instead as he had earned a letter earlier in baseball. Starling awards only one type of athletic letter.

Sale of Easter Seals To Aid Crippled Youth

Thousands of Columbus and Franklin County residents received letters last week containing Easter Seals from the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children. The goal of the campaign which opened on Mar. 17, is $80,000 and is the minimum amount the society needs to continue its work for another year.

Chairman of the 1949 campaign is Chet Long, WBNS news commentator. Mr. Long and hundreds of other volunteer workers will work on the drive through Easter Sunday, last day of the campaign.

The society's services, made possible by the sale of Easter seals, include the Cerebral Palsy Center, 620 E. Town-st, in operation since May, 1946, and a welfare service through which artificial limbs, braces, crutches, corrective shoes and other orthopedic devices are furnished. There is also a summer camp program for the handicapped youngsters.

The State Liquor Department announced the purchase of 117,565 cases of liquor, costing $3,526,412, during the week of Mar. 11.

West Violinist Joins Capital Orchestra

By Myron T. Seifert

Ambitious Jack Galloway, junior at West High, 191 Haldy-av, has made an excellent start on a musical career, at the age of 15.

At the present time he is the only high school student to play in the Capital University orchestra, which has 40 members. Jack plays second violin.

He is also a past-master of the baritone horn and the piano.

He started learning violin under Lowell Drum of the Columbus Philharmonic, whose protege he has been for the past five years. At present he is a piano student of Mrs. Mary Riddle Walton, of Eldon-av.

In addition to his Capital University work, Jack has played with other college orchestras including Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State.

He has played in orchestras under the leadership of such directors as Painter of the New York Symphony, Izler Solomon of the Columbus Philharmonic, and now at Capital University, he is under Director Wilbur Crist.

Not all of his talent is in the classical and semi-classical field, he is a member of a dance band at Ohio State University.

Jack has set his heart on a college education and hopes to be able to help in his college expenses by qualifying for membership in the Columbus Philharmonic.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Galloway.

EASY COME, NOT-SO-EASY GO . . . Rita and Fred Johns gaze tearfully upon a receipt for a tax refund of $300,085.76 which Fred received by mistake from his 1948 income tax. He really was entitled to only $85.76 of that amount. Unemployed since last May due to an illness, Fred would have had good use for the money, what with three children to feed and clothe.

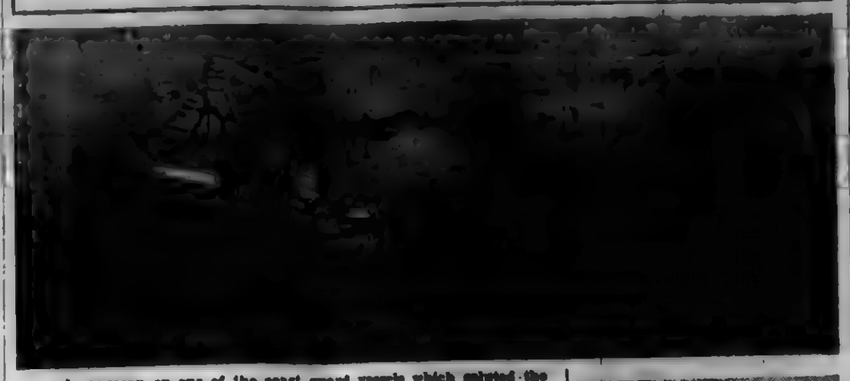
I REMEMBER....

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From Robert E. Sedgwick: "I remember (circa 1906) when there were arc lights along the streets and how, when they failed to light up, we kids would kick the pole to jar the carbons and, once started, they all would light up. We used to collect discarded carbons to write our names on cement sidewalks, which were not too common in those days."

From Henry H. Vesbe: "I remember when the Waffle Man came down the street, blowing on a trumpet, and all the kids would run home for a penny-to-buy a waffle sprinkled with powdered sugar. The waffles were made with water, but they sure tasted 'waffle' good to us kids!"



From Evangeline Sedgwick: "I remember when Essanay movies were filmed in Chicago across the street from Riverview park. David Spoor and G. M. Anderson coined the name from their last initials. It was there Gloria Swanson and Wallace Beery first met and became movie stars. Edna Mayo, Ruth Stonehouse, Henry B. Walthall, Bryant Washburn and James Kirkwood were some of the others. Anderson always acted the part of 'Broncho Billy' in the westerns."

From Mrs. Mary B. Stewart: "I remember when there was a 'sure cure' for a sore throat—a remarkable remedy used by grandmothers in my childhood days. She would slap a thick, fat slice of salt pork around our neck, tie a wool sock over it, make a strong gargle of vinegar and salt, force us to sit an hour with our feet in hot mustard water, huddled under a blanket like a small tent, then tuck us into a bed piled high with a feather tick. If the throat didn't clear up by morning, the neck was rubbing out of her water, dipped in a saucer of kerosene and re-applied. Then we had a blistered neck as well as 'grippe.' Strange to say, we survived."

GOODBYE FRANCE, HELLO BROADWAY!

A crewman on one of the coast guard vessels which entered the N. S. Magellan, carrying France's 49-car Gratitude Train, waves a greeting as the French line freighter moves along New York harbor. After a colorful marine and aerial welcome for the French answer to America's Friendship Train last year, the train was unloaded (see photo at right) and the New York carload of gifts from France borne on an air corps trailer down Broadway in a gala parade of welcome. The other cars are currently being delivered to state capitals throughout the nation.

RECIPROCATING for America's gift of $40,000,000 worth of food, fuel and clothing gathered state by state via the Friendship Train last year, the 49-car Gratitude Train is now distributing its cargo of more than 1,000 gifts from the people of France, state by state, to the people of America.

All 48 states—also the District of Columbia and Hawaii—eventually will receive one of the famous little 40-and-eight boxcars of World War I—only big enough for 40 men and eight horses, but bearing instead valuable gifts of French art and craftsmanship, including laces, pottery, vases, statuary, etc.

Gifts to Be Displayed.

In most state capitals to be visited, the train will be met at the railroad station by the governor, various civic dignitaries and a unit of the Forty and Eight, an affiliate of the American Legion, or a unit of the National Guard—or both. The gifts will then be placed on exhibit.

The train arrived in New York harbor February 3 aboard the French freighter Magellan, ushered in by the States of Liberty—another gift from France—and welcomed by booming harbor whistles, firehose geysers, an armada of police launches and a sky blanket of roaring jet planes overhead. On the starboard side of the ship was a huge sign: "Merci America."

After being unloaded onto barges at Weehawken, N. J., the train was shipped back to New York for a gala welcome parade down Broadway, with the New York car borne on an air corps trailer, after which the car was turned over to Mayor William O'Dwyer by French Ambassador Henri Bonnet.

In Washington.

In Washington, D. C., the train's arrival was greeted with eight jet planes roaring overhead in aerial salute, followed by a ceremony at the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National cemetery in which the American Legion accepted from four French war veterans an eternal torch which had been lighted January 22 at the Arc de Triomphe where France's Unknown Soldier rests.

In Baltimore, Md., Lt.-Gov. Alexis du Pont Bayard welcomed the train, after which a police band played lively airs and Legionnaires formed a guard of honor for the boxcar. Then the gifts were placed on exhibit for 10 days—February 5 to February 14.

In Trenton, N. J., Mayor Donald Connolly headed the welcoming committee for the train. The articles were displayed in the State museum there and then distributed among New Jersey public schools and colleges. The boxcar was turned over to the New Jersey society of the Forty and Eight for use in a statewide membership campaign.

Mar. 25 Is 36th Anniversary Of 1913 Flood Disaster Here

By Myron T. Seifert

Mar. 25, 1913, is a memorable date that West Siders and Hilltoppers will never forget, for it was on that day that the Scioto River levee gave way and inundated practically all the West Side to the asylum grounds, and for three days that portion of the city was isolated and cut off from all modern conveniences.

Many present day Hilltoppers who resided in that district and who later removed to higher ground, recall vividly, as if yesterday, the impending disaster that cost lives and millions of dollars of valuable property.

Dr. John E. Briggs, former Hilltopper and West High graduate, now head of the medical staff of Grant Hospital, wrote following the 1913 flood, of his experiences which were typical of many students in that day.

We report herewith his graphic description of this momentous event. (West High School was then located on S. Central-av in what now houses the students of Starling Junior High School.)

"On the morning of Tuesday, Mar. 25, 1913, Mr. Magly, the principal of West High, dismissed school on account of the danger of high water. I immediately started home, and on arriving was surprised to find two of my uncles getting ready to take the rowboat we often used on hunting trips, to town, a distance of about a mile and a half to the city limits.

"A rowboat would come in handy if there was a flood, and the levees were expected to break at any moment. We loaded the boat in a spring wagon and started; our drive was not a long one and on reaching the corner of Central and Sullivant-avs we saw people running in all directions with bundles and suitcases. The water had come and was at that time two feet deep at the Sullivant-av viaduct. It was an easy matter to unload the boat, but not very easy to row against the Glenwood-av current. We all had gum boots and raincoats on, and from time to time we had to get out and wade, pushing and pulling the boat as best we could.

"We were aiming to go up Glenwood to Rich, and up Rich to where we had friends whom we had promised to get if the water came through the levees. Cypress-av and Rich-st was as far as we could go by wading or rowing, the water being entirely too swift for us. We started back, but got no farther than Glenwood, where the current was unusually swift and it would be most dangerous to try to cross. The water had risen a great deal and was still coming up.

"On the corner was a large stone house, and we pulled in behind it; it was here that I saw sights I shall never forget. The first debris that came was boxes and small sheds of all kinds; next came large buildings, such as stores and houses, floating right down Glenwood.

"All at once we heard a scream and, turning, saw two men on a shed holding to each other and trying to keep it balanced. The shed was headed straight for a very dangerous part and we all knew that they were going right into death, but we could not help them because it was a hard matter to keep ourselves from sweeping right out into the current.

"The time went slowly by until it was about 2 o'clock, when all of a sudden a large frame house loomed up and headed right for us. Seconds seemed hours at that time until the frame crashed into the house we were behind. It knocked off the frame kitchen that belonged to the stone house, sending it whirling past us, and caved in a part of the stone wall. The kitchen just missed us, but a part of the roof did not; it hit our boat, knocking one of the oars out and carrying it away. With only one oar you can see we were badly crippled. This was a great disadvantage afterward.

"Two rather large poplar trees stood on our side of the house, into which we climbed. Uncle Mertie and I went into one and Uncle Claude into the other, each holding the ropes attached to the ends of the boat. We had not been in this position long when the remaining part of the house started to crumble piece by piece, until we were compelled to let go the trees. There was a whirlpool at on end of the house and a very angry current at the other.

"When we let go the trees, the boat spun around three or four times and then started to fill with water. Uncle Claude and I dipped water as fast as we could while Uncle Mertie used the single oar, but to no purpose. The boat filled with water and went from under us; we consequently had to swim. The B. & O. railroad embankment was about 100 feet away but with the angle the water would take us we figured it would be about 300 yards to swim. I swam with all my might and was encouraged by Uncle Mertie's shouting for us to keep on. The waves were about two feet high and it was not very pleasant to be hit in the face by that dirty water, but I kept on.

"I don't remember much more until I first touched the bank. As it was very slippery, it was hard to get a footing. The first time I failed, but the next time I was desperate and clawed the banks in my frantic efforts until I had hold, and then very slowly pulled myself up. After I was this far, I lost no time in reaching the top. On reaching the top I was utterly exhausted and had to rest. Looking back, I saw Uncle Claude slowly crawling up the bank. The first thing he said was that Uncle Mertie was gone. We looked all around but saw nothing of him. He was a good swimmer but had swallowed a good deal of water in the start, as we think, thus disabling him. His body was found four days later a half mile away.

"Uncle Claude had kicked his boots off but I had not, and had everything on, even my hat. I was saved. I had faith to believe in answer to the prayer I prayed while in the tree with Uncle Mertie."

Otto H. Magly, former principal of West High School, whose diary is full of many human interest stories, gives his impressions of the havoc and destruction wrought by the turbulent flood waters that covered the vicinity of old-West High School.

His diary reads:

"Monday, Mar. 24. Returned from Toledo. High water everywhere.

"Tuesday, Mar. 25. About one-half of school present, very nervous and excited. Mr. Kinkead and Mr. Jones called, making a round of the West Side schools, advising all be dismissed on account of high water. All assembled in time and at 8:45 a. m. Advised all pupils to go home immediately and assist in any moving upstairs. Did not believe that water would reach many homes but best to be prepared. Pupils left immediately and were all gone by 9 a. m. Teachers hurried for cars. Adele (Mr. Magly's daughter) and I remained for some time, closing up and leaving instructions. Car service was very poor as the power was weak. No cars running on W. Broad-st. Camp Chase line moving very slowly. Managed to catch last car east. Crossed Town-st bridge at 10 a. m. Police had closed all bridges to traffic but at the request of the inspector, car was permitted to cross. At 11:10 a. m. West High was surrounded by a roaring deluge, a levee having broken at Central-av. At 1 p. m. water stood 23 inches above first floor and remained until 4 p. m. B&O crossing at Sullivant-av gave way, rerasing water for a fall of about four feet. About 150 refugees were in the building. Supper was cooked in the domestic science room. Boats began bringing people to the school and all were fairly comfortable.

"Wednesday, Mar. 26. Building began to cool. Gas off at 3 p. m. No electric light. No water service.

"Tuesday, Mar. 27. Institution for feeble minded sends supplies and medical attention and boats begin taking people to higher ground. Mr. Roney last to leave building at 5:25 p. m.

"Friday, Mar. 28. Received by Hilltop via Pathfinders Bridge and Rome with a machine load of clothing. Quite a number of pupils at the Highland relief station and Glenwood Church. Was able to get down the drive to within 100 yards of Central-av, but not having boots, could not cross the running water. School yard now out of water. Much debris on Central-av. Many inquiries about pupils from whom there had been no report.

"Saturday, Mar. 29. Secured pass to get to West. Crossed Richest bridge to T&O tracks north of Broad and west to edge of water about Davis-av. Joined by Francis Swain, who had heard nothing from folks since Tuesday. Jumped on wagon crowded with men and drove through water to the hubs most of the way to Dana-av. Met Mr. Roney at corner of Brehl-av and we went to the building. What a sight! Mud, debris and wreckage everywhere. Made brief inspection of damage. Arranged to begin cleaning Monday.

"Sunday, Mar. 30. Remained at home. Too many sightseers.

"Monday, Mar. 31. Managed to reach building by walking most of the way. Some stretches of water still across Broad-st. Mr. Romey had several of the boys at work, Clear, Randolph, Todd, Millay. Homer Wood looking on. Put him to work at 10 a. m. Went to car barn for cup of hot coffee. Mr. Ashton furnished two bacon sandwiches. Purdum went to work, on bicycle placed in condition in order that he might ride to and from the school as there was no car service.

"Tuesday, Apr. 1. Herbert Deems and Sheldon Mann joined the laborers tackling the mud. Oh, what a mess! Scojes went on at noon.

Sherwin-Williams Line Featured By Danzigers

Danziger's Department store, located at 971 W. Broad-st, features a complete line of Sherwin-Williams paint products for its many customers.

The store was founded in 1916 by Nathan Danziger. The West Side businessman immigrated to this country from Latvia and died here in 1939. The establishment is now operated by Joseph Block, who started to work for Mr. Danziger upon completion of his tour of duty in World War I.

A son, Arthur Block is performing in capacity of manager and has done so since his discharge from the Army Air Force in World War II.

The store was at first stocked with clothing and dry goods only. In 1936 some variety items were added, and in 1946 leading brands of housewares were put on sale; and with the addition of the Sherwin-Williams paint line the store is still the old traditional West Side landmark, but at the same time is a complete family department store.

Arthur Block announces that Danzigers have added KEM-GLO, another Sherwin-Williams product. KEM-GLO is a superb luster finish for walls and woodwork that matches in appearance and washability the baked enamel surface of refrigerators and other home appliances.

Particularly recommended to give a scrubbable finish for walls and woodwork in kitchens and bathrooms, the new paint product is also designed for use on all other woodwork around the house, for radiators, for metal cabinets and even for outdoor furniture.

The new finish may be applied by brush of roller coater. It is ready to use as it comes in the package. No reducing with mineral spirits, turpentine, or other thinners is required. One coat of KEM-GLO will cover most previously painted walls and woodwork; only two coats are required over new wood and bare plaster. Primers, sealers and undercoaters are not necessary. Dirt, grease and grime resistant, KEM-GLO is packaged in gallons and quarts.

Letters To The Editor

Although I spoke to you personally about it I never have gotten around to thanking you more formally for the honor given me several weeks ago in the "flowers of the week." We were in a rush to get away at the time and the flowers looked cheerful in our almost empty house at 239 Belvidere.

Since leaving Columbus we have been going at about the same speed as always but can stop for a breath now. Since landing here in Phoenix we have secured a home, furniture and a telephone. (The latter is more scarce than phones were in Columbus two years ago.) I have been doing substitute work in the Phoenix and County Schools and have lined up some fine permanent possibilities for fall. I'm taking a required Arizona Constitution course at Arizona State University at Tempe and doing some research work on my M.A. at the same time.

Our new home has a large lawn front and back and I've even found time to mow it this past week. It has been sunny every day since we landed and the temperature has been getting up to about 75 lately. The nights are still cool and a little heat is necessary then. Our little girl, Karen, has already acquired a nice tan playing in the sun.

Sincerely,
Charles W. Bennett.

"EASY DOES IT"

By HELEN HALE

A BOWL of steaming hot cereal is an excellent food that sticks to the ribs on chilly mornings. For a flavorsome treat, try cooking farina in apricot whole fruit nectar.

Bread that has become somewhat dry and old can be given "oven fresh" appeal by leaving it in its own wrapper and then heating it in a slow oven (300°) for five to 10 minutes. If the bread is very dry, sprinkle it with a little water first, then heat in the same fashion.

Hot sage biscuits are a good combination with pork pie, made, of course, from shreds of the leftover roast. To make the biscuits, add one-half teaspoon sage to your biscuit recipe.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Salmon Cakes
(Serves 5-6)

2 cups canned salmon
1 large onion, minced
1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
½ teaspoon salt
Pepper
1 teaspoon thyme
3 eggs, separated
¼ cup butter

Flake and bone fish. Mix with tomato sauce, onion and seasonings. Add beaten yolks and fold in stiffly beaten whites. Drop from tablespoon onto a hot buttered griddle and fry until brown on both sides. Serve with canned tomato sauce, if desired.

Try spiced peach halves on greens next time you serve lamb or ham. Fill the centers of the fruit with whipped cream cheese seasoned with horseradish. Sprinkle with paprika.

When you're cooking prunes, use pineapple juice in place of water if you want to add delicious flavor to this dried fruit.

If you want to serve a real, old-fashioned treat with pork chops, give the family buttered turnips.

Here's an idea for a deviled ham loaf, made with leftover meat: grind the ham, mix with egg and bread crumbs and seasonings such as prepared mustard, horseradish, diced onion, tabasco and catchup. Serve the slices of baked loaf with a spoonful of cold sour cream.

Split pea soup can be made more flavorable and tempting if you add a few slices of sausages to it before serving.

What About Danger Of West Side Floods

City Council seems to be in somewhat of a hurry about deciding to build a city dam out on Big Walnut Creek and we understand the matter may come up for decision next Monday night.

There may be some merit to the building of a Big Walnut dam. We are not engineers and do not profess to know all the things council has in mind.

Recently (Mar. 7) Mr. Hoover, supt. of the water works, made a statement to the effect that the city has enough raw water for 10 years. Our problem is one of distribution he said.

On top of this it appears that should the city go ahead with the single purpose dam on Big Walnut they would not actually start such construction for another four years.

Army engineers are at present making a survey of the Mill Creek area to determine if it would provide the city additional water and at the same time provide flood protection for the West Side of Columbus. Their survey should be completed in less than a year.

It would appear that the city has nothing to lose and possibly a lot to gain by waiting to determine the findings of the army engineers.

Anyone who cares to see the actual need of flood protection for the West Side needs only to go to Grandview Avenue and the river following a heavy rain and see just how few inches more the river would have to rise to go over the present embankments.

The matter is certainly one that deserves careful thought. We believe our councilman, Henry Koontz, should weigh the welfare of the many people on the West Side before he votes to be in a hurry on this matter.

This is NEW YEAR'S EVE!

If Charles IX of France hadn't adopted the "reformed calendar" in 1564, possibly tomorrow really would be New Year's Day and not Jan. 1 as he decreed. Before that time the virgin year began with the end of a festival marking the close of the vernal equinox, an event observed to this day in India.

Our gay practice of well-wishing associated with the coming of the new year probably stemmed from these ancient beginnings. When the king changed dates there were some who resented the arrival of Apr. 1 without felicitation and gifts. To amuse themselves wits of the day obliged these dissenters with mock presents and elaborate calls of pretended ceremony.

So, by easy stages, April Fool!

Sports, Religion Will Cure Ills Says Johnny Jones

Sportsmanship and religion can cure all the world's ills, is the opinion of Johnny Jones, Dispatch columnist. He voiced such an opinion last Thursday at the Hilltop Kiwanis meeting when he spoke on his recent trip to the Olympic games at London.

He told of his experiences in war-torn London, Berlin and Paris and stated that Americans are not aware of how well off they are with their many comforts and plenty to eat.

He lauded Gen. Lucius Clay for his ability to keep this country out of a war with Russia. "Every American soldier in Berlin must be a diplomat," he said.

Rev. Jack Falkenberg of the Bible Meditation League of Columbus will be guest speaker at the regular Thursday Kiwanis meeting.

Rev. Falkenberg will speak on the subject "Japan."

HBA Conducting Poll To Find Desired Store Hours

Are you satisfied with store hours now provided by Hilltop business firms?

This is a question being asked this week by the Hilltop Business Association business advancement committee in an effort to determine the desired shopping hours of Hilltop patrons. Numerous Hilltop housewives and individuals are being contacted by telephone.

In an effort to get a more complete cross section poll, Record readers are also being invited to supply the answers to the following questions:

1. When do you prefer to do your grocery shopping, during the day or evening? .....
2. What days or nights of the week do you prefer to shop for groceries? .....
3. Do you prefer to do your other shopping in the day or evening? .....
4. What days of the week do you prefer to shop for other merchandise? .....
5. Do you feel that grocery stores should be open Wednesday afternoons? .....
6. Do you feel that other Hilltop stores should be open Wednesday afternoons? .....
7. Do you shop Monday nights downtown? .....
8. Do you shop Friday nights on the Hilltop? .....
9. Do you shop Saturday nights on the Hilltop? .....

Members of the committee urge the public to submit answers to the above questions. They should be mailed to The Hilltop Record, 2465 W. Broad St.

Further comments on how service can be improved by local independent merchants is also invited.

Easter Bunny Coming Here

SEILLER'S BIG EASTER BUNNY is shown holding little Deborah Sue Clark on his lap. Deborah is the daughter of Robert and Carol Clark, 137 N. Roys-av. The Easter Bunny will be at Seiller's Department Store, beginning Saturday. See story below for details.

This isn't Bugs Bunny you're seeing, above in the picture, kiddies. It's the real honest-to-goodness Easter Bunny, who'll be hippity-hopping all over Hilltop streets Friday afternoon.

He's a big, bunny, with long, floppy ears, soft as a feather pillow and dressed in a purple jacket with golden yellow trousers.

If you don't see Mr. Bunny Friday afternoon, you're welcome to visit him at Seiller's Department Store, 2464-12 W. Broad-st, where he'll be Saturday, April 2 from 3 to 6 p. m. and every afternoon after that until Easter from 4 to 6 p. m.

If mother or dad would like to have your picture taken with the bunny, J. Curtis Allen, the photographer, will be on hand at the store to take your picture.

Ray McVay, chairman of the American Legion Hall committee, reported last week that approximately 70% of the letters sent out have been returned, favoring the extension of time for the proposed building project.

He reported that some of the letters have been returned due to the change of address or death of persons, originally subscribing to the project.

Mr. McVay indicated that most of the letters were not only signed and returned promptly but that encouraging personal notes and letters were enclosed, indicating that most of the people still whole heartedly endorse the project.

Any persons who subscribed to the project and did not receive form extension letters are asked to contact Mr. McVay or another member of the committee shown above.

Boys' State Selections To Be Made

"Preliminary arrangements for sending Hilltop boys to Buckeye Boys' State, to be held June 18-28 at Ohio Wesleyan University, Delaware, are being made by four local groups, C. W. Wagner of Camp Chase Post announced last week.

Four Hilltop organizations which will each sponsor a boy to the annual American Legion 10-day convention are Hilltop Kiwanis Club, Hilltop Business Association, Camp Chase Post, American Legion, and Aguila Aerie No. 229, fraternal order of the Eagles.

Wagner reported that this marks the first year that more than three boys from the Hilltop will be sent to Boys' State. The Eagles, the new sponsoring organization, announced its intention of sending a boy recently.

Thirty-one boys in all will be sent from Franklin County. Eight hundred from Ohio are expected to take part in the American Legion leader-building program.

Selection of boys to represent the Hilltop will not be made until "after Apr. 10, nor possibly before the end of May," Wagner advised.

To qualify for selection, a boy must be in the 11th grade of school, must have an average grade of "C" or better and must be recommended or endorsed by his high school principal or faculty adviser.

He must possess qualities of scholarship, leadership, sportsmanship and courage for service. He should be qualified as a leader and organizer of school groups. He must have demonstrated during his high school attendance a preference for civics, public speaking or debate.

Buckeye Boys' State, now in its 13th year of operation is a project of the American Legion for the purpose of better educating future community leaders in the field of city, state and federal government.

In reality the 10-day convention is a short course in government, taught by practical application. Boys actually take over state, county and municipal offices, under supervision of incumbents.

Any other Hilltop organizations interested in sponsoring a boy to the convention are asked to contact C. W. Wagner, 667 Wiltshire-rd.

Hilltop boys who attended Boys' State last year are Clarkin, 135 N. Chase-av, McCrady, 178 S. Roys-av, Jack Hahnm, 239 S. Westgate-av.

Work to Start On Skidmore School Job

The contract for the construction of four rooms and alterations to Skidmore School has been let to Krause and Pagura, Inc., 1069 Cable-av, Sara Ely, Clerk of the Franklin County Board of Education announced Tuesday.

Work is to be started on the project immediately. Improvement of Skidmore School, having an enrollment of 280 children, has been planned since 1941, when the first bond issue passed, Mrs. Ely advised. The new four-room addition was postponed until after the war.

Other contractors are: Fayette Electrical Co., 1233 N. Wall-st, electrical work; Columbus Heating and Ventilating Co., heating; and Grif M. Lewis, 178 S. Westgate-av, plumbing.

Cost of the project was estimated at $73,847. Walker, Norwich and Templin, of Dayton, are architects for the project.

Golf Course To Be Ready Next Year

Phillip Stout, member of the City Recreation Commission, said last week that "the proposed new Hilltop 27-hole golf course will be a definite boost to the community."

Stouts' statement followed the recent purchase of the Jaeger country estate at Trabue and Wilson-rds by Assistant Attorney J. Baxter Evans, who was authorized by City Council and Mayor Rhodes.

Stout added that preliminary arrangements show that work will be started almost immediately on the project. He indicated that nearly all the land was usable and could be easily and quickly converted to the golf course. The 18-hole and nine-hole golf courses are expected to be completed "early in 1950."

Twenty-five acres of the 215 acre tract will be used for a public park. The park will be equipped with complete sanitary and picnicking facilities, Stout added.

The estate's two-story banquet hall, which measures 40 by 100 feet, will be converted to a club house, with locker rooms on the first floor. Locker rooms will be for the use of golfers.

Joe Thomas, manager of the Twin Rivers municipal links, asserted that the 18-hole course will be a "good, tough championship course." He thought the nine-holer will be "one of the best short courses in the ... West."

Evans said the land ... bought with $60,000 ... sued from the gene... $27,500 from the ... partment, voted ...

West Jr. Lines Up Ball Club

By Dave Miller

Baseball started this past week for West Junior's hopefuls, under Coach Red Lehman. He has six men back from last year's team with reserve letters.

About 26 boys are still trying out for positions and in a few days that number will be chopped to 16 in order that Coach Lehman may use his full supply of uniforms.

Candidates include Fred Ladrer, Russ Gardner, Fred Lance, Jack Smoothers and Jack Pope, pitchers; Walt Meredith, Donn Crabb and Ken Garber, catchers; Dick Hutchison, Eddie Gleibs, Neil Crabb, Lee Howells, Louis Proper, Dick Orr, Ellis Easterly, Billy Voss and Jimmy Vincent, infielder, and Jim Kimball, Glen Hays, Jim Murray, Bob Thornton, Durward Vincent, Wayne Groce and Jim Hader, outfielders.

Reserve lettermen back include Gleibs, Hutchison, Meredith, Voss, Thornton. Ladrer, a southpaw pitcher, won two and lost one for Franklin last season. He received a letter there.

Walt Meredith at first glance appears to be the best catcher. He will be helped by Neil Crabb.

Besides Ladrer on the mound, Lehman has a choice of outfielder-pitcher Bob Thornton, or little Russell Gardner.

At first base it's a tough choice between Ed Gliebs, Bill Haire and Neil Crabb, with the former out front at this writing.

Second base is nearly sewed up. Dick Hutchison looks like the choice. Lee Howells is still contending.

At shortstop it will be either seventh-grader Jimmy Vincent or Bill Voss.

At third base it's either Dick Orr or Ellis Easterly.

In the outfield Jim Kimball, Bob Thornton and Glen Hays seem certain for positions. Others still in the battle include Wayne Groce, Jim Murray and Durwood Vinson.

The non-league schedule is not complete, but games will be played with Grandview Junior, Linden Junior and other surrounding schools.

In loop play this year the Juniors play six games, with their last game with Indianola not counting for the locals. The reason for this uneven schedule is that only five sets of games are played in the Junior High League.

League Schedule

Apr. 12—West vs. Champion at East.
Apr. 18—West vs. Roosevelt at East.
Apr. 26—Mound at West.
May 3—West vs. Starling at State Hospital.
May 10—West vs. Crestview at Indianola.
May 17—Indianola at West.

"Why is it that a judge has so little time left for himself?"

"I suppose it's because he is so busy."

Keep New Rome Fire Dept. Busy

The New Rome Fire Department "killed two birds with one stone" Monday night when firemen were called to Trabue and Wilson-rds to put out a fire in a truck driven by Russell Porter, 8181 Juanita-dr, Westerville. The fire, caused by a backfire in the carburetor, inflicted $300 damage.

On their way back to the fire house, firemen ran into another fire on wheels. This one was in a car driven by Leonard Hewitt 156 Woodlawn-av. Fire in this case caused by defective wiring caused damages estimated at $500.

"Don't say that, old man!" sputtered the friend. "Please, don't say that—don't end your last sentence with a preposition."

Get Top Grades At West

How to get good grades is a question that has stumped many a high school student for many years.

The 10 seniors shown above may not have all the right answers, but their grades at West High School prove that they're on the right track.

"You don't have to be a bookworm," according to Don Longmire, 573 Kimball-pl, and Robert Roller, 28 N. Burgess-av, but they do admit that "studying helps."

Don comes from Morgan, W. Va., elementary school, John Burroughs and West Junior, where his scholastic rating was also tops. He is president of the school's "L" honorary group and a member of the Triangle Club. He is a potential candidate for the National Honorary Society.

Robert Roller, a Highland Avenue and West Junior High School product, believes that "practical work is as important as constant studying for good grades." Don works as an assistant in a chemistry laboratory at West High.

The advice of Margaret Fisher, an all-A, four-point student, is that "students should take only subjects they enjoy." She added that "studies which best apply to one's ability are also an important factor."

"Never come to school without your homework" is the recommendation made by Rita Leibensperger. All Rita's class assignments are promptly written down and completed before she leaves for school the next day. Rita also advises students to do outside reading in addition to regular prescribed work.

Concentrating on her homework before other activities are enjoyed is the secret of Jackie Hardy's superior grades.

Ruth Layman advises students to do their homework as soon as they get home from school. Ruth is an office monitor, librarian and book exchange aide.

Harriet Wallace, another star student at West, follows this plan: "I generally read the assignment first, then outline the work on paper." Her ambition is to attend Capital U. and later to be an elementary teacher.

Pauline McClelland, Helen Gue and Barbara Coffey all think that serious concentrated study is one of the best methods of obtaining good grades.

Auto Crashes Into Local Restaurant

Damage estimated at $5000 resulted early Mar. 25, when a car crashed through the front of the Dot Restaurant, 870 Harrisburg-pk.

All plates and glasses smashed, telephone ripped from wall, a large icebox destroyed, two freezers heavily damaged, cash register demolished, stools and counters knocked from floor and gas and electric connections broken.

Auto Tourist: "I clearly had the right of way when this man ran into me, and yet you say I was to blame."

Local Cop: "You certainly [illegible]"

Autoist: "Why?"

Local Cop: "Because his father is mayor, his brother is chief of police, and I go with his sister."

West High To Open Baseball Season With East Tilt Apr. 8

By Dave Miller

Spring baseball practice got under way Tuesday when candidates from West Junior, Starling, the American Legion and Knothole teams met for an initial session, prior to the first game Apr. 8 with East, at Harley Field.

Nine lettermen reported from West Junior; four from the Junior High co-champions, Starling; and six from last year's City League co-champions.

Ron McElwee, a .385 batter for West Junior last year and top hitter on the teams, is expected to make a bid for an outfield post this season.

Others on hand will be Al Shade, an outfielder who hit a .200 for West Junior last year; Russ Friend, fiery second baseman; Chuck Liebensperger, a shortstop; Morris Dobbs, who played third base for the West Junior nine last season, but may play in the outfield this season; Ted Fladt, a pitcher, who won two and lost two last year; Jerry Johnson, right-handed first baseman; and Bill South, pitcher and outfielder.

From Starling come third baseman Marvin, infielder Chuck Martin and infielder Dwight Reynolds. Returning varsity lettermen from the 1948 West team include Dick Kirk, an outfielder, who was second in hitting on the team with a .303 mark and who made the all-city team; Jack Pickens, strong-armed shortstop, who covered the position all last year with the exception of an absence in the middle of the season due to a cut hand and a spiked ankle.

Pickens was third highest batter on the team with a .299 mark. Dick Culbertson is expected to hold down the first base spot this season after hitting a .272 average last year. The other returning lettermah is Phil Young, who won four and lost one last season, after pitching 30 innings. He also pitched two one-hitters, one against East and the other against Rosary.

Two other ball players who received reserve letters and who are back this year are Bill Thrush, a third baseman, and Don Natzger, catcher. Others who played on the team last season but who were not included in awards, are catcher, Paul Thompson; outfielder-pitcher, Paul Ellingsworth; second baseman, Jim Burke; shortstop, Dave Caton, and first baseman Jack Winnestaffer

Other players not on any teams during school time last year, but active in American Legion and Knothole, include Dick Ankrum, Bob Birle and Eugene Morris, catchers; Jim Hamrick and John Wilkes, pitchers; Irven Denune and Fred Fenneken, infielders; Wade Williams, George Schmidt; Ed Easterly; Tommy Wright and Tom Roberts, all outfielders.

The non-league schedule this season was talked over at the basketball tournament this past week and Coach Williams reports that the games will not be set on permanent dates. Weather and agreement of two schools will determine whether a game will be played.

The City League schedule of 12 games was made up last week and will start Apr. 8, with the Cowboys tasking to East's Harley Field.

A practice game was played Tuesday afternoon in order that Coach George Williams could view his prospects in their first test of action.

Non-league tilts this year will be played with Grandview, Upper Arlington, Chillicothe and Newark, with the home and home system in effect. Following is the city League schedule:

Apr. 8—At East.
Apr. 12—Linden McKinley.
Apr. 19—At Central.
Apr. 22—North.
Apr. 26—At Aquinas.
May 3—South.
May 10—East.
May 13—At Linden McKinley.
May 16—Central.
May 20—At North.
May 24—Aquinas.
May 31—At South.

Track Squad Begins Practice At Starling

Twenty-five boys reported for the track team at the first meeting Mar. 23. Two meets are scheduled for this year, the Central Invitational and the City Meet. The Central Invitational will be held May 20, with Mound, Everett and Starling participating.

Practice will be held each evening at the Central High School tracks for the 100 and 220 yard dash, the 440 and 880 yard relay, broad jump, high jump, shot put, 120 yard low hurdles and the one-half mile run.

Two lettermen who reported with the new recruits are Earl Spriggs and Bill Redick. C. M. Puce is the coach.

John Lehner Is New President Of Past Commanders

John A. Lehner, 2490 Valleyview-dr, was named president of the Past Post Commanders of the American Legion Club of Franklin County this week at Memorial Hall at the annual meeting.

Other officers elected were Claude Rhodes, vice-president; D. Clark Finneran, secretary and treasurer, and W. S. Lyman, sergeant-at-arms.

Pins Buffalo Bowlers

Most of the bowlers seem buffaloed this week since the new pins have been put up. This week I will post some of the standings as we enter the last six weeks of the season. There are a couple of items I would like to report.

Dick Ardle

Gene Harold had a 254 game in the Sunday night Mixed League. Gary Swisher, eight-year-old son of Joe Swisher had a 152 game and a 340 total with his pint-size ball Saturday while bowling with the Stetson's team.

We would like to congratulate the two girls' and two boys' teams that rolled in the fourth annual Invitational Tournament on the fine show they put on Saturday afternoon. Dick Ritter of McGregor had 605 for one of his best series this year. Here's the way the four teams faired.

Wins the Glass Egg . . .

Among the stirring utterances noted in connection with the frantic effort of newspaper men and radio commentators to fathom the meaning behind the shift in personnel in Moscow one runs across this:

"It could mean either a softening or toughening of Russian policy toward the West,"—from the writing of John M. Hightower, the Associated Press man who, one suspects, must find some news in events whether there is anything to report or not.

A statement that the Russian change means a softening or a toughening is equivalent to a Stock Market expert saying that the trend of prices would be either up or down. This may be strictly accurate but it is hardly news to the reader and does little to enhance the reputation of the forecaster.

She was a woman of few words, but often.

He: "Look! Our captain is going to kick a goal."
She: "What did the goal do?"

"How would you like to learn to ski?"
"Oh, I'd jump at the chance."

He's a hard-headed business man—solid concrete.

NEW SONGS

I used to walk these hills in early morning,
And where the dogwood and the maple stood
I listened to the secret songs of nature,
Come drifting through the lazy, spring-soft wood.
But then I caught new songs through morning silence
That fired my blood to flame beyond belief,
They filled my heart with burning, hot emotion
And seared my soul with livid drops of grief.
Man-made, they rose above the sounds of nature,
The ancient songs of war were heard again,
And all the curse of turmoil and destruction
Brought heartbreak to the weary souls of men.

Joseph B. Roberts, Jr., in FAINT VOICE CALLING.

FIRST HARBINGER

A cold March wind whistled
Down the garden path.
Such a dreary day it was,
And then I heard a laugh,
Soft and clear and merry.
I set aside my broom
And rushed outside to welcome
A yellow crocus bloom.

THE BIRDS HAVE COME

The birds have come and now a startled sky,
Grown dreamy from the silence of the snow,
Is wakened by a rush of beating wings
As bits of latent song flick to and fro.

Already earth is touched with spring, although
The snow remains, a cold and jealous king,
For fragments of the sweet and sunny south
Spill earthward from each slender, clear-cut wing.

STAR-SET OVER A MOUNTAIN

THE WICK BURNS LOW

Pull the latch and click the lock.
The wick burns low;
Draw your shawl about your face
Before we go . . . .
Turn and take a last long look;
Softly close the gate,
Do not linger on the path,
Day grows late.
Other faces at the pane
Will scan the evening sky . . .
Pluck the last rose from the vine
And so . . . goodbye.

Marietta Conway Kennard, in THE PEN WOMAN

I REMEMBER . . .

By THE OLD-TIMERS

From R. O. (Dick) Heiwig: "I remember when kids used to gather in front of the house after a wedding and serenade the new bride and groom with discordant noises made with kettles, tin horns, etc., until the groom would toss out a handful of pennies. This was supposed to bring good luck. Sometimes the pennies were red hot and couldn't be picked up for a long time. This ceremony was called a shivari, spelled it as it was pronounced. Through the years we learned that the correct spelling is charivari, when means a mock [illegible]."

From Henry H. Vocke: "When a new building was under construction the plasterers would mix the lump lime in a big box and soak it with water overnight to dissolve the lumps. They always covered the mixture with a layer of sand. Many a time I got pushed in."

From Evangeline Sedgwick: "I remember those winter days of long ago when the kids used to play on 'rubber ice' in some stream or creek. The writer doesn't see this any more. Is this an oversight on her part, or is 'rubber ice' a thing of the past, too?"

From Evangeline Sedgwick: "I remember the penny-a-cake days of Fleischmann's yeast. Also, Arbuckle coffee, James Pyle company packaged soap powder, packaged oat meal and the porcelain white window letters of Salada Tea company that outlasted them all."

Dale Carnegie

Author of "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS and INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

THE JOY OF FORGIVING

IF YOU can forgive an injury, great or small, you have a beautiful nature. I mean actually forgive, not merely humble yourself. We may not be saintly enough to love our enemies, but for the sake of our own health and happiness, we should at least forgive and forget. And we can't forget unless we forgive, and the other way around.

D. Carnegie

The late William Lyon Phelps, the most popular professor in Yale's history, sold himself on forgiving his enemies by declaring that he was not going to let his enemies determine whether or not he should be happy. He said:

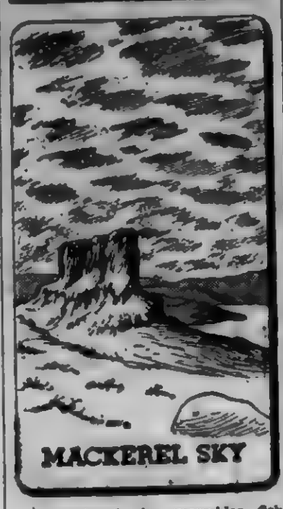
"I do not intend to let other people, especially those who do not like me, determine whether I shall have peace of mind or not. If someone reports to you a malicious word, and in consequence of that you become unhappy, you have allowed another person to hold the key to your heart, to settle whether you shall be happy or not. I insist upon determining that question for myself, and you should do the same for yourself."

England's celebrated prime minister, Disraeli, ignored the vicious attacks made upon him by John Leech, the cartoonist — attacks that continued for 30 years, ridiculing Disraeli as a monkey and a clown, "a village seducer." But years later, when Disraeli learned that the children of John Leech were in desperate need, he obtained a pension for them.

Also, Disraeli bestowed the highest honor within his power on Thomas Carlyle — the same Carlyle who had once cried out in print: "How long will John Bull suffer this absurd monkey to dance on his chest?"

One of Disraeli's friends protested against his rewarding calumny with charity and honors. Disraeli replied, "I never trouble to be avenged. When a man injures me, I write his name on a card and lock the card up in a drawer. Later I take it out and marvel at how many men who have tried to injure me have the knack of disappearing."

Don't you find these stories of great men conquering common weaknesses inspirational? I do, for they set me to thinking of noble traits.



"That," said the guide at the art museum, "is a picture of A Gentleman, executed by Y. Stimpf".

Good for him; I'd have done it myself."

Old lady (at ball game): "Why do they call that a fowl? I don't see any feathers."

Fan: "No ma'am. It's a picked fine."

KNOW YOUR WEATHER

A mackerel sky resembles fish scales. It has a wet look that is often made good by a slow-moving warm front miles in back of it. "Mackerel scales and mare's tails make lofty ships carry low sails." In other words a storm is approaching.

Sophs Win Intraclass Basketball Crown

The underdog girls' sophomore basketball team emerged victorious in the annual intraclass basketball tournament held recently in the West High gymnasium by defeating the seniors and juniors in their almost triumphal attempt to capture the school laurels.

Defeating the seniors in a preliminary contest 17 to 13, and then trouncing the juniors, 22 to 10, the lower classmen brilliantly exhibited their ability.

The first game, the sophomore-senior tilt, was nip and tuck up to the 4th quarter when the sophomores began pulling away. The high-secrer of the contest was Janet Patton of the seniors, who racked up 11 points. She was followed by Bobbie Graves of the sophomores with eight tallies.

The final tournament deciding game was the junior-soph encounter. Although the juniors put up a stiff fight, it was evident that the sophomores were a better team. The girls scoring the most points in this struggle were "Pokey" Jenning of the sophomores and Betty Roederer of the juniors, with three buckets each, a total of six points.

OUR STATION IN LIFE

Our station in life, this New Year?
To love God more each day.
To serve Him better—have more faith
In asking, when we pray.

To live in true humility:
Keep strong for every blow . . .
And for each unkind word or deed
Some beauteous grace bestow.

As we also would be forgiven—
Be ready to forgive:
Free from resentment . . . bitterness—
With love for mankind live.

To do each task though great or small,
The ones that are so near . . .
To walk with understanding heart—
This is our station here.

Ethel Titus Worthen.

HOBBY SHOW

Enthusiasm is being shown for the Hobby Show, to be held on Apr. 6 and 7. Hobbies will include stamp collections, dog picture collections, wooden figures and clay modeling. Pupils are asked not to bring overseas war souvenirs, picture collections of movie stars and the usual scrap books. They require too much space and crowd those more unusual exhibits. Also valuable coins are not to be included, except at the risk of the owner. Mrs. Mary Ann Wiseman, the librarian, is in charge of the show.

The talent show try-outs will be held on Mar. 29. Tickets for the show are 25c. Verna Adams, Garnette Geis and Connie Sonners will represent Starling.

The Y-Teens and Hi-Y's held a dance in the school gym Mar. 24. Thirty-five persons attended. There was dancing from 7 to 9:30, followed by refreshments. Miss Forbes and Mr. Pittinger, club advisers, attended the party.

SPRING FESTIVAL

A mixed chorus of 75 boys and girls from the Bass Boys, Boys' Chorus and Girls' Glee Club will sing for the Spring Festival, May 7 and 8. On the program will be "The Builder" by Charles W. Cadman, "Serenade" by Sigmund Romberg, and "Saber Song" by Frank Kotte. They will be directed by Mrs. Gertrude Woodin.

Cpl. Donald Lee Henderson arrived home Mar. 26 for a 10-day furlough before changing camps. He has been stationed at Scott Airfield Base, Belville, Ill.

At the termination of the furlough he will be sent to Keesler Air Base, Biloxi, Miss. He will be in the Airplane Engine Mechanic School. Cpl. Henderson is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Henderson, 32 Belvidere-av, and a graduate of West High School in the June '48 class.

BIBLE COMMENT
FOR APRIL 3

Religion of Jesus Is Matter for Joy, Not One of Gloom

SOME time ago, discussion arose among a group of ministers concerning the exact nature of the ministry and work of Jesus, and impliedly the demands of Christ upon ourselves.

A paper had been read in which the writer took exception to the common portrayal of Jesus as the gentle Christ, the Christ of the fields and flowers, the Christ of pleasant and leisurely journeying with His disciples, and the discussions and teachings by the way. He emphasized the sterner aspects of the gospel in the portrayal of the perils and dangers, the sufferings and sacrifice, and the climax of that sacrificial experience, the Crucifixion.

The strong impression was of the necessity of seeing Jesus in both these aspects. The shadow of the Cross was undoubtedly upon Him from the beginning, even as Simeon had predicted the sword that should pierce Mary's heart (Luke 2:35), but He was the gentle Christ, the lover of the out-of-doors, the fields and flowers, the blesser of little children, the visitor in homes, and the amiable companion.

But the ministry of Jesus moved toward the Cross. He came not only to minister, but to give His life a ransom for many. It is remarkable how disproportionate a part of the four Gospels, so far as actual pages and space are concerned, is taken up with the happenings of the last week or so before Calvary, and especially the very last days.

Those who would truly be disciples of Jesus must be as their Master. "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross and follow me."

But the religion of Jesus, even in its sacrificial demands, is not a matter of gloom. Paul, who was a supreme disciple, sounds constantly the note of joy. That is the paradox of the Christian experience and the Christian way—that the religion of the Cross should be the religion of joy, of gentleness and peace, of inward satisfaction, of rejoicing in all that God has given in nature and grace for enjoyment and blessing.

"EASY DOES IT"

By HELEN HELE

FIBER porch rugs will give longer and more satisfactory wear if they are coated with clear shellac before using. Repeat the coating each year before using.

Adhesive tape may be readily removed with nail polish remover or cleaning fluid. If using the latter make certain you are away from flame and fire as well as escaping gas.

To avoid polishing decorative copper pieces, have them sprayed with clear lacquer.

To remove rust from garden furniture and other wrought iron pieces, rub with coarse sandpaper, steel wool or an emergy cloth. If the rust is heavy, coak in oil, but remove oil before cleaning.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Rhubarb Pie
(Makes 1 9-inch pie)
4 cups rhubarb, cut
6 tablespoons flour
1¼ cups sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Mix rhubarb, cut into ½-inch lengths, with sugar and flour. Pour into a pastry pan lined with pastry. Dot with butter. Cover with a top crust which has openings in it. Bake in a 425° F. oven for 45 minutes.

When starching curtains, dip all curtains for a window in the starch at the same time so they will all have the same amount of starch.

If bureau drawers stick, rub soap or wax on the sides and bottoms so they will slip in and out easily.

Glue stains are removed simply from washable articles if they are sponged with warm water applied with a soft brush. Repeat the treatment.

If cleaning materials are kept in a cart with a handle or in a toy wagon, they will be easier to move around on cleaning day. This will also keep everything assembled efficiently.

When carpet sweeper brushes become clogged with thread and pieces of string, run a scissors lengthwise between the bristles and cut the threads off. Brush out the cut pieces.

An oiled polishing cloth kept in a glass jar with a cover will keep in good condition and will not stain other articles.

Bread should be kept in cool, ventilated boxes for best storage. Refrigerate in the summer time.

FOREIGN POLICY

The Romans paved their roads with stone
And built their bridges stout,
Then walled their ancient cities in
To keep the neighbors out.

Today the walls lie crumbled low
As if they had not been,
But those same roads reach ever out
To bring the neighbors in.

Schedule Of TV Programs Announced

When commercial operation of Crosley Television Station WLW-C, new Columbus television station of the Crosley Broadcasting Corporation, begins next Sunday, Apr. 3, the third link in a regional video network will be completed.

The television network includes WLW-T in Cincinnati, WLW-D in Dayton, and WLW-C in Columbus, all linked by a microwave relay setup which permits interchange of programs among stations.

WLW-C will carry between 25 and 30 hours of weekly programming. The greater part of the WLW-C programming will consist of local programs from WLW-T, sister station in Cincinnati; plus NBC kinescope features, including "Broadway Revue," "Philco Television Playhouse," "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," and "Texaco Star Theater."

Among WLW-T shows to be carried in Columbus are "'49, the Magazine of Television," "Junior Jamboree," "Curtain Time" and "The Bob Duane and Paul Jones Show," "Video Varieties," Olympus Minstrels," "Garden Time," "Baldwin By Request," "Comedy Time," "Nothing For Granted" and "What's Your Verdict?"

Operating on Channel 3, WLW-C will bring television programs to people living in and around Columbus, when studios, now under construction, are completed.

The studio building is expected to be completed some time this summer.

However, local programs conducted in Columbus will be telecast before completion of its studio building. By means of a specially equipped mobile unit, sporting and special events may be telecast from WLW-C without use of the microwave relay system. Films also can be telecast from the transmitter site.

When the WLW-C studio building is completed, intensive local programming of events in the Columbus area and use of talent from that section will begin.

"Travel Time", an hour program of selected educational and entertainment films, will open the Sunday telecast at 3:30 p. m., to be followed by "Garden Time", a half-hour show with host Ken Linn introducing experts on various phases of gardening, who show planting, flower arrangements and decorations.

"Garden Time" will conclude at 5:30 p. m. At 8:00 p. m. a half-hour comedy film will be shown. "Olympus Minstrels," a WLW-T production reviving the days of burnt cork, black face, and end men, will carry until 9 p. m. when the hour-long "Philco Television Playhouse" will be shown.

First day of WLW-C telecast will end at 10:15 p. m. with conclusion of the "Baldwin By Request" program.

Hilltopper Is First Witness To Circleville Fire

First eye-witness to the disastrous fire near Circleville when a family of five perished, was Mrs. Thelma Kuhn, owner of the Hilltop Tune Shop, 2392 W. Broad-st, who passed near the burning farm-house on her way to work the morning of Mar. 24. Mrs. Kuhn was accompanied by her husband, an employe of the State Department.

"We couldn't get near the fire, the heat was too intense," Mrs. Kuhn said. She reported that flames could be seen for a distance of three miles.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff of Pickaway County said the blaze apparently was caused by an explosion of a coal stove, when Mrs. Leonard Estep attempted to light the stove with kerosene.

Victims of the fire were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Estep and their three young children, all under six years of age

Since the fire, Mrs. Kuhn, who lives two miles west of Commercial Point, has been attempting to enlist the aid of officials in the area to sponsor a chemical fire-fighting truck.

At the present time the nearest fire-fighting equipment is in Circleville, 12 miles north of the farm destroyed by fire.

Mrs. Kuhn hopes the truck may be purchased by donations from farmers in the Commercial Point vicinity.

Hilliards Seeks New Inhalator

Residents of Hilliards and surrounding communities are soliciting funds for an inhalator to be used in the territory served by the Norwich, Brown and Hilliards Fire Association.

Operating the inhalator will be 27 members of the above-named fire association. All of the men have had regular and advanced first aid training and six of this group have special training in this line of duty.

The proposed new inhalator truck will be equipped for all emergencies, carrying such equipment as an inhalator, stretchers, blankets, complete first aid materials, cutting torches and fire extinguishers.

Chairman of the project is Austin White. Assisting him are associate chairmen, Charles Spring, Hilliards; Carl Shoemaker, Norwich; Walter Latham, Brown; and Gaymon Wright, Washington. Basil Johnson is in charge of solicitation of funds.

Approximately $2500 is needed for the project. Donations can be made by contacting the Chamber of Commerce president, Austin White; Fire Chief Harold Michel; or any of the above named committeemen.

A soiled and wobbly tramp happened to drift into the side door of a gymnasium where an acrobat was practicing.

When the acrobat had finished a round of flip-flap and full twisting somersault, the wayfarer approached him and exclaimed sympathetically, "Don't worry. I just drank some of the same stuff and I got over it."

Accused (just acquitted, to counsel: "Thanks awfully, old man. What on earth would I have done without you?"

Counsel: "Oh, about five years."

"You sit down on all my jokes."

"I wouldn't if they had a point to them."

Ronnie Takes a Chance
A SHORT-SHORT STORY
By DANIEL F. LINDSAY

RONNIE BROWN raced into the offices of the Smithville Daily Chronicle. Racing was Ronnie's usual rate of speed. He was sixteen. Had he taken time to walk, he might have had time to think. This, I am sure, never had occurred to him. He slid to a full stop in front of Tom Brennan's desk. Tom was the editor, chief reporter and owner of the Chronicle.

He looked up as Ronnie adjusted his clothing.

"What's up this morning, Fashion Plate?"

"Oh nothing much." He feigned nonchalance. "Just a scoop for yours truly. That's all."

"A scoop?" Tom looked mildly interested. "Where, who and how?"

Racing was Ronnie's usual rate of speed.

"Charlie Slater and his wife are getting a divorce." He emphasized this last. "And it's over another woman."

"That's no scoop. It's dirty linen." Tom stared at him coldly. "We don't wash it in the Chronicle. You know that." He lowered his head again.

"Wait a minute," Ronnie insisted. "The other woman is only six years old."

"Well, why didn't you say so?"

Ronnie leaned back with a self-satisfied grin. "I got it from Pop. He and Mom were talking last night. Pop is handling Mrs. Slater's defense or whatever you call it. Anyway they are getting a divorce because Charlie won't let her adopt her niece."

"Why doesn't her sister raise her own kid?"

"They won't let her. She's been in a lot of trouble and the court has decided if Mrs. Slater won't take her she will have to go to the Orphans' Home."

Tom let out a low whistle. "Mrs. Slater must have some sister."

"I guess so," Ronnie admitted. "Whenever they talk about her I have to leave the room."

"I bet it." He laughed at Ronnie's hopeful expression. "But I'm not letting you in on it. You can get the facts of life from your Dad."

"Well, then," he sighed dismally. "How about the story? Can I write it up?"

Tom stared into space thoughtfully for a minute. "It hasn't come to court yet, has it?"

"It comes up this morning. I heard Pop say so."

"Well, then," he smiled, "you cover it as it comes out in court."

Ronnie couldn't believe his ears. "You mean I can handle it alone?"

"You'll have to." He didn't look too happy about it. "I've got to go to the capitol this morning. It might take me all day."

"Look, Ronnie." He stared at Ronnie doubtfully. "I'm not too sure about leaving this thing to you."

"Oh I'll be all right, Tom." Ronnie attempted to look older than he was. "Just leave it all to me. I can handle it for you."

"Okay, son, only remember. One dumb trick and we could lose the respect of the whole community. Not to mention a lawsuit which could cost me my newspaper."

"When you leave call the operator and ask her to put any calls for the paper through to you at the courthouse. Just report exactly what happens in that court room. Nothing more. Above all, no personal opinions. Have it ready for Jack to set up when he comes in at one o'clock."

He started for the door. "Oh, yeah." He turned around. "In the right hand corner of my middle drawer you'll find a card you might need."

Ronnie waited until his car had pulled away and made a dive for the desk. There it was. Ronnie grew two inches in half a minute. It was a press card, with his name on it.

At ten minutes until nine Ronnie entered the county courthouse.

The proceedings consumed nearly an hour. It was a busy hour for him. He tried to get every word spoken into his note book.

He hurried back to the Chronicle office and sat down at the battered old typewriter. After two hours of banging on it, he looked up. It was noon.

At one o'clock he had to swallow his pride and help the pressman.

At four o'clock they were all out and on the street.

Ronnie grabbed a copy, as he had seen Tom do, and sinking back into a chair read every line. He was amazed at his own daring as he read the write-up on the divorce proceedings. His cockiness oozed out of him. It didn't seem such a good idea to take matters in his own hands as it had seemed before the paper went to press.

At four-thirty Tom burst into the office with murder in his eye. "Ronnie!" he exploded, "what got into you?"

"What do you mean? It looks pretty good to me." He eyed Tom warily.

"It would." He sank into his chair. "Oh, brother! This should stir up something!" He stared moodily at the desk. "I guess it's all my own fault. I ought to have known better than to leave a sixteen-year-old with a newspaper."

Ronnie got a sick feeling in the pit of his stomach.

"Tom?" He smiled weakly. "I hope it won't cause you any trouble."

"It won't, will it?"

"I don't know, boy." Tom held his head. "Time will tell."

Ronnie took out his press card and laid it on the desk.

"I—I'll see you later, Tom. If I can help let me know."

Tom looked up sensing the utter defeat in Ronnie's voice.

"Pick up your card, boy. Every newspaper man has to learn from mistakes. How do you think I learned about personal opinions?"

Ronnie shook his head.

"From just such a stunt as yours. Only it was a murder case. I picked the wrong guy!" He smiled faintly. "I got canned."

"But I've still got a job?" Ronnie's hopes started to rise.

"Maybe. If I've still got a newspaper you have."

Ronnie felt sick again.

They both turned as the door opened. It was Charlie Slater and his wife. Ronnie swallowed hard. Tom braced himself.

Charlie spoke first. "Tom, did you write that story about us in the paper this afternoon?"

"No, sir," Ronnie interrupted Tom, "I wrote it while he was up at the capitol."

"Why?"

"Why, I don't know." Ronnie racked his brain. "I just said what I thought, I guess."

Mrs. Slater laughed. "We kinda thought it was you Ronnie."

Ronnie began to feel a bit better.

"Anyway," Charlie smiled, "to make a long story short, we decided if a sixteen-year-old lad thought we were a couple of fools, maybe we were."

"And," she finished it for him, "we want to thank you."

Ronnie heaved a sigh of relief. They all laughed.

Just Garden Talk

By W. H. Lindberg

The spring planting time is definitely here. The only thing that we have to wait for now is the ground to dry out enough for suitable handling.

There is no need to remind the gardeners of long standing that the earlier you get your vegetable garden planted the better, but this might be helpful to the new gardener. As soon as you can work the ground, plant your early garden peas, spinach, onions, radishes and lettuce.

If you plan to put out bare root roses (not potted) you can plant them any time now. Give them a spot in the garden where they will get plenty of sunshine and where the soil has plenty of drainage. If the drainage isn't there, make it. Roses will not do well where the soil is saturated all the time. The general opinion is that roses like dry soil. It has been my experience that almost any kind of soil will do as long as there is sufficient drainage and a mulch on the ground to keep the soil cool.

When you plant new roses be sure to get the graft below the normal level of the bed or at least to it. Then hill up about three or four inches of soil about the plant until you can be sure the weather man won't play any tricks. The best fertilizer you can use in the rose bed is well rotted cow manure. I'll go into greater detail next week on rose culture.

Hilltop Record Editorial Writer Is Head of Own Research Bureau

Myron T. Seifert

A member of The Hilltop Record editorial staff, Myron T. Seifert, 46 S. Westgate-av, probably has read more local newspapers and has utilized his readings in more chanels than any other Columbus citizen.

Twenty-five years ago Myron, fresh out of college, decided upon teaching as his career and his home town, Bremen, in Fairfield County, invited him to return as teacher and principal of its high school, from which he had graduated. As a necessary part of his teaching of social sciences, English and journalism, he instituted a one-man newspaper research bureau, which he has maintained to the present day.

During his four years as high school head in Bremen he not only carried on his newspaper research projects but contributed much of the editorial copy for the Lancaster Eagle, now the Eagle-Gazette, later becoming a daily columnist during the Lancaster editorship of Cal Lyons, now with the Columbus Citizen.

Coming to the Columbus public schools in 1928, and receiving his master's degree from Ohio State at the same time, Seifert carried on journalistic research with the late Drs. Oaman Hooper and Joseph Myers from Ohio State University, of the journalism department there.

Dr. James Pollard, present head of the Ohio State journalism college, learning of Mr. Seifert's efforts, advised him to set up a system whereby newspapers could utilize much of the material as background copy for current stories and also encouraged him to free-lance much of his research into present-day stories.

This resulted in his writing a daily column for the Columbus Citizen (when Ted Evans was editor back in depression days) at $1 a column".

The late Harry Keyes of the Dispatch, then with the Citizen staff, illustrated Seifert's stories for a couple of years. This was during his tenure as teacher at Starling Junior High School, when R. W. Emswiler, now Ohio high school athletic commissioner, was principal, and George Roudebush was assistant superintendent of schools.

By this time Seifert had begun to set up a newspaper research library that commanded much attention and a great deal of use.

He had catalogued hundreds of thousands of stories which he had examined from among dozens of Columbus newspapers which had been in existence since 1811. Inquiry about many things came to his attention, such as old wills published in local papers 100 years ago, genealogies, criminal records, murders, etc. His records showed the story of a great city in the making, and this unique news bureau paved the way for a job that would eventually play a part in preserving a record of the growth of Columbus.

Eventually Seifert plans to turn over his mammoth collection to the Franklin County Historical Society, of which he was one of the original incorporators.

Coming to West High School in 1936 the invitation of the late Dr. H. H. Reighley, to take over the journalism work, Seifert carried on his news research, and during this period specialized largely in doing research for the Columbus Dispatch.

At the present time he is the special indexer of the Columbus Dispatch and keeps a regular catalogued file of most of the Dispatch news columns.

Girl Missing One Year May Live Here

Blonde-haired, blue-eyed Bertina (Bobby) Boggess, missing almost a year from her home in Grove City, may be living on the Hilltop, according to a report received by the young girl's mother, Mrs. William Boggess recently.

A niece of the girl's mother reported almost a month ago that she saw the 19-year-old girl board a bus on Sullivant-av.

In the meantime the distraught mother has been waiting anxiously for a letter or message from her daughter.

Bertina (known on the Hilltop as Bobby) left home last June when her parents refused to give her money for a trip to California.

At the time of her disappearance, one of her girl friends reported to Mrs. Boggess that her daughter had left for Cincinnati. Since that time she has neither seen nor heard from the young girl.

Mrs. Boggess describes her daughter as 5 feet, 5 inches tall, slightly heavy in weight, fair complexioned with blonde hair and blue eyes. She has a scar on the corner of one eye

Any Hilltoppers knowing the whereabouts of this girl are asked to contact Mrs. Boggess or the Hilltop Record.

The Boggess family formerly lived in the 400 block on Belvidere-av. Bobby is a former employe of the State Hospital.

YMCA Board Member Has Practiced Medicine 55 Years

One of the most familiar physicians on the Hilltop is Dr. Howard Whitehead, who on Apr. 3 celebrated his 55th anniversary here.

Dr. Whitehead has the distinction of being the first Hilltop doctor, and for some time the only one in this vicinity.

Coming to the Hilltop from Westerville in 1893, with his father, he began studying medicine at the old Starling Ohio Medical School, now incorporated into Ohio State University. He is listed as an alumnus of Ohio State.

He has noted quite a change in the Hilltop since his arrival in 1893. Some of the things he remembers are: Streetcars running only to the foot of the hill . . . Broad-st paved only to Central-av . . . and toll gates beyond the Big Four Railroad crossing.

Being the only Hilltop doctor in the early days didn't mean that business was rushing.

According to Dr. Whitehead, "Patients were rare. All my calls had to be made on foot, as there was no transportation available."

Long interested in church organization on the Hilltop, he is a charter member of the Glenwood Methodist Church and is a trustee of the Methodist Union in Columbus, an organization to aid in the establishment of new churches. He is chairman of the Church Support Committee of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club

An honor was bestowed on him last week when he was elected a director of the Hilltop YMCA.

He also served as a board member of the Central YMCA for 29 years

Dr. Howard Whitehead

After 55 years of medical work, he is still practicing in his office at 2241 W. Broad-st. He is a member of the Academy of Medicine, the Ohio State Medical Association and the American Medical Association.

Some of the first patients of Dr. Whitehead are still living on the Hilltop. Two of his earliest patients were Harry Michaels, 107 N. Terrace-av, and Mrs. Leonard Baird, 154 N. Burgess-av. The first baby Dr. Whitehead delivered was Carl Ham, who was born in 1893. Mr. Ham lives at 90 N. Eureka-av.

Ongaro Family Swamped With Congratulations for Son

By Doris McGill

Not even Frankie Ongaro, could be as thrilled and proud as his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ongaro, 57 Letchworth-av, are, of his recent success in winning the Old Gold Original Amateur Hour show, Mar. 30 at Memorial Hall.

"We've had hundreds of telephone calls, special delivery letters, and telegrams, congratulating Frankie on his success. I haven't even been able to get my dishes done," said Mrs. Ongaro, who says "1949 will always be remembered as their lucky year."

"We've had phone calls from as far as San Francisco congratulating Frankie and wishing him luck. My husband and I are too thrilled to even eat or sleep."

Meanwhile Frankie, the show-stopping young accordionist, is in Fort Wayne, Ind., entertaining with a travelling unit of the Old Gold Amateur Hour show. He has asked his mother to send him a list of persons, who have sent congratulatory notes, so that he can personally answer them.

Frankie's success was no surprise to Hilltoppers, who have watched him in West High School Variety shows, in Hilltop Minstrel shows, at local dinners, and organization meetings, where he was always regarded as top-flight entertainment

Frankie's been playing the accordion since he was nine years old and that plus his brand new Dollape accordion, which his parents gave him for Christmas, are, according to his mother, the main reasons for his success.

"Another important factor," said Mrs. Ongaro, "was the magnificent training Frankie had under James H. Melfi, 1017 W. Broad-st, his teacher, who has personally tutored and encouraged him for the past 10 years.

Mrs. Ongaro expressed a sincere appreciation for groups such as the Old Gold Amateur Hour program, which gives an opportunity for talented individuals to start up the ladder to success. "If it wouldn't have been for this show," she said, "Frankie might never have had a chance."

The young accordionist was among 44 other performers who competed in the amateur hour program, and gained national recognition on the ABC coast-to-coast broadcast

Nine other talented Columbus performers found jobs in professional ranks as the Citizen-WCOL talent search finals were held.

Popular West High School Art Director Will Retire

By Myron T. Seifert

Genial W. D. Campbell, 3000 W. Broad-st, popular art director at West High School, will be taking life a little easier after June, when he retires his art teaching position at West.

Practically an institution to West High students through the years, "Doc", as he is familarly known, has brought enjoyment and appreciation not found in books.

When questioned as to what his future plans were, "Doc" replied:

"First of all, I want to leisurely relax for about six months," and humorously added, "take an occasional puff on my favorite brand of cigars."

Scores of students who today ply their trades and professions in some phase of the fine arts, got their start from the guiding hand of Mr. Campbell during their high school days. A recital of the boys alone who were "processed" under Mr. Campbell's tutelage would fill a book.

Taking time out from his strenuous duties through the years to write a note to "his boys," he has kept in constant contact with many of them.

W. D. Campbell

Joseph R. Hutchinson, one of his former pupils, is director of the Mint Fine Arts Gallery, Charleston, N. C.

Enroute To Wedding Young Couple Lose Home and Car

A young couple enroute to their wedding in Chillicothe, Ohio, suffered a serious set-back Friday, when their future home, a trailer, packed full of wedding gifts, overturned causing considerable damage to the trailer and completely destroying most of the gifts.

Making matters worse a passing auto crashed into the bridegroom's car, while they were placing flares, causing serious damage and leaving the couple stranded, a few hours before their wedding.

The young bride-elect, Dorothy Sheets, niece of Mrs. E. C. Sheets, of Rome, and her finance hitched a ride with a neighboring farmer to Marion, where they caught a bus, arrived in time for the wedding.

They had to borrow a car for their honeymoon trip to New York.

Kiwanis Club Plans Easter Program

The Hilltop Kiwanis Club is planning a special Easter program for its noon meeting Apr. 14. Rev. Harold Dutt will be in charge of the program. Guests at the meeting will be the Hilltop Ministerial Association.

Guest speaker will be Bishop Lester Smith, retired bishop of the Methodist Church.

Kiwanis members are requested to invite their pastors as special guests for the program.

May Extend Hague Bus To Dibblee

Valleyview Council discussed Tuesday night a proposal to extend bus service on the Hague-av line from Sutton-av to Dibblee-av, Mayor Archibald Rodgers disclosed today.

The present Hague-av crosstown bus travels from Sullivant-av to Sutton-av, turns east to Harris-av, and west at Ridge-av, then proceeds south along Hague-av.

Residents north of Ridge-av have no transportation available to them.

Mayor Rodgers advised that action would be taken shortly to bring the matter to the attention of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co.

Kiwanis Club Begins Bible Train Project

A Bible train was started at the last meeting of the Hilltop Kiwanis Club, Thursday, Mar. 31. The movement was instigated following a talk by Rev. Jack Falkenberg, who spoke on the need for Bibles in Japan.

Seventy Bibles were donated at the meeting to start the movement. The plan is to take the Bible train project to the various Kiwanis Clubs in the city for their contributions.

It is the wish of Hilltop Kiwanis members that this movement become the state Kiwanis project for 1949.

Harold Fox of Fox's Food Shop, 2422 W. Broad-st, is chairman of the project. Other interested Hilltoppers who wish to donate Bibles or funds to the project are requested to contact Mr. Fox or another Kiwanis member.

Today's meeting of the Kiwanis Club will feature a talk by Judge James F. Bell. His subject will be "The Background of Communism."

Improvements Slated For Rec Centers

West Side and Hilltop youth can look forward this summer to a better recreation program, with more facilities available, than at any other time during the past.

Nick Barack, head of the City Recreation Department recently promised the city the best recreation program it has had in its history.

The $30,000 improvement job finished at Glenwood Recreaton Center will not be the only improved center available to West Siders. Westgate Park will be modernized in several areas. A new field house is planned, tennis courts will be improved, a hard surface play area will be installed and the Westgate wading pool will be reconditioned.

Other work projects for this year are: Complete grading, drainage, surfacing, seeding, fencing and relocation or installation of play equipment at Glenwood, Sunshine and Westgate playgrounds; developing of new playgrounds at Columbian and construction of hard surface play areas at Glenwood and Westgate; and reconditioning and modernization of wading pools at Sunshine and Westgate.

A new swimming pool at Sunshine Recreation Center is expected to be completed within the next two years. The pool will be constructed at the east end of the grounds.

The new field house to be constructed at Westgate will provide a shelter area, toilet facilities and storage rooms.

In addition to the above improvements, playgrounds all over town will be cleared of debris, fallen limbs, papers and leaves collected during the winter.

In regard to Community recreation programs, directors will attempt to take the emphasis off sports as the leading activity. It is the desire of the City Recreation Department to interest youths in crafts, nature study, dramatics, hiking and singing.

What you really want, of course, is to buy yellow margarine at the modest price it can be made for you, right in the churn—where the law permits! Until then, the makers of Nucoa refuse to add one penny of trick-package cost to this top-quality margarine.

And money isn't the only saving! With Nucoa's easy "bowl-mix" you can save time and bother by coloring two pounds together, make it just the degree of yellow you like; mold it in balls, squares or other shapes to suit your taste.

"And it colors so much more evenly!" women say.

Millions agree! Ask your grocer for Nucoa—America's most popular margarine.

Art Director

Co. as head window trimmer.

Albert Spencer was formerly with Walt Disney studios in Hollywood.

Richard Logan is in the sign division of the Motorists Mutual Insurance Co.

Gene Bice has an advertising agency in Detroit, Mich.

Ned Moore and Tom Calhoun, recent graduates are students with Fine Art majors in their studies at Ohio State. Ned is art editor of the Makio, yearbook at Ohio State.

His schedule, after retirement, calls for lecturing, especially in the field of interior decoration.

He also plans to teach private lessons in various phases of art, including crafts and gesso.

Many distinguished honors have been heaped on the distinguished teacher. He has made numerous contributions to the Columbus public school system.

Founding and conducting (circa 1911), the "Columbus Public School Orchestra," he auditioned from all Columbus 50 boys for nearly five years, who played symphony music, including Beethoven's Fifth Symphony (first movement), and Schubert's Unfinished Symphony (first movement). Critics of that period proclaimed this the only juvenile orchestra in the United States.

Meriting the "Advertising Club of St. Louis" award in 1928, a replica of the three-inch bronze medal presented to Capt. Charles Lindberg, was also given to Mr. Campbell.

Mr. Campbell was presented the medal at a luncheon given at Hotel Statler in St. Louis.

Supervising Hilltop youths from West High School on camping trips annually from 1939 to 1949 in the Adirondack Mountains and at Lake George of New York State over a period of 10 summers, Mr. Campbell's treks to this mountain region are traditional vacations for many boys.

A native of New York state, he was reared in Brooklyn, where he attended "Boys High School" there. He is also a graduate of Pratt Institute.

He was art director in the Columbus schools for 14 years (1907-1921), and introduced design and crafts into the local educational system. A pioneer in this work, he organized the art section of this Central Ohio Education Association.

He originated a series of talks for Redpath and Community Chautauquas on "Better Homes," and traveled throughout the Eastern section of the United States to bring to his listeners innovations in home improvements.

He has addressed advertising clubs on a wide variety of topics, and did a lecture series for "Associated Editors" of Chicago, and the National Furniture Association there, traveling on his tours as far West as Denver, Colo.

A painter and art critic of exceptional ability, Mr. Campbell is on a par with many of the high-ranking artists of the country.

He is not the only member of his family who is interested in the fine arts. Mrs. Campbell also is proficient. Daughter, Margaret is instructor in fine arts at Ohio State; and another daughter, Doris, wife of Dr. Quincy Brown, is also talented.

The United States built the first submarine ever to be employed in war in 1776.

The St. John Lutheran No. 1 team won the championship of the Lutheran Intermediate Basketball League, played at Starling Junior High on Monday nights, with an undefeated record of eight wins and no losses.

The team's leading scorers were Harry Bradley and Ronald McElwee, with 76 and 71 points, respectively.

In a post-season elimination tournament, St. John was defeated by Grace Lutheran, 25 to 20, after a tough battle. St. John's team was guilty of 23 personal fouls and thereby lost the game at the foul line although outscoring the opposition from the field, 18 to 12.

The boys were recipients of gold basketballs and letters, at a special presentation ceremony held during the Sunday School hour, Apr. 3, at St. John Lutheran Church. They also received their league championship award at the Lutheran Athletic Association banquet, held at St. Paul's Lutheran Athletic Association banquet, held at St. Paul's Lutheran Church Apr. 4.

John Apel, James Fielding, Kenneth Garber (captain), John Meservey, Russell Shonting and James Vincent of the St. John No. 2 team also received letters. Howard Bruckelmeyer, athletic director at St. John, was assisted by Howard Davis, who coached the teams.

West Track Squad Getting In Shape

Topped by two distance men and a sprinter, Coach Rufus Glass is building his 1949 West High track team around five holdovers from last year's team.

Bob Cochran and Bill Van Atta are the returning distance runners. Don Estle is the sprinter. Also on hand from the 1948 team are David Cockfield, high jumper, and Frank Carson, broad jumper.

From the reserves Glass can count on 13 experienced boys, but how they make the switch to the varsity remains to be seen. In this group are Greg Burke, Herb Carpenter, Bud Epps, Joe Jones, Clare Ashton, Carmine DeMatteo, Ronald James, Jim Miller, Cliff Vess, Bob Leubering and Bob Tewell.

The varsity trackmen swing into action Tuesday, meeting East at Harley field.
